BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Dec. 18 (Saturday).—(AP)—The Japanese foreign office disclosed today that United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew had delivered a second American note in connection with the sinking of the gunboat Panay. The nature of the new note was not made known, but it was understood to concern reports that the Panay had been machine gunned by Japanese launches before it sank. The note also was believed to have carried a strong protest against the reported boarding of the Panay by Japanese officers.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 18.—[Saturday].—A complete motion picture record of the sinking of the American gunboat Panay by Japanese warplanes last Sunday, including scenes showing Japanese army launches machine gunning the Panay as it was sinking, will be forwarded shortly to President Roosevelt and Claude A. Swanson, American secretary of the navy.

The photographic record, which is said to disprove Japanese claims that the sinking of the gunboat was an accident and that the Japanese did not attack the vessel with machine guns after several direct hits had been scored upon it by air bombs, already is in the hands of the American navy. It was presented to Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, United States naval commander here, by American newsreel men who were aboard the Panay at the time the attack was made.

U. S. Navy Begins Inquiry.

In addition to the movie record a series of still camera pictures of the incident, which were obtained by an American reporter aboard the Panay, also were turned over to Admiral Yarnell.

This photographic record of the incident which has so deeply affected relations between the two nations will be sent to Washington, D. C., with the findings of an official American naval court of inquiry which is investigating the incident here. The court of inquiry is taking testimony from more than seventy-five survivors of the Panay who arrived in Shanghai last evening aboard the American gunboat Oahu, sister ship of the Panay. Fifteen of the survivors were wounded.

The Oahu, accompanied by the British gunboat Ladybird and the Japanese destroyers Otori and Kasasagi, also carried the bodies of four victims of the Panay tragedy. They were Charles L. Ensminger, storekeeper of the Panay; Capt. C. H. Carlson of the Standard Oil vessel Meian; Sandro Sandri, Italian newspaper correspondent, and the Chinese quartermaster of one of the three Standard Oil vessels which were bombed at the same time as the Panay.

Survivors Tell Own Stories.

While the hearings of the naval court of inquiry were secret, the full story of what occurred on the Sunday afternoon of Dec. 12, when the Panay and the three Standard Oil company vessels were anchored about twenty miles up river from Nanking, was told to interviewers by American officers of the Panay.

They charged that the Japanese attack was deliberate; that after the Panay had been struck by several air bombs the Japanese planes returned and machine gunned survivors who were attempting to reach shore in small boats; that two Japanese

KRUGGEL PUTS $27,000 TAG ON AIRPORT LAND

Charges Trickery in Negotiations.

Arthur Kruggel, president of the Chicago Real Estate board and the impartial member of an appraisal committee picked to determine the value of 2.78 acres of land needed by the city for expansion of Chicago airport, yesterday repudiated as a trick an appraisal that carried his signature as president of the realty board placing the value of the land at $65,000.

His personal appraisal investigation, Kruggel said, had convinced him that this valuation was outrageously high. His findings after conferring with a number of experts in industrial property valuation and a number of realty experts of Chicago railroads, he said, were that a true honest price for the tract could be no more than $27,407. The city's appraiser, George R. O'Connor, has announced a valuation of $20,000.

Owner Demands $65,000.

Both Kruggel's statements came last evening after Raymond E. Herman, La Salle street real estate broker who owns the property in question, suddenly withdrew his representative, Ernest H. Lyons, from the price negotiation conferences and announced that he would demand not less than $65,000 for his holdings.

Herman said he proposed to stand by the $65,000 appraisal which was made on Dec. 14, by a standing industrial property appraisal committee of the real estate board. This was the appraisal which bore Kruggel's signature in the official capacity as board president.

Explains Signature Trick.

In explaining the trick through which this appraisal was released over his signature, Kruggel said:

"At a meeting held Dec. 7 it was agreed by and between Lyons, O'Connor, and myself as the third appraiser that I should act in my individual capacity and not as president of the real estate board, and that I should not ask a committee to make my appraisal of the property for me.

"It also was agreed that because I had been asked to serve on short notice I should be allowed ten days time to gather facts for my appraisal and that meantime no statement would be made by any of the parties involved.

Makes Routine Appraisal.

"On Dec. 11—four days after this meeting—an application for an appraisal of Herman's property was made by his lawyers to the Chicago Real Estate board, and on Dec. 12 the chairman of the board's standing appraisal committee appointed a subcommittee to do this work in the customary way.

"The following day a valuation was made and attached to a certificate bearing my signature as president of the realty board. Due to an error on the part of one of the employés of the board and unknown to me, this certificate was released without my knowledge or consent.

"It in no way represented my opinion as to the value of the property.

"When I learned the certificate had been released I immediately notified all parties by registered letter. I demanded the return of this certificate.

"My own valuation, as arrived at after giving due and careful consideration to all facts in connection with the property, is $27,407."

Owner Assailed for Action.

Kruggel said that while Herman had not agreed to refrain from having his property appraised, it had been understood that any appraisals would be left in the hands of the three man committee. Both Kruggel and O'Connor last evening accused Herman of at least a moral breach in obtaining and publishing the real estate board's appraisal.

"We had clearly understood from the beginning," said O'Connor, "that the valuation made by the three man committee would be binding on all parties. Herman now has seen fit to ignore the solemn agreement he made on this point."

Both O'Connor and Kruggel also said that Herman and Lyons had

U. S. May Lose 30 Millions on Hutton Heiress

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Renunciation of her American citizenship by Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton, may deprive the United States of approximately $30,000,000 in estate taxes, it was disclosed today.

The heiress to the Woolworth 5 and 10 cent store millions, now on her way to England aboard the liner Europa, renounced her citizenship by appearing before Federal Judge William Bondy and signing an affidavit. However, her attorneys, Graham Mattison and Henry Mannix, did not announce the action until after her departure for London.

The attorneys said she gave up her citizenship here to avoid legal complications occasioned by her marriage to a Danish nobleman. Under Danish law, the marriage made her a citizen of Denmark, while, because of her American birth, she still retained her United States citizenship.

Tax Experts Cite Situation.

Tax experts pointed out that because of the countess' citizenship renunciation, the federal government probably will lose inheritance taxes which would take approximately two-thirds of her $45,000,000 fortune when it passes to her son, Lance, now 2 years old and a Dane.

Her action, however, probably will not effect the federal and state income taxes now levied against her. Under the federal revenue act signed last August, aliens with incomes of more than $21,600 a year derived from property in this country must pay the same tax as citizens of the United States. The old law required nonresident aliens to pay only 10 per cent.

New York Position Defined.

Mark Graves, president of the New York state tax commission, indicated the countess would escape no taxes on her income in this state. He said nonresidents must pay the usual tax on income from property owned in this state or from business conducted within the state.

The countess' renunciation of her allegiance recalled figures published last year in one of her frequent disputes with the income tax bureau. They showed her fortune exceeded $45,000,000 in 1933 and that $32,000,000 of it was invested in tax exempt securities of the government which she now has foresworn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—Shorter shirts for gentlemen is the fashion order in Germany. By decree of the chief of the "men's underwear department" of the textile industry, and with approval of the national ministry of economics, after Jan. 1 no ready-made shirt may exceed 35½ inches in length in front and 37½ inches behind—without reference to the height of the wearer.

The normal length thus has been docked two inches to economize on materials under the four year plan [the Nazi program to make Germany economically self-sustaining].

While husbands struggle to make ends meet, wives will resort to new methods to keep warm. Hausfraus have been ordered to use new artificial lighters for starting fires and not to use paper or wood—again for economy's sake.

CHOSEN TO SING AT WHITE HOUSE; OUT OF JOB NOW

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Ruby Elzy, colored soprano, slept late today because there was nothing else to do. She no longer has a job.

She was singled out of the nation's host of entertainers to sing Wednesday at a White House luncheon Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt gave for the wives of the Supreme court justices. From a three-a-night assignment in the Kit-Kat club Miss Elzy was plucked as though by a fairy godmother and applauded to an encore by the President's wife and the wives of the justices, but today she hasn't even a three-a-night.

"Things have happened so quickly I don't know where I'm at," Miss Elzy sighed, "but I don't guess the songs I sing are the kind they want in a night club. So that's that."

Freedom Near, Confesses Old Chicago Killing

On a stifling August afternoon in 1924 detective squads responded to a report of a shooting in a modest south side apartment that had been occupied that summer by a young married couple. On the floor the husband lay fatally wounded. The wife, a frail, dark eyed girl, handed over a heavy caliber revolver.

"I had to do it," she said. "I couldn't stand it any longer."

With her when the police arrived were her brother and his wife. They corroborated her story of ill treatment. A few days later the husband died. On Aug. 8 there was an inquest at which the young widow reenacted the slaying and told again of the events that led to it. She was exonerated.

Victim Accuses a Man.

A few days after the inquest the slain husband's brother went to the police.

"What I have to tell seems unbelievable in the light of the inquest," he said. "It may have been due to my brother's delirium, but just before he died he told me: 'My wife didn't kill me. It was the man from Milwaukee.'"

The widow's brother, who had been in the apartment at the time of the shooting, was from Milwaukee. Police determined to question him, and found that he had vanished with his wife and sister. That was thirteen years ago.

For many weeks police tried to trace the three, then gave up the search. The case was kept open, an unsolved mystery.

Woman Tips Off Police.

Last week in Milwaukee a woman telephoned police headquarters. A man, who had committed a murder in Chicago in 1924, could be found, she said, at an address she gave them. The man was arrested. He was S. F. D'Andrea, the missing brother. The woman who phoned was his estranged wife, Maria.

Last night Capt. Adolph Kraemer of Milwaukee told D'Andrea to prepare to leave the jail. As the prisoner was in the corridor, however, Kraemer decided to ask him one or two more questions.

Suddenly D'Andrea admitted killing his brother-in-law, Vincenzo Alleruzzo, blaming Alleruzzo's mistreatment of his wife, D'Andrea's sister. He will be brought back to Chicago today.

HOUSE REJECTS DICTATOR RULE OF NATION'S LABOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—By a vote of 59 to 29 the senate tonight passed the farm dictatorship bill, No. 1, on President Roosevelt's must list for the special session of congress, and sent it to conference with the house of representatives. The house passed a farm dictatorship bill on Dec. 11.

Senator William H. King [D., Utah] sought to shelve the farm scheme by sending it back to the committee on agriculture, but his motion was defeated, 57 to 29.

Final action on the bill, which resorts to an economy of scarcity to raise farm prices and applies a drastic system of compulsory production, control to the five basic commodities of wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and rice, cannot be reached before the special session adjourns next week for the Christmas holidays. It may not come until the middle of January in the regular session because of differences between the senate and house drafts.

Garner Cracks the Whip.

Vice President John N. Garner, applying the strong-arm methods for which he is renowned, shoved the bill through to final passage shortly after 7 o'clock, to the great relief of friends and foes of the measure, wearied by almost four weeks of debate.

The senate adopted, as a new title to the bill, the crop insurance scheme passed by the senate at the last session. Offered by Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.] and accepted without a record vote, it sets up a 100 million dollar corporation to provide a system of crop insurance for wheat only. The house failed to act on the measure at the last session.

Shortly after 4 p. m. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, senate majority leader, obtained a unanimous consent agreement limiting debate to 5 minutes on any amendment, and Garner complimented the senate for making progress.

"Let's keep up the good work!" he barked.

Two Schemes Voted Down.

The senate then made short shrift of two substitute price pegging and domestic allotment schemes denounced as Fascist and autocratic by Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, who conceded that the administration proposal to raise prices by compulsory scarcity was a step in the same direction.

Full parity, which would give the farmer a purchasing power in terms of nonagricultural commodities equivalent to his purchasing power from 1909 to 1914, would require subsidies estimated as high as 1 billion 500 millions a year.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt suffered one of the greatest legislative defeats of his administration tonight when the house voted down his scheme for the political regulation of wages and hours. The vote was 216 against the bill and 198 for it.

A combination of southern conservative Democrats and the Republican minority, fearful of the effect on struggling business if the plan went into operation, administered the licking.

The legislation, which would have set up an administrator with dictatorial powers over labor and management, was sent back to the house labor committee for burial. It was regarded as highly doubtful that the administration would attempt a revival at the regular session of congress convening in January.

Placed on Must List.

The President had placed the so-called wage-hour proposal on his must legislative program to be enacted at the special session of congress. He mentioned the plan specifically in his message to congress on Nov. 15 and it was placed in importance along with the farm bill passed by the senate tonight.

Defeat of the wage-hour bill resulted in the abrupt collapse of most of the remaining proposals on the legislative program. It was a crestfallen majority leader, Representative Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], who announced to the house that an effort would be made tomorrow to pass the Steagall housing bill and then the members could be released for the holidays. The house will stay in session until Wednesday, however, to carry out perfunctory business.

Delays Other Measures.

The announcement meant postponement of action on the bill to divide the country up into seven regional planning divisions or "little TVA's" and the measure to reorganize the government departments and bureaus on a pattern cut by Mr. Roosevelt, including the elimination of the general accounting office as a check on expenditures.

The action on the wage-hour legislation also was a major defeat for John L. Lewis, belligerent head of the Committee for Industrial Organization and a major victory for President William Green of the American Federation of Labor. Lewis had indorsed the scheme.

Just a week ago Green, disillusioned by the favoritism of the National Labor Relations board toward the C. I. O., had denounced both the alternate plans of administering the act under a five man presidential board or by a single administrator.

Green Bill Squashed.

Green's own proposal for a flat 40 cents an hour and 40 hour work week with administration in the hands of the department of justice never came to a roll call vote because the administration quashed it when the house was sitting as committee of the whole two days ago.

The vote to recommit the pet measure also was a bitter pill for Chairman Mary T. Norton [D., N. J.] of the house labor committee, ally of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and crony of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. Mrs. Norton sat in her seat at the committee table as though thunderstruck when the results of the tally were announced. A spray of orchids, worn through the nine hours of debate today, drooped from a shoulder strap, appropriately symbolizing the gloom of the wearer.

Shortly before the roll call started Representative Samuel B. Pettengill [D., Ind.] made a stirring appeal to the house to defeat the plan, declaring that small business, even the corner grocer, would be hurt by it.

Majority Leader Rayburn, in his final plea to the house, insisted that if the bill were not passed that meant the end of any legislation on wages and hours. He was followed by Representative John J. O'Connor [D., N. Y.] who declared that methods were unimportant, that the scheme was "a step, a start in the right direction."

House Proceeds to Vote.

Speaker William B. Bankhead [D., Ala.] took over the gavel from Representative John W. McCormack [D., Mass.], who had been acting as chairman of the committee of the whole, at 9 o 'clock. Soon afterwards he asked for the motion to recommit, a right which is reserved to minority committee members.

Representative Fred A. Hartley [R., N. J.] of the house labor committee, offered the motion. Gray-haired Representative Richard J. Welch of California, the ranking Republican member of the committee, remained silent. Welch favored the legislation. This was a sample of broken party lines.

Speaker Bankhead ordered the calling of the roll. A total of 133 Democrats and 83 Republicans voted to recommit the bill. It was a dramatic moment.

Representative Martin Dies, the 6 foot Texan who led the southern Democratic opposition, quickly let out a cowboy yell and this was followed by other whoops.

Favored Single Administration.

Mrs. Norton and the administration forces favored the single administrator plan as a substitute for a five man presidential board in the bill passed by the senate last summer.

The five man board amendment, offered by Representative Robert Ramspeck [D., Ga.], lost on a standing vote of 77 for and 134 against.

The so-called "Shirley Temple amendment," which would exempt children in the theatrical business from the child labor regulations of the bill was carried by a voice vote. Representative Charles Kramer [D., Cal.] managed to gain recognition from the chair to present the amendment Representative John F. Dockweiler [D., Cal.], who prides himself on being Shirley's own congressman. To be denied that honor plunged Dockweiler into deepest gloom.

LETTERS HIDDEN IN RADIO TALK BACK TO SINGER

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—A squawky radio turned tell-tale on one of the air's handsomest baritones, Everett Marshall, when a repairman put into the hands of the singer's estranged wife, Carolina, a bundle of letters and telegrams signed Patsy. The papers were found when he attempted to repair the receiver.

"Patsy," whose name in full appeared as indorsement on checks also found in the bundle, was described today in Supreme court by Mrs. Marshall's lawyer as one of Marshall's women friends.

Mrs. Marshall, also an opera singer, is seeking a separation, custody of her daughter Belen, 6 years old, and $300 a week alimony.

Masked Burglar Ties Up Woman, 65, in Her Home

Mrs. Grace Guthrie, 65 years old, 2034 Laporte avenue, surprised a masked burglar in her home yesterday. He tied her arms and ankles with neckties, stuffed a handkerchief into her mouth, and then escaped with $50 and a $250 ring. A few hours earlier a gunman answering the same description menaced Mrs. Sarah Blashkowsky, 60 years old, in her home at 1030 North California avenue. Her dog, which barked and snapped at his legs, drove him away.

ORDER 7 MILLION TRANSIT OUTLAY LISTED IN BUDGET

Expenditure Hinges on Passing Ordinance.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

The city council's finance committee yesterday approved inclusion in the 1938 budget of a proposed expenditure of $7,230,000 from the traction fund to pay for the city's share of transit rehabilitation and planning next year.

Expenditure of most of the appropriation is contingent on a traction settlement and approval of a new ordinance by the city council and in a public referendum. Two of the major items are $5,000,000 for subways and $750,000 for elevated highway construction.

The appropriation would take care of the preparation of an ordinance, the cost of a referendum and the first year's cost of construction of subways and elevated highways as contemplated under the recently announced city plan for traction modernization.

Budget Ready on Jan. 3.

The budget items were presented by Ald. James A. Quinn [50th], chairman of the local transportation committee, and William H. Sexton, special counsel for Quinn's committee. The finance committee plans to have the budget ready for council approval on Jan. 3.

The traction fund appropriation would allocate $1,000,000 for employment of engineering, accounting, legal, and clerical assistance in preparation of an ordinance and for a referendum; $200,000 for preparation for subway plans; $55,000 for acquisition of property needed for subways; $5,000,000 for subway construction; $225,000 for superhighway plans and acquisition of necessary property and $750,000 for construction expense on the proposed Randolph street elevated highway.

The city's traction plan provides for a start during the first year on construction of street car subways in Jackson boulevard and Washington street in the central business district and an elevated highway in Randolph street from Jefferson street to Paulina street.

Shaw to Advise Court.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday appointed Walter A. Shaw, consulting engineer, as advisor to the court in connection with negotiations for unification of the Chicago Surface Lines and the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines], both of which are under the court's jurisdiction in receivership proceedings.

Under an arrangement made in Judge Wilkerson's court Tuesday, a committee of one representative each from the city, surface lines, elevated and Chicago Motor Coach company, is to carry on unification and franchise negotiations. Shaw is empowered to consult with the group. His compensation and expenses are to be borne by the elevated and surface lines.

DIRECTS VERDICT FOR DEFENDANTS IN ARREST SUIT

A directed verdict of not guilty was returned by a jury in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court yesterday in behalf of Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr. and his client, Mrs. Clara D. Pannkoke, estranged wife of the Rev. Otto H. Pannkoke, former Oak Park minister. They were sued for $50,000 on a charge of false arrest by Mrs. Elsbeth Sheffield of Quitman, Ga., sister of the minister.

Mrs. Sheffield was arrested on Oct. 4, 1934, in the Pannkoke home at 170 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park. Mrs. Pannkoke testified Attorney Cantwell advised her to swear out a complaint after she had been barred from her home by her sister-in-law. On Wednesday Judge Sullivan dismissed from the case four other defendants —a former Oak Park justice of the peace and three policemen.

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—The police force recruited for the new Lincoln tunnel which well be dedicated Tuesday will give a dress rehersal for officials of the port of New York authority tomorrow afternoon on the Weehawken plaza of the tunnel. The men comprising the tunnel police force have undergone two months training. They were selected from 800 applicants who took examinations based on civil service requirements.

agreed to continue the negotiations until some definite position was taken by the three members of the appraisal committee. In withdrawing Lyons, they pointed out, Herman is violating also this second agreement.

"Even before Mr. Kruggel's own appraisal had been announced," O'Connor said, "Herman notified us through Lyons that he would not take part in the airport conferences."

Herman last evening insisted that his position throughout the conferences has been consistent and fair.

"I'm determined," he said, "to stand by the real estate board appraisal committee's valuation of $65,323. I see therefore no further use in taking part in the airport conferences with Kruggel and O'Connor. That's why I told Lyons to stay away today.

Defends Application to Board.

"The application for the appraisal by the real estate board was filed in the usual manner. There was no secrecy about it. The certificate of valuation was issued, paid for, and delivered.

"There are no better posted men in Chicago on industrial property than the men who signed this valuation. To intimate that any of these men would stoop to any chincanery or trickery is an insult to them and to the Chicago Real Estate board which they represent."

Kruggel denied that any insult or injury was intended in his repudiation of the realty board appraisal committee's findings. He said, however, that he had concrete evidence upon which his own findings were based.

Quotes Nearby Values.

A sale of land comparable to Herman's was made six months ago at a point within a quarter mile of the Chicago airport, Kruggel said. In this sale the land brought $3,000 an acre. At this rate the price for Herman's property would be less than $10,000.

Herman's land, which is bounded by 55th street and Laramie, Archer and Cicero avenues, already is crossed by the tracks of the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad, Kruggel pointed out. The proposed transfer to his land of the Chicago and Western Indiana tracks from the airport tract which is bounded by 55th and 63d streets, and Cicero and Central avenues, will not decrease its value, he said. Instead he said, the addition of another belt railroad to this industrial land should enhance its worth.

U. S. Judge Dismisses Jury in Auto Trust Investigation

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Federal Judge F. A. Geiger summarily dismissed a grand jury late today because of what he termed the impropriety of the United States department of justice in suggesting an apparent compromise in a case on which the jury had once voted to return indictments.

Judge F. A. Geiger.

The action of the judge, who is noted for his strict adherence to legal ethics, was interpreted here as a rebuke to the government and a warning that the federal court may not be used as an arena for government negotiations or to accomplish social reform under threat of punitive action.

For thirteen weeks the federal grand jury had been investigating charges of anti-trust law violations against the automobile industry's Big Three—the General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler companies—and their affiliated financing agencies.

Reveal November Indictments.

It was disclosed for the first time today, during the proceedings before Judge Geiger, that the grand jury had voted indictments on Nov. 21. But since true bills were not returned and the grand jury has been dismissed, that action is of no force.

Russell Hardy, special assistant to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, who had been in charge of the grand jury investigation, protested the court's dismissal order, but he was promptly overruled. Hardy was permitted to place an exception on the record.

Judge Geiger gave his unexpected ruling after questioning attorneys representing the companies concerning conversations in Washington, D. C., in October, at which, the attorneys said, a consent decree in the case before the grand jury was suggested by the department of justice.

Questions Department's Right.

"It is my idea that the department of justice did not have the power to negotiate with these parties for a consent decree," Judge Geiger declared. "I thought it highly improper for the parties to get together during the period the grand jury was in recess."

The judge said he had been extremely surprised to learn that the grand jury had recessed its investigation Oct. 22 to accommodate the department of justice in some action relative to the proposed framing of a consent decree.

The grand jury had been ready to make a report last Monday, but the judge directed then that this be postponed for a week. He later summoned the principal attorneys in the case to clear up reports the government had been negotiating a settlement at the same time the jury investigation was in progress.

Points to Limitations.

"There are marked limitations of what may be done on subject matter pending before a grand jury," the judge told the assembled attorneys.

Philip W. Haberman, general counsel of the Universal Credit corporation, told the court that negotiations to compromise or otherwise avert the jury's action were begun when E. C. Kanzler, president of his corporation, was introduced to Robert Jackson, assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust law violations.

Kanzler told Jackson his company was conscious of no violation of the law and asked whether it were possible to substitute some civil action for the grand jury investigation which would determine the law's application to the relationship between motor manufacturers and their finance companies, it was testified.

ON PROBATION, BOY IS CAUGHT LOOTING FLAT

John Dobler, 16 years old, who was freed on probation on Sept. 9 on a charge of stealing an automobile, was caught last night looting the flat of Miss Helen M. Jewel at 7309 Stewart avenue. A neighbor saw the boy go through a window and called Policemen Robert Lambert and Clarence Minonque, who live in the building.

The prisoner, a Parker high school pupil, confessed a series of burglaries and admitted carrying a pistol which was found in the yard where he had thrown it. His home is at 148 West 66th street.

Free Sweetheart of Cadet Who Shot Himself to Death

Loretta Harynek, 15 years old, schoolgirl sweetheart of Warren Sinclair Stanley, cadet who shot and killed himself in a stolen car in Berwyn on Nov. 21, yesterday was released from the Juvenile home. The girl was held there after being declared a delinquent by Judge Frank H. Bicek pending investigation of her story that she and Stanley were married. Miss Harynek will not return to her home at 3822 North Kedvale avenue, but will go to the home of a relative.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

DALL LIBELED BY MAGAZINE, COURT RULES ON APPEAL

Orders Retrial for Jury to Fix Damages.

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—The appellate division today ruled that Curtis B. Dall, divorced husband of President Roosevelt's daughter, Anna, was libeled when the magazine Time fictitiously reported his suicide in the White House. A jury trial was ordered to fix the amount of damages.

Dall sued for $250,000, but last May a jury before Supreme Court Justice Bernard O. Sheintag found for the magazine. However, Justice Sheintag set aside the verdict, holding Dall clearly had established libel, and ordered a new trial. The magazine's attorneys appealed, and the ruling today upheld Justice Sheintag.

Parallel Drawn in Article.

Dall's fictitious suicide, purportedly in the presence of his former wife, now Mrs. John Boettiger, and the President's wife, was recounted in Time on April 23, 1934. Dall, who is a broker, charged it caused him great embarrassment socially and in business.

The article dealt with the suicide in France of Enzo de Bones, son-in-law of Mme. Gaston Doumergue, wife of the French president, while his wife and mother-in-law looked on. The matter drew scant attention in French newspapers.

Time's editors contended Dall was selected as a hypothetical parallel to the French situation to point out the difference in treatment American newspapers would have given such a story.

Editor Explains Intention.

John S. Martin, the magazine's managing editor, testified the first paragraph of the article, concerning Dall, was written to gain reader attention and only a few dunces would misunderstand it.

In the appellate division's ruling Justice Edward S. Dore declared a person may be exposed to public scorn by indirect and adroit methods, as well as by crude and direct accusations.

"If publishers desire to use the names of living persons by way of example or analogy of infamous acts and degrading crimes merely to arrest their readers' attention," he said, "they do so at their peril."

MRS. NOVAH FLINT.

In an out of court settlement yesterday Mrs. Novah Flint, 811 Michigan avenue, Evanston, was given $27,500 by the Douglas Auto Parts company, which she had sued for $250,000. On July 10, 1936, in a company store at 2001 South State street, some shelving fell, injuring her head. After the settlement, Judge Walter J. La Buy dismissed her suit. Mrs. Flint was represented by Attorney J. Fred Reeve, and the company by Attorney Joseph Hinshaw.

HEAD OF STOCK TIPSTER SERVICE ARRESTED IN N. Y.

Paine Charged with Embezzlement.

J. Overton Paine, boy plunger of the nineties who has been no stranger to difficulties of varied sorts, was arrested yesterday in New York on charges of embezzling $640,000 from 1,500 stock market investors who were subscribers to his Newark and Chicago "statistical service."

Until a few months ago, the Paine Statistical corporation maintained an office at 30 North La Salle street, in charge of Lillian E. Ziegele as branch manager. The corporation circularized investors throughout the middle west, urging prospects to give it powers of attorney to speculate for them.

Clients Get 80% of Profits.

Clients were to get back 80 per cent of the profits and the corporation 20 per cent. There was no mention made of any losses.

On Sept. 21 Paine's offices at Newark were raided by police, who said they found a "sucker" list of 50,000 names. They labeled the business a bucket shop.

Paine founded his Newark business five years ago, authorities said. They charged him with inducing customers to place securities with his company for collateral, and said he sold some of the securities outright and used others as collateral for his own marginal speculations on the New York Stock exchange. A decline in prices in September wiped out his account, police said.

Acquitted of Larceny Charge.

Paine was arrested in 1901 on a charge of larceny from a customer of the firm he then operated on Wall street, but was acquitted.

He was reported in New York newspapers of the late '90s to have run a shoestring into several millions of dollars. In 1903 he failed and came to Chicago. He operated a tipster service here.

Hunt All Night for Boy Safe After Santa Search

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—While policemen, firemen, and volunteers, aided by bloodhounds, were conducting an all night search for him, William J. Murray III., 4 years old, who disappeared from his home in Maywood, N. J., early yesterday, was sleeping peacefully at the quarters of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children in Manhattan. How the boy got to Manhattan is not known. Mr. Murray assumes that he boarded a bus to find Santa Claus, having seen Santa Claus in one of the department stores earlier in the week.

Mr. Griese Hears He's Dead and Takes It Like a Man

Mr. William F. Griese, it would appear from affidavits filed yesterday in Circuit court, is not unduly alarmed about the report of his death. His only worry, as he basks under a warm California sun, is that his wife, Clara, will find out where he is.

William F. Griese.

It was on the night of Nov. 29, 1926, that Mr. Griese last saw her. Saying he intended to dine in the loop with some other tire shop owners, Mr. Griese walked out of their home at 1331 Park avenue, Chicago Heights. He never went back.

During the ensuing years Mrs. Griese searched dutifully for her absent spouse, being careful to keep up the premiums on his $5,025 life insurance policy with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, just in case he should suddenly return.

Sues to Collect Insurance.

Eventually convinced of his death, Mrs. Griese decided to prove it legally, in order to collect the insurance. If any person remains unheard of for seven years, the legal presumption is that he is dead.

So she sued the insurance company. On Dec. 3 a jury before Judge Roman I. Posanski returned a verdict finding that Mr. Griese was dead in fact, and that Mrs. Griese was a widow, entitled to insurance.

But as the verdict was opened, Attorney James C. Rich rushed in with word that the insurance company had just located Griese in a suburb of San Francisco. On its promise to prove this, the company was allowed to make a motion to set aside the verdict.

Yesterday came Attorney Rich with documents and a picture. The snapshot, he said, was taken of Mr. Griese a few days ago as he leaned against the bumper of an automobile.

One of the documents was an affidavit signed by William F. Griese. The signature was the same as that on a copy of his application for insurance. In the affidavit Mr. Griese wrote that it was indeed true that he left his constant wife in 1926.

Happy About the Whole Thing.

He spent a few months in Washington and Oregon, and in 1927 moved to California, to beautiful San Mateo county, where he works in a hospital. Mr. Griese added that he is happy there in the warm sunshine, despite the occasional heavy dew, but he does not want his address known.

"He is very anxious to keep his whereabouts a secret from his wife," declared Attorney Rich. "You know how some husbands are."

ALDERMEN ASK $5,000 LICENSE FOR HANDBOOKS

The city council finance committee early today formally recommended a flat license fee of $5,000 a year for handbook operators in event plans to legalize the handbooks become law. The fee was included in the blanket approval of the 1938 budget of $109,512,323, including the $58,000,000 corporate operating budget.

Much of the early morning discussion concerned the proposed legalizing of handbooks. Some aldermen favored a higher license fee for those in the loop, but finally, at the suggestion of Ald. Dorsey Crowe [42d], who urged a flat fee for all, the $5,000 figure was agreed upon. The vote was 9 to 8, however.

Earlier, an aldermanic committee of three reported on an inspection of legalized handbooks in Omaha, Neb., and west coast cities. The report urged that handbooks be permitted only in commercial areas and entirely separated from drinking places. It is hoped that handbook licenses would raise most of the $2,750,000 needed to meet a deficit in the 1938 budget due to restoration of basic wage scales.

KILLED BY AUTO FUMES.

Robert Waldruff, 28 years old, 9720 Ingleside avenue, an unemployed accountant, was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in his car in the garage back of his home yesterday.

FARM DICTATOR BILL IS PASSED IN UPPER HOUSE

lions have been made available under the so-called soil conservation act, and President Roosevelt has demanded that congress provide the revenue to meet any additional cost.

Some supporters of the senate bill have expressed the fear that President Roosevelt would veto it because of the great uncertainty as to how much it would cost. However, neither the senate nor the house draft makes much difference, because the final administration measure will be written, as Secretary Wallace indicated yesterday, by the conference committee, which his agents will dominate.

Acme of Dictatorship.

Not only will the secretary of agriculture tell individual farmers how much corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, and rice they can grow; he will tell them what they cannot do with butter and eggs, produced on land diverted from the basic commodities.

Under a provision adopted by the senate and house to protect the dairy industry from new competition a farmer cannot use land diverted from wheat, corn, etc., to grow feedstuffs for poultry or live stock for market. Thus, if a cow jumped over a fence into forbidden ground and foraged there, the farmer would lose his subsidy payments if he sold her milk. Once he has used diverted land for prohibited purposes he couldn't even give away milk or eggs to a sick neighbor.

Both senate and house bills call for the imposition of compulsory marketing quotas at stipulated levels of supply when approved by two-thirds of the farmers participating in a referendum held under such conditions as the secretary may prescribe.

Under the senate bill the compulsory quotas would go into effect at a much lower level, in the case of cotton, for example, at 17,500,000 bales, which is defined as a normal supply.

Difference in Bills.

The following table shows how the two bills differ with respect to the definition of a normal supply and the point at which marketing quotas would be imposed:

	Normal Supply.	Marketing Quotas.
WHEAT. [In bushels.]
Senate bill.....	770,000,000	847,000,000
House bill.....	840,000,000	1,050,000,000
CORN.
Senate bill.....	2,323,000,000	2,555,000,000
House bill.....	2,486,000,000	2,859,000,000
COTTON. [In bales.]
Senate bill.....	17,500,000	17,500,000
House bill.....	18,200,000	20,900,000

In addition to the provision for compulsory marketing quotas the senate bill authorizes so-called voluntary adjustment contracts, whereby the farmer, as under the invalidated AAA, would agree to curtail his acreage.

The house bill contains no such provision.

The senate bill also provides for so-called parity payments in addition to bounties already being paid, at the rate of half a billion dollars a year, under the soil conservation act. In the case of corn, cotton, and wheat these payments would be in lieu of soil conservation bounties and 55 per cent of the 500 million dollar appropriation for 1938, or 275 million dollars, is set aside for those three commodities. Tobacco, rice, and all other agricultural commodities now receiving soil conservation subsidies would continue to do so.

Bills Differ on Subsidies.

The senate bill authorizes subsidies for cotton, wheat and corn ranging from 15 per cent of the parity price when the supply is normal or less up to 40 per cent of the parity price when the supply is 114 per cent or more of normal.

The house bill provides for no subsidies in addition to the soil conservation payments now being made at the rate of 500 millions a year. The house bill also specifically exempts cotton and wheat from the compulsory marketing quotas in 1938, while the senate bill would go into full effect with respect to all the basic commodities immediately.

In addition to the compulsory production control, both bills authorize loans on surplus commodities stored under seal on the farm or in approved warehouses to maintain what Secretary Wallace calls an ever normay granary.

Under the house bill the loans and their rates would be wholly discretionary, while the senate measure sets up definite rate schedules for wheat and corn. The loan rate for those two commodities would range from 52 per cent of the parity price when the supply exceeded 114 per cent of normal down to 85 per cent of the parity price when the supply was not more than normal.

The final major differences between the senate and house bills concerns the penalties for marketing commodities produced in excess of the allotted quotas.

Act Seeks to Reduce Fields of Activity.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Legislation designed to tighten restrictions on foreigners in Mexico and end what some Mexicans call forced servitude imposed by a foreign economic power was on its way to approval by the chamber of deputies today.

A "law of economic recuperation," drafted by Labor Deputy Ismael C. Falcon, which would bar aliens from many fields of activity, last night received unanimous vote of the chamber's committee on labor defense.

Bill Requires Zoning.

Falcon's bill would require, among other things:

1. That Mexico be zoned into regions where foreigners might, or might not, live.

2. That the commercial activities in which foreigners might engage be limited to agricultural and industrial production and the export trade. Retail selling would be barred to them.

3. That the executive fix the maximum percentage of foreign controled enterprises to be permitted in Mexican commerce and industry, and that properties of all over that number be confiscated and given to workers' coöperatives.

Property Would Be Seized.

4. That all foreigners found to have entered the country as industrialists without investing the 20,000 pesos [approximately $5,550] required by immigration laws, be deported and their properties expropriated.

5. That naturalization be rigidly limited and that applicants for Mexican citizenship be required to have resided five, instead of two years [as at present], in the country.

6. That the labor law's clauses compelling industries to employ 90 per cent Mexicans be made to read that they must be Mexicans of origin.

Democrats Kill Motion to Strike Levy.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Democrats lined up solidly against Republicans at a house subcommittee meeting to batter down today the first definite attempt to strike the undistributed profits levy from the tax laws.

Representative Frank Crowther [R., N. Y.] forced the issue to a vote. His motion was to accept a bill by Representative Allen T. Treadway [R., Mass.], which would repeal the tax on undistributed corporate earnings, impose on corporations a normal income tax of 9 to 16 per cent and tax capital gains a flat 12½ per cent.

"The motion," Chairman Fred M. Vinson [D., Ky.], announced, "was quite fully debated. When we were informed that if the plan had been in operation for the present taxable year there would have been a loss of $416,000,000 in revenue, the Crowther motion was voted down by a vote of 6 to 3—a party vote."

Remodeling Plans Intact.

That action left intact the subcommittee's previous agreement to remodel both the undistributed profits and capital gains levies while retaining the principles of each.

Numerous legislators, backed by business men who contend the taxes have curtailed business and employment and discouraged investment in productive enterprise, have demanded immediate repeal.

The subcommittee has agreed tentatively to lift the undistributed profits tax from corporations with incomes up to $25,000, substituting a 12½ per cent tax on their income up to $5,000 and 14 per cent on that from $5,000 to $25,000.

Features of New Plan.

Firms with incomes in excess of $25,000 would pay 16 to 20 per cent, the rate decreasing as the percentage of profits distributed to stockholders increased.

The new capital gains tax arrangement would let the taxpayer pay a flat 40 per cent on the taxable portion of the gains or include them, as at present, with his other income. In either event, the smallest taxable percentage of gains would be 40 and would be reached when assets had been held more than five years.

PLOT TO FORCE ONTARIO CANAL ACTION CHARGED

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Prime Minister Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario charged today that the Canadian federal government was following a "made in Washington" policy to force Ontario into the St. Lawrence waterways development program.

This policy was evidenced, Hepburn said, by Ontario's inability to obtain permission for diverting new sources of water power at Niagara Falls for export to the United States.

Canada's premier, Mackenzie King, has ruled against the request for a power export permit and said the matter would be referred to parliament.

Hepburn said an agreement existed between Ottawa and Washington that Ontario would not be permitted to divert more water at Niagara Falls until the province adheres to the St. Lawrence development.

SENATOR HOLT TRIES TO KEEP JOB FROM CRITIC OF FATHER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] today asked a senate committee to block the appointment of a man he said advocated execution of his father because he opposed America's entrance into the world war. The man is Roy Yoke, who was nominated by the President to be West Virginia collector of internal revenue.

Senator Holt charged before the committee that Yoke, who was superintendent of the Weston, W. Va., schools twenty years ago, condoned actions of a mob that stoned Holt's parents, injuring his mother. He said Yoke instructed teachers in the high school to reduce his grades and prevent his promotion.

"I don't want to convey the impression I didn't criticize Dr. Holt [M. S. Holt, now 87 years old]," Yoke said. "I did express the thought of the great majority of the citizens of our part of the state at that time."

She has volunteered to help the Salvation Army raise funds at its Christmas kettles. She will be on hand tomorrow to give kisses to all who make contributions. The kisses will be of the candy variety.

ARMY'S FASTEST PLANES TO GET SERVICE TESTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—The army air corps' newest single-seat pursuit planes, said to be capable of more than 350 miles an hour speed at sea level, were demonstrated here today. The new machines, 13 of which have just been delivered by the Curtiss Airplane company of Buffalo, N. Y., have undergone primary tests at Wright field and will be given to tactical units for service tests.

These new planes are said to be among the fastest military ships in the world. All metal, with retractile landing gear, controllable pitch propellers, and complete radio equipment, they also are fitted with the first liquid cooled engines that have appeared on single-seat fighters in more than a decade.

The engines are the new V-12 inverted Allisons, rated at 1,000 horsepower at 20,000 feet.

TELLS OF KIDNAP ROBBERY.

Davenport, Ia., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Howard J. Miner, St. Paul salesman, told Davenport police today that he was robbed of $50 and assaulted by a man who forced him to drive his automobile from the business district to a lonely country road. He tentatively identified a photo of Alvie Cook, escaped convict, as the man who robbed him.

M'KINLAY WINS NEW TRIAL IN CONTEMPT CASE

High Court Reverses One Year's Sentence.

A sentence of one year in the county jail for contempt of court imposed on Robert W. McKinlay, federal court receiver, for an alleged bribe given a juror in the first embezzlement trial of Frank V. Zintak, was reversed yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court.

The high court held that McKinlay had been improperly tried by Judge Robert C. O'Connell, then sitting in the Criminal court. Judge O'Connell, who sentenced McKinlay on April 27, presided at the first trial of Zintak, ousted clerk of the Superior court, which resulted in a mistrial. Zintak was acquitted at a second trial.

New Trial Is Ordered.

The high court also remanded the contempt case for a new trial. Judge O'Connell said yesterday he would make no decision about retrying the case until he had read the opinion.

Attorney Benedict J. Short, counsel for McKinlay, said that by filing an answer denying the charges of a special interrogatory presented by the state in the contempt case McKinlay would automatically purge himself of contempt.

After being sentenced for contempt of court, McKinlay was tried and acquitted on a charge of bribing Gustave Anderson, 330 West 58th street, a juror in the Zintak case. Anderson said McKinlay, a boyhood chum, promised him a $10,000 city job for deadlocking the jury. McKinlay denied the story on the witness stand.

In its opinion the Supreme court held that McKinlay was convicted on evidence outside the record of the contempt trial.

SO. SIDE CHURCH TO AID WORK OF GOOD FELLOWS

Colored Leaders Plan to Deliver Baskets.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Colored leaders on the south side will tell and hear about Good Fellow work at tomorrow night's services in the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South park way. One of the speakers will be a veteran of Good Fellowship, J. Wesley Jones, well known to music lovers as the director of large colored choirs at the annual Chicagoland Music festivals.

J. Wesley Jones.

Director Jones said that many poor colored families are looking forward to the visits of Good Fellows this year. Without them, he predicted, Christmas would be just another day. The congregation of the Metropolitan Community church is joining in the Good Fellow movement, and is planning to provide as many baskets as possible.

An added attraction for the Beaux Arts salon Good Fellow concert, which will be given from 4 to 6 p. m. tomorrow in the Medinah club, was announced yesterday by the salon's director, Miss Mathilde Ernestine. This will be a color film, "Pirate Ports in the Spanish Main."

One of the youngest Good Fellow in these parts is Jeanne Reilly, 11 years old, of 396 Nuttall road, Riverside. Little Miss Jeanne, with her own money, is buying a basket for a needy family.

One week from the time you are reading this story it will be Christmas morning. Won't you join the Good Fellow campaign and bring joy into the hearts of children? Just pick up the telephone and ask for Superior 0100. You'll be given the name and address of a family that deserves your generosity. Or fill out the Good Fellow coupon.

SHOPPERS IN LOOP TO HEAR NIGHTLY CAROL CONCERT

Above the noise of street cars, taxis, and buses, and the bustle of the evening rush hour throng, next week for the first time an hour of Christmas carols and hymns followed by an hour of recorded music will echo along the mile stretch of State street from Lake street to Congress street.

The State street council announced yesterday that twelve giant loud speakers will be mounted on the buildings on the east side of the street to carry Christmas music to late shoppers and homeward bound office workers.

Daily, beginning Monday, from 5:15 to 6:15 p. m., by special wire from radio station W-G-N, there will be Christmas music from concert orchestras, organs, leading opera stars, choruses, and choirs. The next hour will be devoted to recordings of the world's finest artists from the council's studio in the Chicago theater building.

PAROLED MANIAC SOUGHT FOR TWO POLICE BATTLES

Believed Wounded; Flat Yields Clews.

John Wolfe, a paroled convict from the Menard prison for the criminally insane, was sought last night as the police hating gunman who opened fire on two police squads and brought about the wounding of six persons in two gun fights Thursday night and early yesterday.

Fred Crowley.

Wolfe was believed by state's attorney's detectives and city police to have been the man who was living in an apartment at 922 East 62d street with a woman as Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shannon. The Shannons left hurriedly yesterday morning, leaving their apartment and one adjoining stained with evidence that some one there had been badly wounded.

Question Mother and Wife.

Wolfe's wife, Etha; her mother, Mrs. Nora Hughes, and her brother, Chester, were taken into custody at 1528 North Wells street and were questioned about his whereabouts all afternoon and evening. Mrs. Hughes fought police until they carried her out bound in a sheet.

Police were told that Wolfe has been carrying a .45 caliber pistol, the type with which Policemen Fred Crowley and Patrick Griffin were shot on Thursday night. He also was said to have been wearing a gabardine trenchcoat, as was the gunman.

The first gunfight occurred at the busy intersection of Damen, Milwaukee, and North avenues when police attempted to question two men in a parked car. Four persons, a woman pedestrian, an autoist, and the two policemen were shot there.

Police Trail Auto License.

In tracing the owner of a set of license plates left in the car abandoned by the fleeing hoodlums police ran into a second shooting affray at 542 Cullerton street. There they attempted to arrest Ignatz Gallina, to whom the plates had been issued. Gallina tried to run away and was wounded in the face by splinters torn from a door by a police shotgun blast.

The detectives waited for the hoped for arrival of the police hater. There was a knock and when the door was opened there was their man, spitting curses and exchanging shots with the policemen as he backed away. He told a cab driver who drove him away in the company of another man and a woman that his thumb had been shot off.

Half an hour after this shooting neighbors saw a man and two women carry another man into the 62d street apartment. He was carried out at 10 o'clock in the morning. The woman known as Mrs. Shannon then told the landlady that her husband had appendicitis and was being taken to a hospital.

FOUND HANGED IN ROOM.

CHILD PLACING AGENCIES RESENT COUNTY CHARGES

BY MARCIA WINN.

The private welfare agencies which place Juvenile court wards in foster homes at county expense yesterday made a bitter reply to County Commissioner William Busse's charge that they "snatch children from their parents."

Busse's statement was made Thursday in protest against the Juvenile court's budget demand for $475,000 for its child placement bureau. This agency, composed of five units representing major religious denominations, has placed 2,000 children in foster homes during the last year, each at a cost to Cook county of $20 a month.

Catholic Bureau Leads.

Of the 2,000 children, the Catholic home bureau has placed more than 1,000; the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, 405; the Jewish Home Finding society, 210; the Lutheran Home Finding society of Illinois, 126, and the Joint Service Bureau for Colored Children the remainder.

"We don't take children from their homes at all," Alfred C. Cramp, acting superintendent of the Children's Home and Aid society, said. "That is done by the Juvenile court."

He said that although the county pays $20 a month for each child "boarded" in a foster home, caring for the child costs his society an average of $7.68 additional.

"Free" Homes Almost Gone.

In former years the children often were placed in free homes. Economic conditions of the last decade, however, have changed this. Of the Home and Aid society's 406, only 31 are in free homes.

Christian J. Busse, superintendent of the Lutheran Home Finding society, said, "we have never yet 'snatched' a child from its parents. The sooner the county board realizes we are relieving them of a tremendous burde nfor the nominal sum of $20—when it costs us $26—I think they will view it from a different angle."

Under a state law no Juvenile court ward can be placed in a foster home unless the parents are well educated and have an income of at least $150 a month.

Wherever possible a rehabilitation is effected in the old home from which the child was removed because of neglect or death of parents, and the child returned. Sometimes it takes a year, sometimes ten years. In many cases nothing can be done, and the child is "boarded out" until 16 and able to to earn his living.

Imposes 5 Year Sentence on Engraver in Hotel Rape

Thomas McCall, 39 years old, an engraver, was sentenced to five years in Joliet penitentiary yesterday by Judge John C. Lewe in accordance with the verdict Monday of a Criminal court jury, which found McCall guilty of raping Miss Virginia Austin, 30 years old, in her room at the Washington hotel Aug. 15. Yesterday his attorneys suddenly withdrew their motion for a new trial.

ALDERMEN ARGUE FOR 4 HOURS ON CAB RATE BOOST

Raise Question on Share for Drivers.

After four hours of heated discussion yesterday, the city council local transportation committee, by a vote of 9 to 8, deferred until Monday further consideration of an ordinance which would raise Chicago taxicab fares approximately 33⅓ per cent.

During the debate, several aldermen expressed a desire to know definitly how much of the rate increase will go to the drivers, and how much to the companies.

Want to Raise Drivers' Pay.

An increase in fares has been asked by the Yellow and Checker cab companies on the ground that this is the only way they can raise the drivers' pay, a promise they made during the taxi strike last spring. A companion ordinance also would reduce the number of cabs from 4,108 to 3,000.

Most of the debaters concentrated on emphasizing what they claim will amount to a standardized rate of 35 cents a mile for a ride within the loop or a similar congested area. The ordinance exempts the first six minutes of a ride from the new waiting time charge of 5 cents for every two minutes while the cab is stopped for trafic or its speed drops to 7½ miles an hour.

New York Rate Proposed.

The ordinance proposes installation of the so-called New York rate. This is 20 cents for the flag pull charge for a quarter of a mile, and 5 cents for each additional quarter of a mile. The present rate is 15 cents for one-third of a mile on the flag full, and 10 cents for each additional two-thirds.

Ald. James Cusack [5th], John Egan [13th], and Harry Sain [27th], were the aldermen vociferously interested in the drivers' wage. They were told by other committee members and officials of the companies that the 35 per cent of the gross receipts now paid the drivers would be increased to 37½ per cent, raising their average wage $6 to $24 a week.

Figures, said Ald. Cusack, always interested him. If the rates were being raised 33 1-3 per cent to benefit the drivers, asked he, how come the drivers' percentage of the fares goes up only 2½ per cent?

Claims Drivers Dislike Plan.

"I understand the drivers are to get an average increase of $1.09 a week," he declared. "The companies, I am told, will get $7. Why the discrepancy? I've talked with 150 cab drivers and they don't like what we are doing. They think we are letting them down."

"How about the public?" interjected Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [26th].

ICY STREETS CUT CONVICTIONS IN SAFETY COURT

The long period of hazardous driving weather, with its slippery streets, has greatly reduced the number of reckless driving cases in the Safety court. Yesterday there was only one conviction before Judge J. M. Braude, Wednesday and Thursday there were three each day, a fraction of the usual number.

George Marlott, 23 years old, of Gary, Ind., was fined $50 and his driving privileges were suspended for six months. He was charged with reckless driving following a collision at Stony Island avenue and 75th street.

A plan to have the city sprinkle cinders on icy streets and sidewalks was proposed yesterday by Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d], a member of the city council committee on trafic and public safety. He said several large industrial firms have agreed to contribute the cinders. He will submit the plan to the council next Wednesday.

HELD AS BURGLAR AGAIN.

Harold W. Poull, 21 years old, who was released from Pontiac reformatory on Sept. 27 after serving four years for burglary, was held to the grand jury on two charges of burglary by Judge Joseph A. Graber in Felony court yesterday.

BOY VICTIM OF CAR CRASH IMPROVES; GOES HOME TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brauneis, 2700 North Troy street, will have the best Christmas this year they have ever had. You can take Mrs. Brauneis' word for that. Their son Bobbie will be home after nearly two months at the Illinois Research hospital.

Bobbie Brauneis.

Bobbie, who is 10 years old, was injured severely in an automobile accident Oct. 24. A victim of hemophilia, a bleeding disease, and as the result of his injuries, fifteen blood transfusions were necessary to save his life. However, Dr. Carroll Birch said yesterday the youngster is now out of danger.

The boy will be brought home by ambulance, perhaps today, and will have to go to bed immediately, but he'll be home for Christmas.

Two College Students Killed in Auto Crash

Hardison, Mich., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Three persons, including two Michigan State college students going home for the holidays, were killed and two other persons were injured near here tonight in an automobile-truck collision. The dead were Miss Elsie K. Faircloth, 20 years old, college junior and daughter of State Representative Ernest E. Faircloth; Douglas W. Isbister, 20, sophomore, and Mrs. Andrew Johnston, 50, all of Onaway, Mich. The injured are Jack Isbister of Onaway and David B. Traselet of Rogers City, Mich., both sophomores.

STEEL WORKER KILLED BY TRUCK IN KENSINGTON

John Maddalozzo, a steel worker, 55 years old, of 57 West 124th street, was killed yesterday by a truck at State and 124th streets. The driver, Chester Harmsen, 21 years old, 11324 Yale avenue, told police the accident was unavoidable.

John R. Caldow Jr., 17 years old, 1119 Drummond place, a high school student, was seriously injured when he was knocked to the pavement by an automobile at Wolfram street and Sheffield avenue. He was taken to the Alexian Brothers hospital. Gerald Fischer, 29 years old, 2834 Sheffield avenue, the driver, told police the boy walked into the side of his car.

Morris Klotzman, 56 years old, 3017 Wilson avenue, a salesman, was seriously injured last night, and his son, Ruben, 19 years old, was cut and bruised, when they were struck by an automobile in the outer drive near 18th street. They were standing on the pavement examining their stalled car when they were hit. The driver of the other car was Charles Hallett, 19 years old, of Hammond, Ind., a Northwestern university student. The elder Klotzman, suffering from a skull fracture, is in St. Luke's hospital.

George Doembeck, 23 years old, 3215 Cortland street, crashed his truck into a ditch and received possibly fatal injuries while attempting to pass another truck two mles west of Waukegan on Skokie road near Grand avenue. At the Lake County General hospital in Waukegan it was found necessary to remove Doembeck's left eye. His skull was fractured. The other driver, Leo Hertal, 224 South Utica street, Waukegan, employed by the state highway department, was released.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 1,032 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 785 were killed in Chicago, where 21,850 were injured in the same period.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

CONTRASTS IN COMMERCE

By CALEB

IN mid-August in the quiet of the Carolina hills, our mills were producing beautiful things you may be buying now. And in Europe—and here in this country— our representatives were busily combing specific markets for new merchandise.

In Swatow, China, however, where two hundred Marshall Field employes are busy at our affairs, there came a sounding of sirens on a Monday morning. Soon the roar of three war planes was heard overhead, and huge pellets of death and destruction came raining down upon the town.

The shock was soon over and the people resumed their work. On Tuesday, likewise, sirens were heard, and out of the beautiful blue of the Chinese sky came bombs which roared—and smashed huge holes in the streets.

Wednesday the populace—defenseless without anti-aircraft guns or combat planes—awaited the third visitation of death from the skies. Families streamed from the city to the country, hoping to be safe. But Wednesday destruction didn't come. Thursday, with jangled nerves, people were returning to work. That day three cruisers which had crept before the town in the Han River harbor bombarded Swatow. Three bombing planes came overhead and this day, with deadly accuracy, took toll of public buildings.

By night there lay waste—among other important buildings—the mayor's office, the central police station, and an orphan asylum!

That day while Marshall Field employes busied themselves at peaceful pursuits in several parts of the globe, our employes at Swatow, who had not fled, found plaster and calcimine shaken off our walls under the concussion of terrific explosives. Dirt, dust, and silt, which filled the air as a result of the great explosions, found their way into our building.

One of our executives visited corridors of a hospital crowded with cots, and in the morning viewed the leveled orphan asylum. By Thursday night, workers had lost their taste for remaining on their jobs, and every one fled!

Now, it is December, and business again is carrying on.

Such are the contrasting fields of commerce. While you listen to an orchestra in our Walnut Grill and view manikins on parade, across the earth Field people are carrying on for you, sometimes under conditions and circumstances you could never guess.

U. S. NAVY GETS MOVIES OF JAP ATTACK ON PANAY

army launches machine gunned the Panay as it was sinking, and that Japanese soldiers from these launches boarded the Panay shortly before it went to the bottom and remained there five minutes.

The American officers, in support of their charge that the attack was deliberate, explained that the weather was clear; that the name Panay, in letters more than a foot high, was plainly visible on the gunboat; that at the stern of the vessel a large American flag was flying, and that one of the Japanese launches which machine gunned the gunboat directed its fire at the side of the Panay upon which a large American flag was painted.

Sailor Killed by Bullet.

The officers also revealed that Ensminger did not die of shrapnel wounds from the Japanese air bombs, as had been reported, but of a machine gun bullet from the subsequent Japanese strafing of a small boat in which he and others were attempting to reach shore. The American seaman, it was said, had been only slightly wounded by shrapnel in the bombing of the gunboat. The machine gun bullet struck him in the back.

A Japanese spokesman announced, after the stories of the American officers had been made public, that a new and thorough investigation is being conducted into the sinking of the Panay.

The Japanese army and navy are making the investigation, the spokesman said, "to show their good faith as a result of contradictory statements about whether the Panay was machine gunned from the air and from launches on the Yangtze river before it went down."

It was hoped, the spokesman added, that the investigation will reveal the "absolute facts" of the attack on the gunboat and the Standard Oil company vessels.

Says Vessels Carried Oil.

In answer to a question whether the Standard Oil vessels carried gasoline or oil, a senior official of the company said a small quantity of oil was aboard. It had been picked up, he said, in Chinese territory. There is too much oil available to the Chinese to put credence in a rumor that the Japanese bombed the ships to prevent oil or gasoline from reaching Chinese troops, he said.

A graphic description of the bombing and subsequent events was given by Lieut. John Willard Geist, disbursing officer of the Panay. Lieut. Geist, whose home is in Altoona, Pa., spoke on behalf of Lieutenant Commander J. J. Hughes, skipper of the Panay, who suffered a broken leg in the bombing and who was too ill to talk. Lieut. Geist also was wounded in the back and leg by shrapnel fragments.

The officers, crew, and diplomatic and civilian refugee guests aboard had just finished luncheon at about 1:30 p. m., Lieut. Geist said, when planes were heard approaching.

Bombed Without Warning.

"Three heavy silver bombers were perfectly visible in the almost cloudless sky, cruising at about 7,000 feet altitude," the officer continued. "Suddenly some one shouted: 'Look out! They are dropping bombs!'

"Those standing on the deck were awed as the missils gathered speed and fell toward the river with a fearful scream. The first bomb, with remarkable accuracy, struck the port side of the Panay, smashing everything and causing the ship to list heavily. It took on water so rapidly the men were soon up to their knees in it.

"The bombing occurred with such suddenness all aboard were stunned. We could not realize what had happened. Glass, shrapnel and débris were flying about. Two men on the port side were badly wounded.

Sailors Jump Into Position.

"When it became obvious that the Japanese were directing their attack on the Panay, an alarm was sounded and the men jumped into position. But they found that the concussion of the explosions had torn and twisted the gun shields like paper, making it impossible to bring the ship's machine guns to bear on the target, which obviously was beyond range. We also found the ship's generators out of commission.

"Immediately after the initial attack, six light bombers appeared. After flying over us once, they returned, took positions in a line, and started power diving, one after another. They dropped, bullet like, very low, and showered us with bombs and machine gun bullets.

"The steel deck literally buckled, the crew compartments were shattered, and shrapnel pierced the steel deck shields like they were cardboard. One large chunk of shell casing passed through two sides of the sick bay, leaving gaping holes two feet in diameter.

Twenty Bombs Dropped.

"Some twenty bombs were dropped altogether. Commander Hughes, who had suffered a broken leg when he was thrown against the wheel as the first bomb struck us, ordered his men to don life jackets and lower the boats. It was a miracle that the tackles were intact.

"The first boats were loaded with injured and taken to the north bank of the river, which proved to be low, reedy, and swampy. This was uncomfortable, but advantageous for the purpose of hiding, as later events indicated.

"Some of the men did not wait for boats, but jumped into the river and swam ashore. Others, including some civilians, jumped over to the Standard Oil company ships tied alongside the Panay. These vessels then moved away. It was impossible for us to navigate, since the engine room had been shattered.

Small Boats Attacked.

"During a brief lull in the Japanese attack the Standard Oil company vessel Meisha tried to come alongside and assist us. The executive officer of the Panay, Lieut. Arthur F. Anders, who had been severely wounded in the throat and was unable to speak, nevertheless managed to warn the Standard Oil company craft away. He realized that two ships together would provide the Japanese with a better target. The Meisha drifted away, with its officers yelling their intention to return.

"We then began sending more wounded men ashore. But at this point the small planes returned, flew low, and machine-gunned the small boats. The boats, however, managed to reach shore.

"Just as our boats were taking the last survivors and some supplies off we noticed two Japanese army launches approaching the stern of the Panay. We recognized the army launches because we had been stopped while proceeding upstream by similar army craft, who had asked our object in leaving Nanking. We had informed the Japanese then of the exact location at which we intended to anchor.

Launches Open Fire.

"The Japanese launches, despite the name 'Panay' plainly visible and the Stars and Stripes flying, machine gunned the Panay. They then cautiously approached, boarded and explored the vessel for a period of five minutes, and then went aboard the three Standard Oil company ships. I do not think the Japanese had time to search for the ship's papers and code books.

"Meantime we had managed to get ashore and were standing or lying in water knee deep among the reeds, which hid us. The Japanese planes flew overhead again, cut their engines, dived very low, and bombed the Standard Oil company ships deliberately and repeatedly.

"Our party ashore decided to scuttle and set the Panay's small boats adrift in order to leave the Japanese no trace of our whereabouts.

Two of Victims Die.

"Finally, after having rigged up improvised stretchers of blankets for the wounded, we united all the refugees and made our way to a small Chinese village, where we tore the boards from pig pens to make stretchers.

"Then J. Hall Paxton, second secretary of the American embassy, walked ahead and found the town of Hohsien, about five miles away. We struggled through the dark to Hohsien, which we reached about midnight, and set up a makeshift hospital of thatch. It was there that Ensminger died, soon after our arrival. Sandri died the next day.

"We remained there the rest of the night resting. At 3:30 p. m. Monday more Japanese planes flew overhead, dipped their wings and examined the ground closely. They dropped no bombs. All of us remained under cover.

Leave Aboard Junks.

"That night George Atcheson, second secretary of the embassy, accompanied by Lieut. Roberts, assistant military attaché, obtained six junks, upon which we proceeded toward the town of Hanshan, where we planned to obtain trucks and proceed to Hankow. After leaving the junks and upon approaching Hanshan, which is inland from the river, we separated into groups of three and walked 200 yards apart to avoid attracting attention."

At this point Lieut. Geist paid high tribute to the kindness and friendliness of the Chinese peasants, villagers, and soldiers, who carried the wounded, assisted the uninjured survivors, and even offered them food from their scanty stores.

Atcheson, after the party reached Hanshan, returned to the river and found the Oahu and the British gunboats, Ladybird and Bee, Lieut. Geist said. He returned to the town with assistance and the troubles of the refugees were ended.

A Haven of Sorrow.

The Whangpoo harbor seems a fitting haven for the sorrowful convoy coming into port bearing the dead and the survivors of the Panay catastrophe. The devastated and fire swept shores are silent—there is none of the usual noise and turmoil of a busy port.

Seldom a smile is seen. There is no pep in any one's movements. Even the usual crowd of the morbidly curious is absent. The depressed atmosphere is broken by a Japanese aerial circus. Seven fighting planes are put through their paces of acrobatics and formation flying.

Drama is unfurled as the convoy of ships which had been trapped for four months above the boom across the Yangtze at Kiangyin, sunk by the Chinese to block the Japanese advance on Nanking, come up the Whangpoo. The Japanese gunboats which escorted the Oahu are anchored down the harbor, together with commercial ships.

Ladybird Comes Into View.

At 4:45 p. m. the British gunboat Ladybird comes into view and 400 yards behind is the Oahu. Half masted colors float above the drawn faces of those on deck, and the caskets astern are visible. On the Ladybird a black and white pointer romps the deck, and overhead the low wing Japanese fighting monoplanes are circling in formation.

The United States flagship Augusta is waiting in midharbor and as the Ladybird passes slowly to the left salutes are exchanged. The Oahu pulls into anchor on the port side and as the ship is made fast a sharp whistle sounds. All naval men stand at attention, saluting the United States flag as it is lowered the remaining half way.

Three quick whistle blasts are followed by a clear command to carry on the work of unloading the dead and wounded. This is swiftly and efficiently accomplished.

Nanking Horror Described in Diary of War Reporter

[C. Yates McDaniel, Associated Press correspondent, who speaks Chinese, was within Nanking during the Japanese army's siege and capture of the capital of China. Here is his diary of those dangerous, uncertain days.]

BY C. YATES M'DANIEL.

C. Y. McDaniel. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Dec. 5—Conflicting reports started me on a motor expedition east of the city to find the war. I found it, all right, when my car was brought up by an explosion of a shell 200 yards ahead. I discovered I had driven through Japanese lines 28 miles from Nanking.

Drives Into No Man's Land.

Dec. 7.—Drove through flaming villages 15 miles out, fires set by retreating Chinese. Forced behind a farm house when a Japanese plane dived. Passed through Tangshan Hot Springs, and suddenly discovered I was in no man's land with shells from both sides whining over me. Backed the car quickly; was 300 yards from a Japanese battery.

Dec. 9.—Found southeastern gates barricaded, Chinese vigorously firing on Japanese half a mile outside. Japanese planes bombed houses two blocks away. Started forward, with a Chinese detachment, when Japanese planes appeared. I ducked into a dugout. Sticking out my head, saw a score of dead or writhing soldiers. I left.

Dec. 10—Ten Chinese batteries near American embassy barked all day. Near the south gate when bombs hit, killing forty soldiers. Forced to leave when Japanese got range and showered area with shrapnel. Last gate shut today, cutting off escape from doomed city.

Shrapnel Sprays Mountain.

Dec. 12—Nanking without water, meat, lights. Bombardment this afternoon terrific, even Purple mountain's 1,400 foot heights sprayed by shrapnel. This evening car engulfed by crazed mob of retreating Chinese; pushed many off running board. Forced to duck inside when bullets whistled all around. Saw ministry of communications explode and burn.

Dec. 13—Near north wall, suddenly saw Japanese climbing through breach. Emerged from car with hands up as Japanese soldier ran toward me with raised rifle. With Japanese permission, climbed through breached gate, walked through streets filled with dead Chinese. Some Japanese's sense of humor—decapitated head balanced on a barricade with a biscuit in the mouth, another with a long Chinese pipe.

Helped foreigners disarm Chinese troops, wandering around filling cars with machine guns, grenades, pistols, and rifles. Urged soldiers to shed uniforms and enter safety zone to save them from being executed.

Japanese Loot City.

Dec. 14.—Watched Japanese looting city. Saw one Japanese soldier who had collected $3,000 after threatening civilians in safety zone with a bayonet. Reached north gate through streets littered with dead humans and horses. Saw first Japanese car enter gate, skidding over smashed bodies. Finally reached waterfront, boarded Japanese destroyer, and was told Panay had been sunk.

Dec. 15.—Chinese thankfulness that the siege is over became dispairing disillusionment. Went with embassy servant to look for her mother. Found her body in ditch. Embassy office boy's brother also found dead. This afternoon saw some of the soldiers I helped disarm dragged from houses, shot, and kicked into ditches. Tonight saw group of 500 civilians and disarmed soldiers, hands tied, marched from safety zone by Japanese carrying Chinese big swords. None returns. Many Chinese seized, led away despite Japanese flags placed in houses and huts.

Embassy Staf Marooned.

Japanese soldiers attempted to enter the American embassy where I was living, but when I refused entry they withdrew. The embassy Chinese staf was marooned without water and fearful to step outside, so spent an hour filling buckets from the street well and bringing into the embassy.

Dec. 16—Before departing for Shanghai Japanese consul brought no-entry notices, which were posted on embassy property. En route to the river saw many more bodies in the streets. Passed a long line of Chinese, hands tied. One broke away, ran and dropped on his knees in front of me, beseeching me to save him from death. I could do nothing. My last remembrance of Nanking: Dead Chinese, dead Chinese, dead Chinese.

Tokio Plans New Panay Quiz; Holds Up Reply to U. S. Note

TOKIO, Dec. 18 [Saturday].—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today that Japan's reply to the United States' note demanding full redress for the sinking of the gunboat Panay would be materially delayed by American charges that Japanese surface craft and planes had machine-gunned the Panay and its fleeing survivors after the vessel was bombed.

"This is the most serious type of charge to make," the spokesman said. "Justice to both sides demands a full investigation, and a thorough inquiry cannot be made in a minute."

Japs Produce Some Testimony.

Naval officers brought forth testimony from a Japanese army surgeon who treated wounded persons from the Panay in an effort to disprove the charge of machine-gunning. This doctor, described as one of several who hastened to the scene and who treated eight foreigners and thirteen Chinese, said none was wounded by bullets. All injuries he saw were from bomb fragments or wooden splinters.

All sections of the Tokio government maintained silence concerning official information from Washington on the machine-gunning of the Panay. Officials declined to discuss the possibility of stronger American representations on this point.

The public was kept in ignorance of the machine-gunning charge. Newspapers did not print it. Instead they featured dispatches asserting that indignation over the Panay affair was subsiding in the United States.

Japs Stiffen Attitude.

High officials insisted they were confident the affair would be settled smoothly. It was noted that, however, as dispatches reported a cooling off of American public sentiment, that Tokio officials were less positive in their assurances that Washington's demands for amends would be met in entirety.

CHINESE, BRITISH, AND JAP ENVOYS MINGLE AT PARTY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Washington was still talking today of the success that attended the efforts of the state department's division of protocol in arranging a diplomatic reception held last night. Despite concern over wars and recent high feeling about events in the orient, Dr. Chengting T. Wang, ambassador of China, Hirosi Saito, ambassador of Japan, and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British envoy, mingled without incident.

CABINET SCANS NAVAL STORY OF PANAY'S SINKING

Occupied Two Hours with Official Reports.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Every phase of the Panay incident was canvased this afternoon by President Roosevelt at a two hour meeting with his cabinet.

Mr. Roosevelt presented to the group the official navy dispatches on the sinking of the gunboat by Japanese aircraft and the machine gunning of the floundering war vessel by Japanese surface craft. The reports were carried to the White House by Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations.

The traditional veil of secrecy was drawn about what transpired at the meeting, although its subject matter was made known. It was understood, however, that members of the cabinet were not called upon to discuss any course of action other than the watchful waiting policy now being pursued.

Dispatches Are Withheld.

The official dispatches, which conclusively confirmed reports that the attack on the American flag was deliberate and contradicted the Japanese apology that the attack was a mistake, are being withheld by the state department pending the findings of an official navy board of inquiry on the scene.

As Mr. Roosevelt was poring over the story of Lieutenant Commander James J. Hughes, skipper of the Panay, Hirosi Saito, the Japanese ambassador, called at the state department. The ambassador said he came merely to present information on the Panay incident contained in his dispatches from the Japanese foreign office.

He would not venture a prediction as to when this government may expect a formal reply to its protest against the sinking of the gunboat near Nanking, China, last Sunday.

In view of the revelations that the sinking Panay was machine gunned and boarded by Japanese, it has been expected that this government may lodge a protest even more stern than the usual action taken by President Roosevelt in the request that the Japanese emperor be notified.

Admiral Sees President.

Admiral Leahy had a fifteen minute conference with the President at which he left the navy dispatches on Mr. Roosevelt's desk in the executive office.

Earlier in the day at his press conference Mr. Roosevelt, with a curt "no," said he did not believe a referendum on the declaration of war was consistent with a democratic form of government. A petition circulated by Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.], proposing a constitutional amendment for a war referendum, was signed by 218 representatives during the week, which will force a house vote on the proposal. It is believed the proposal will be killed, if not in the house then certainly in the senate.

Five of the twelve wounded members of the crew of the Panay are in a serious condition, Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the Asiatic fleet, reported to the navy department in the afternoon upon the arrival of the wounded in Shanghai. Eight of the wounded, including Lieutenant Commander Hughes, were taken aboard the cruiser Augusta, flagship of the squadron.

Mrs. Loretta Conlon leaving cell in county jail yesterday.

They had hardly gotten used to having a woman around debtor's row at the county jail before she was gone. She is Mrs. Loretta Conlon, 30 years old of 6059 South California avenue, who was sent to jail Thursday for failure to satisfy a $300 slander judgment carrying a malice count, which was obtained by a neighbor, Mrs. Gertrude Kosary of 6417 South Claremont street.

Mrs. Conlon sought release Thursday on a writ of habeas corpus, which was dismissed. When the money was not immediately available she was taken to jail. Yesterday her husband, Policeman Harry Conlon, raised $150 and paid the court costs, which satisfied Mrs. Kosary, and the prisoner was released. The slander suit grew out of a back fence squabble.

PREDICT BRITAIN WILL INCREASE FLEET IN CHINA

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Great Britain looked to the defense of its far eastern possessions tonight as reports indicated Japan's war soon might be extended to south China. A high diplomatic source predicted an increase in British naval strength in Chinese waters "by early in January" with or without the United States taking parallel action.

The admiralty announced that the cruiser Birmingham would leave Portsmouth for Shanghai "in about two weeks" to replace the cruiser Danae, which recently returned.

Britain has conferred with France and the Netherlands, the diplomat intimated, on the possibility of pooling their power in far eastern waters. The French are strengthening Indo-China and the Netherlands is worried about the East Indies.

JAP WAR CHIEFS MAKE TRIUMPHAL NANKING ENTRY

Display Military Might in Conquered City.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 18 [Saturday].—With Japan's highest army and navy leaders in control of the situation in Nanking, Chinese hoped today that the period of harsh military rule which had gripped China's former capital since the Japanese captured it Monday would be ended.

Gen. Iwane Matsui, commanding the Japanese armies in the Yangtze valley, and Vice Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commanding Japanese naval forces in China waters, made a glittering triumphal entry yesterday into the city which for a decade had symbolized hopes of reborn China.

Appeal for Medical Aid.

Fourteen American missionaries who remained in Nanking through the siege and capture of the city and still were working to alleviate sufferings of the inhabitants sent an urgent appeal to Shanghai for doctors and other missionaries to come to their aid.

With him marched Lieut. Gen. Prince Yasuhiko Asaka, head of one of the branches of Japan's imperial family, who held an important command in the armies storming Nanking.

From the river side entered Admiral Hasegawa and his bluejackets. The two Japanese contingents met in the heart of the city and exchanged congratulations.

At further ceremonies in the national government building a band played Japan's national anthem, the rising sun flag was hoisted, "banzais" were shouted, while the victors quaffed sake, their native rice wine, and nibbled surume, dried cuttlefish.

The Japanese forces meantime carried the war deeper into the heart of the Yangtze valley.

Hankow Fears Like Fate.

Inhabitants of Hankow, great midland industrial center 400 miles up the Yangtze from Nanking, and Canton, the metropolis of the south, were convinced their cities soon would share Nanking's fate.

Admiral Hasegawa, in a statement announcing his formal entry into Nanking, said:

"The Japanese government is not satisfied with the success of its arms with the capture of Nanking. The situation is far from being settled.

Admiral Hasegawa mentioned the sinking of the United States gunboat Panay by his naval warplanes Sunday in the following passage:

"Japanese efforts to accord protection to third powers unfortunately were marred by a most unhappy incident involving American and British warships, which I deplore from the bottom of my heart."

TOKIO PROTESTS TO RUSSIA OVER ARREST OF JAPS

Holds Detention Without Trial "Unthinkable."

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Dec. 18 [Saturday].—In a strong memorandum handed the soviet embassy yesterday the Japanese government protested the arrest and continued detention of Japanese subjects in Russia and requested a "responsible" answer at the earliest possible date.

The Japanese described the holding of its citizens without trial as "utterly unthinkable in any civilized country and totally impossible in a country where the people's rights are protected by a constitution."

One Japanese, it was charged, has been held continuously since March 27 on a charge of espionage. Two others were taken in May, another in July, and still another in September in connection with alleged cases of military espionage, said the protest, which was presented by the foreign office.

The Japanese note pointed out that not one of the accused has been brought to trial despite repeated requests of the Japanese government that investigations be speeded.

The Japanese government, the note said, now takes the position that "it is impossible longer to forbear while the safety of its nationals is so imposed on."

As an example of GPU [Russian secret police] methods the note charged that on Nov. 4 an unknown woman handed an envelope to Daiji Takahashi, director of a Japanese firm in Vladivostok.

He accepted the letter unwittingly, the Japanese charged, and immediately several soviet officials, evidently lying in ambush, took him into custody.

"Takahashi was placed in detention," said the note. "The trial has not yet been held. Soviet officials have failed entirely to submit any information."

The Whole Nation has taken her delightfully candid and revealing story to its heart

THIS IS MY STORY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

The autobiography of a shy, awkward girl who became one of America's most distinguished women. "You follow with absorbed, perhaps amazed, attention the story of a woman who is the child of America's old and formal social traditions. A personal story, vivid, interesting, touched with humor, arresting in its combination of frankness and charm."—N. Y. Times Book Review.

A small personal touch often adds a great deal of value. Now take a book autographed by the author. That's OUR best example. A signed copy is not only prized by the owner—but even the actual reading of the book seems more vivid and real because the author's hand has touched it! If you don't believe us, try it and see. This year Kroch's have secured several autographed copies each from A. J. Cronin, Richard Halliburton, Lloyd Douglas, Alexander Woollcott, Marjorie Hillis, Hendrik van Loon, Victor Heiser, M. JUDGES ASK MORE PAY FOR BAILIFS; COUNTY SAYS NO

Blame Heavier Budget for Institutions.

A committee of judges from the Circuit and Superior courts was told yesterday by the finance committee of the county board that an increase in pay for bailifs of the two courts is out of the question at this time. Heavy budget increases for institutional improvements, such as those at the County hospital, were given as the reason.

The judges had asked that their personal bailifs receive salaries of $250 a month. Thirty-two bailifs now receive $184 a month and eighteen get $185. Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court acted as spokesman.

After replying to the judges, the finance committee acted favorably on a plea by Miss Mary McCann, 5012 Winthrop avenue, who is blind, that all blind adults be placed on the blind pension rolls if they have no income.

UNCONTESTED DIVORCE GIVEN MRS. C. H. KIRK

Mrs. Clara Hollis Kirk, daughter of Henry L. Hollis, manager of the Potter Palmer estate, yesterday was granted an uncontested divorce on grounds of desertion from Alexander Kirk, a stock broker at 231 South La Salle street.

Mrs. Kirk lives at 936 Lake Shore drive. They were married Sept. 14, 1927, at St. Chrysostom's church. Kirk deserted her Nov. 23, 1936, she said when questioned by her attorney, James H. Cartwright.

Mrs. Kirk, who is 35 years old, waived allmony. There are no children. Her attorney and William C. Boyden Jr., counsel for Kirk, informed the court that Mrs. Kirk was satisfied with an out of court settlement.

26 FAMILIES GET FREE QUARTERS AFTER EVICTION

Twenty-six families recently evicted from their homes for nonpayment of rent have been given free temporary living quarters, Judge Leon Edelman of the Renters' court announced yesterday at a meeting with his emergency housing committee. In addition 50 unemployed family heads have been given jobs with various industrial concerns, he said.

The committee members, headed by Ralph Lee Goodman, executive vice president of the Rotary club, plan to ask the University of Chicago, Wieboldt foundation, Polish Roman Catholic Union, and the Polish National Alliance for available vacant properties to house other evicted families.

HUNT 6 YEARS FOR HEIR OF FORMER HEIR SEARCHER

An unsuccessful search for a missing heir of Percy B. Coffin, who as public administrator for Cook county from 1925 to 1930, sought missing heirs of estates under his jurisdiction, was disclosed yesterday in Probate court records.

Coffin left an estate of $35,763. For more than six years Grafton W. Coffin, a half brother who was left one-sixth of the estate, has been sought. He was last heard of in Indianapolis, Ind., in 1931, although the search has extended as far as Cape Town, South Africa.

RESTAURANT OWNER KILLED.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Best of Recent Plays Brought Out for Reader

The armchair playgoer who has a real passion for the theater, but too little theater to patronize, may take himself to the play vicariously in these recent publications. Practically all these plays are now current in New York.

French Without Tears, by Terence Merryn Rattigan [Farrar & Rinehart, $2], is light British comedy, a smash hit in London and New York.

George and Margaret, by Gerald Savory [Farrar & Rinehart, $2], is another high jinks from London, a little on the "You Can't Take It with You" pattern of a ridiculous family.

Boobi Service, by John Murray and Allen Boretz [Random, $2], said by one exuberant critic to be the funniest play ever to hit New York, is about the show business.

Yes, My Darling Daughter, by Mark Reed [Samuel French, $2], late of Chicago but still going strong in New York, is sprightly comedy.

The Women, by Clare Boothe [Random, $2], also gone after a long success here, but flourishing in New York, is amusingly revealing about them.

And Stars Remain, by Julius J. and Philip G. Epstein [Samuel French, $1.50], late of Broadway, tells how a pompous family goes human.

To Quito and Back, by Ben Hecht [Covici-Friede, $2], lands an American intellectual in a revolution in Ecuador and gives him a chance to be a hero. It had a short life in New York.

Sherwood Anderson's Plays [Scribners, $2.50] contains a famous novelist's "Jasper Deeter," "Winesburg," "Triumph of the Egg," "Mother," and "They Married Later."

Tovarich, by Jacques Deval, adapted by Robert Sherwood [Random, $2], is a witty and breezy comedy about Russian exiles, imminent in Chicago.

Of Mice and Men, by John Steinbeck [Covici-Friede, $2], is a dramatization of a gripping short novel of last spring.

Two books by well known producers have been published recently.

To Lonely Boy, by Arthur Hophkins [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50], is a philosophical autobiography revealed in a series of letters to a friendless boy in a hospital.

Announced for immediate publication:

Amphitryon 38, by Jean Giraudoux, adapted by S. N. Behrman [Random, $2], brings to the American stage one of France's most popular recent plays, classic but deliciously modern.

Day's 'Life with Father' Made Into Talking Book

Clarence Day's best seller, "Life with Father," has been made into a talking book record for the blind instead of being printed in Braille, as only 25 per cent of the blind have fingertips sufficiently sensitive to enable them to read Braille.

This List Offers a Wide Variety in Cook Books

Many readers of books agree with Owen Meredith that "we may live without friends, we may live without books, but civilized men cannot live without cooks." They scan the shelves of new cook books as eagerly as the table of new novels. There have been some excellent additions to those shelves of late.

Edith Key Haines' Cook Book [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50] is "neither as plain as a boiled potato nor as dressy as a chef's menu." It is easy to follow and very worth following. By the author of the de luxe "Tried Temptations."

Home Grown, by Della Lutes [Little Brown, $1.75], tells more delightful stories about the characters in "The Country Kitchen" and gives more old fashioned recipes.

To the Queen's Taste, by Helen Train Hilles [Random, $2.50], is wittily written and explains how to make the most of your meals.

Corned Beef and Caviar, by Marjorie Hillis and Bertina Foltz, is a cook book for those who "Live Alone and Like It" [or don't, but have to anyway] by the author of that immensely popular self-help book.

Serve It Forth, by M. F. K. Fisher [Harper, $2.50], hasn't recipes, but it is a delicious book about food.

America's Cook Book [Scribners, $2.50] is a big comprehensive volume of recipes compiled by the home institute of the New York Herald-Tribune, with an introduction by Emily Post.

10,000 Snacks, by Cora, Rose, and Bob Brown [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.75], is a recipe book of canapes, savories, relishes, hors d'oeuvres, sandwiches, and appetizers for before, after, and between meals.

The Country Cook Book, by Cora, Rose, and Bob Brown [Farrar & Rinehart, $2], is a cook book for farm, country home, camp, and trailer.

Cook Away, by Elizabeth Case and Martha Wyman [Longmans, Green, $1], is another good outing cook book, as is also Meals on Wheels, by Lou Willson and Olive Hoover [Modern Age, 25 cents], which solves the problems of cooking in a trailer.

Dine Your Friends [$2] is one of those special cook books compiled by a group of women famous for their culinary art. It is published by the Women's Faculty club of Northwestern university medical school and is sold for the benefit of clinics of the school.

Author Gives a Bootblack a Surprise and Gets One

John Bakeless stopped for a shoe shine in Union square carrying one of the first copies of his biography of "Christopher Marlowe" [Morrow, $3.75]. "Is that a good book?" asked the bootblack, looking up. Dr. Bakeless modestly replied that, being the author, he was hardly in a position to say. "My goodness," exclaimed the bootblack, "are you Christopher Marlowe?"

It has been many a year since any book in the general field of business and commerce has been sold in the volume of How to Win Friends and Influence People, by Dale Carnegie [Simon & Schuster, $1.96].

Maj. L. L. Angus, who went to town two years earlier with his pamphlet, "The Coming American Boom," did well, although not as well, with Slump Ahead in Bonds [Somerset Publishing company, $1], in which he expressed the belief that the federal reserve control of commodity prices and the SEC control of the Dow-Jones averages was so complete that the traditional trade cycles might well be looked upon as of the past.

Charles G. Dawes, in How Long Prosperity? [Marquis company, $1], using the empirical method thought by Angus to be outmoded, shared with Angus the conclusion that business would be prosperous throughout 1937. Unhappily the course of events supported the conclusion of neither, but suggested the validity of the thesis of W. J. Baxter in America Faces Its Greatest Depression [International Economic Review, $1].

The prolific and heretic English writer, Paul Einzig, brought his contemporary history of finance down to date with World Finances 1935-1937 [Macmillan, $3], in which is available a good running account of the succession of crises of the last three years.

Toward the end of a year in which there were more strikes than ever before, except for one year, a book about union labor for the general reader became available. When Labor Organizes, by Robert R. Brooks [Yale University Press, $3], is ably written and for the most part impartially.

Lionel D. Edie in Easy Money [Yale University Press, $2] has written a short volume which gives an expert's analysis of the dangers of artificially low interest rates. The Twentieth Century fund, which the great Boston merchant, Edward A. Filene, endowed, published a number of books during the year of wider than professional economic interest. These included Facing the Tax Problem [$3], in which is presented a survey of taxation and a program for the future, and two volumes about the place of big business in the national economy, Big Business, Its Growth and Its Place [$1.35] and How Profitable Is Big Business? [$1.50]. And it remained for Prof. Melchior Palyi, formerly of the staf of a Berlin bank, to write the best book ever published about Chicago as a financial center, The Chicago Credit Market [University of Chicago, $4].

The investor may be interested in the Common Stock Theory of Investment, by C. C. Borland [Ronald Press, $2.50], in which the author brings down to date the studies of Dwight C. Rose and Edgar L. Smith of the relative merits of stocks and bonds as long term investments.

Wood cuts by Lynd Ward tell the complete story of the lives of the three persons in "Vertigo" [Random House, $3].

Books About Art and Artists

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Not for many years has there been such a rich shelf full of books about art and artists. Most of them are destined for the reader who wants information and guidance, but some are for the connoisseur who wants a collation of facts handsomely illustrated.

The Arts, by Hendrik Willem Van Loon [Simon & Schuster, $3.95], is one of those vastly stimulating books for any reader, whatever his artistic leanings or ignorance, for it is really the story of mankind through man's efforts to embellish life. Mr. Van Loon, eminent historian with the true gift of making knowledge popular, writes intimately of all the arts, minor as well as major, as they have lived in the past and as they may live in your life and mine. The book is copiously illustrated by the author.

The World History of Art, by Sheldon Cheney [Viking, $5], is a panoramic view of a vast subject, written for "the man who has heard hopefully that art is important and who wants a personal approach to it." Almost 500 photographs of masterpieces of sculpture, architecture, and painting illumine the 900 odd pages.

Five Hundred Self-Portraits [Oxford University Press, $3] is one of the most interesting picture books in years, with full page reproductions of self-portraits of the great from antiquity to the present. Some of them are almost autobiographies, so revealing are they. The subjects were chosen by Ludwig Goldscheider and the book was originally printed in Vienna for George Allen and Unwin, Ltd., of London.

The Journal of Eugene Delacroix, translated from the French by Walter Pach [Covici-Friede, $7.50], is a self-revelation rare in literature, one of the important intimate records of any language, recognized so in France, now available here in English for the first time. Not only the painter and his artist friends people the book, but great writers of the mid-nineteenth century as well.

An Artist in America, by Thomas Hart Benton [McBride, $3.75], is an autobiography, an interpretation of American life as lived by those with their roots in American daily life, and an indictment of artistic sham . . . a vigorous, sometimes violent, hard hitting, vivid record of an egoist with bright, seeing eyes.

The Testament of Caliban, by David Edstrom [Funk & Wagnalls, $3], is another autobiography of an artist, a sculptor, and an egoist, a man with the most mercurial, physical, and spiritual experiences, all of which he records ruthlessly.

Rodin, by Judith Cladel [Harcourt Brace, $3.75], is a full length biography of an incomparable sculptor and a strange human being by a woman who knew him first when she was a child, who for many years served him as secretary and who, more than another, knew what his late success meant to him.

The Life of Paul Gauguin, by Robert Burnett [Oxford, $3.50], takes apart the legend of the "heartless madman" and finds him generous and patient, but a man in whose nature there was something beyond his control.

Vermeer, by Philip L. Hale [Hale, Cushman & Flint, $5], completed by Frederick W. Coburn and Ralph T. Hale, brings up to date, with the inclusion of recently unearthed material, a classic book on a classic painter. The illustrations in color and monochrome include reproductions of all of his known paintings.

Cezanne Paintings and Drawings and The Impressionists [Oxford University Press, $3 each], both come from the Phaidon press of Vienna and contain a few pages of explanatory text and a hundred beautiful reproductions in color and photogravure. They are as fine books of their kind moderately priced as we have seen.

The Disasters of the War, by Francisco de Goya [Oxford University Press, $1.50], reproduce in their original size the eighty-five etchings of the great Spanish master depicting graphically the horrors of war.

French Painting and English Painting, by R. H. Wilenski [Hale, Cushman & Flint, $3.50 each], reprint at a more moderate price two standard volumes, with the original plates.

Six Centuries of Fine Prints, by Carl Zigrosser [Covici-Friede, $5], is a long monograph on prints as the art of the people, followed by 488 reproductions of the great prints of all time.

Chinese Art, by Leigh Ashton and Basil Gray [Hale, Cushman & Flint, $5], is a general introduction to the enormous subject of Chinese art. It appeared in England coincidentally with the great exhibition of Chinese art at Burlington house. It has 192 illustrations of fine examples of each dynasty's best.

Paintings of the Royal Collection, by Roy Bishop [Lippincott, $5], comments on their artists and describes the paintings at Windsor castle, Buckingham palace, Hampton court, Balmoral and Holyrood house, belonging to the crown, and in most cases not for public view.

Painters and Personality, by Sam A. Lewisohn [Harpers, $3.75], is written by an amateur [who has one of the most famous private collections in America] "to drive home a point—that in the creation of significant art the personality of the artist is the decisive factor." It is illustrated with reproductions of famous modern paintings.

Contemporary Mexican Artists, by Agustin C. Chavez [Covici-Friede, $2.75], is the first comprehensive record of the new school of Mexican painters. One hundred reproductions illustrate it.

New Woollcott Reader Is Full of Real Delight

"Woollcott's Second Reader." [Viking, $3.]

"Woollcott's Second Reader," like "The Woollcott Reader" published in December, 1935, is an anthology omnibus of books, stories, and essays which have interested Alexander Woollcott. His contribution in the choice of material is one for which he deserves gratitude from any reader. His contributions, short notes on each of the selections, are sometimes witty, sometimes just a little whimsy whamsy, but always informative.

"Woollcott's Second Reader" is the year's most for your money, both in format and in entertainment value.

There are twenty authors in this literary circus of 1,056 pages, with Mr. Woollcott as ringmaster. To many readers their tricks will be even more alluring than those in the first reader.

There are seven complete books, previously published as separate volumes, including two delightful and satiric novels—both about the author business. There are two joys of our childhood. There is an incomparable book of literary parodies. There is Clarence Day's equally incomparable "God and My Father." There is a bitter brief "Portrait of M. M.," by D. H. Lawrence.

There are short stories by Willa Cather, Edith Wharton, Ernest Hemingway [a tale about trout fishing], Albert Halper, and Dorothy Parker.

There are fascinating oddments from the pens of Gustav Eckstein, William Bolitho, and Stephen Crane, and others.

ILLINOIS MINE BOMBING CASE GIVEN TO JURY

John L. Lewis Blasted by Defense Counsel.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—A federal court jury tonight was deliberating the fate of 36 defendants accused of a bombing conspiracy against railroads and mines during the union terrorism which reigned in the central and southern Illinois coal fields from 1932 to 1935. The case was given to the jury by Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle at 6:50 o'clock tonight. The 33 day trial began on Nov. 15.

The judge told the jurors that even if they reach a verdict tonight it will not be opened until 9 a. m. tomorrow. The jurors quit deliberating at 11 p. m. and returned to their hotel. It was rumored they had reached a verdict.

Defense Blasts Lewis.

Ringing in the jurors' ears as they retired were the defense's assaults on John L. Lewis as the instigator of the prosecution, as a man swayed by a Napoleonic complex. Opposed to this were the government's assertions that Lewis was no factor in the case, and that the defendants were bound together by association, common purpose, and evil design.

The defendants are members of the Progressive Miners of America or sympathizers with that union.

In his instructions to the jury, Judge Briggle said that if a conspiracy is established, any unlawful act committed by one defendant is binding on the others. The common design is the essence of criminal conspiracy, he said.

Face Prison Terms.

The defendants, if found guilty, face maximum sentences of two years in the penitentiary and $10,000 fines on each of the two conspiracy charges. Early today the judge overruled motions for directed verdicts of acquittal for the 36 men.

Word was received here of the death this morning of W. C. Argust, division superintendent for the Peabody company at Taylorville, in the Washington Boulevard hospital in Chicago. Argust, who was 56 years old and had been employed by the Peabody company since 1914, had testified as a government witness at the bomb trial and told of a Progressive march on Taylorville in 1932.

Argust became ill in Chicago after giving this testimony and the defense was unable to bring him back for further cross-examination. The defense wished to question him concerning purported settlements totaling $5,350 by the Peabody Coal company to two Progressive miners, John Stanley and Charles Deavers.

DR. FRANK DELAYS 'ACCEPTANCE OF G. O. P. POLICY JOB

Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, indicated last night through John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, that if he can arrange his business affairs, he will take the chairmanship of a program committee to draft a new charter for the G. O. P. Dr. Frank was selected Thursday by the Republican national committee at St. Louis. Yesterday Mr. Hamilton came to Chicago to tender him the position.

The Republican chairman said Dr. Frank authorized him to make this statement:

"If I [Dr. Frank] am able to arrange my personal and business affairs, I shall accept this post as the greatest honor and obligation of my life. I cannot know for a few days."

Chairman Hamilton, before leaving for a regional meeting at Tacoma, Wash., last night, described the new policy committee as "an absolutely independent agency of the Republican party, built up to give its advice on what is best for the party and the country."

'ACT TO PREVENT DELAYS IN 1937 TAX COLLECTIONS

The board of tax appeals will be given additional clerks and auditors in an effort to prevent delay of the penalty date on 1937 tax collections, Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, promised yesterday. The extra help will be recruited from various county offices.

County officials in charge of taxes pointed out that they cannot compute tax rates or prepare tax bills, including those on real estate, until the board of appeals reviews personal property assessments. The first hearing on personal tax complaints will be held on Jan. 17. The extra help is wanted to speed up this work.

Mystery Slaying

Rose Ault, 30, whose body was found in Pittsburgh hotel room.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 17.—[Special.] Four C. I. O. delegates to the first national convention of John L. Lewis' steel workers' organization were held by authorities today in connection with an investigation into the mysterious death of a woman whose nude body was found in their downtown hotel room

A maid who went to the room after the men had left found the body of Rose Ault, 30 years old, a divorcée, lying on a bed. District Attorney Andrew T. Park ordered the four delegates held as material witnesses pending an inquest and investigation.

A note found on a dresser in the room read:

"Jake: We are pulling out on the 4 o'clock train. Better get rid of it if you can. We will see you in New York some time next week. Fred."

Fred A. Odenwald of Ozone Park, L. I., and Louis H. Green of Brooklyn, who are detained in New York, said they left for home yesterday. Jacob Zelkind and Morris Engargola, both of Brooklyn, who remained, were held by Pittsburgh police.

THREE GIRLS DIE OF BURNS IN FIRE AT MATCH PLANT

Three girl employés died in Passavant hospital yesterday and four others remained there in critical condition from burns suffered early Thursday morning in the $50,000 fire at the Superior Match company plant, 60 West Superior street. A coroner's investigation of the fire was continued to Feb. 2, pending recovery of some of the victims.

Those who died yesterday were Miss Jean Lasky, 19 years old, 2143 North Austin boulevard; Miss Anna Monde, 21 years old, 733 West 17th place, and Miss Catherine Terleski, 19 years old, 819 Cleveland avenue.

LABORER QUIZZED IN KIDNAP KILLING OF MATTSON BOY

Seized yesterday as a suspect in the kidnap-murder of Charles Mattson in Tacoma, Wash., a year ago, a farm laborer was questioned by agents of the federal bureau of investigation at the detective bureau last night. He is Hans Kissling, 32 years old. Federal agents said he fitted the description of the kidnaper of the 10 year old Mattson boy, even to his clothing, which included a checked cap and red neckerchief. Kissling said he was working on a farm near Minneapolis at the time of the kidnaping, Dec. 27, 1936. Minnesota authorities were asked to confirm this.

PROF MAKES HIS POINT; STICKS A PIN IN STUDENT

Hypnotism Lesson Driven Home to Class.

Assistant Professor Harold A. Swenson, University of Chicago psychologist, wishes it known that he doesn't hypnotize students for the express purpose of sticking a pin into them. The pin is purely incidental.

On Thursday Prof. Swenson persuaded Murray A. Powell, a junior in his class, to go into a hypnotic sleep, and while it is true that he subsequently jabbed a cauterized pin into the sleeping student's arm, to the horror of every one but Powell, there was a purpose behind it all.

Lessons from a Pin.

Prof. Swenson observed that much is learned concerning general psychology from such an experiment, the effects of ideas, for example, and data on certain functional disorders such as stammering or stuttering.

"I told Powell his left arm was insensible to pain," Prof. Swenson said, "and he felt nothing when the pin entered his arm. When it merely touched his little finger, however, which he had been told was extremely sensitive, there was a violent reaction.

"He was told also that he would be unable to pronounce Mississippi without stuttering when he awakened and that he would again go to sleep when I folded my arms. Both of these things proved to be true, and he couldn't pronounce the word until told he was able to do so.

Recalls Childhood Event.

"During his trance he was able to recall things that had happened when he was a child, including his father's departure for France during the world war, when he was 3 years old."

Prof. Swenson said it is a simple matter to hynotize any one except those who refuse to concentrate or are insane or idiotic.

At his home at 2252 West 111th street yesterday, Powell said he felt no aftermath of the pin jabs and could remember very little of his father's departure for France. And he pronounced Mississippi without so much as batting an eye.

TWO FUGITIVES FROM ALCATRAZ BELIEVED DEAD

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Alcatraz Island authorities tonight felt certain the two desperate Oklahoma convicts who escaped from the federal prison yesterday had died in a long gamble on swimming the mile and a half of treacherous waters to the mainland.

They said Ralph Roe, who was serving ninety-nine years for bank robbery, and Theodore Cole, under a fifty year term for kidnaping, had only about one chance in a thousand to accomplish what no man ever has done. One of the worst ebb tides of the year was swirling the icy waters at the time the men disappeared.

Warden James A. Johnston said he didn't believe the men could have made their way even out to a boat had one been standing out of sight in the heavy fog waiting for them. He declared the felons' bodies probably were swept out to sea through the Golden Gate.

190 MINERS TO SUE LEWIS FOR $570,000 WAGES

Du Quoin, Ill., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—George W. Dowell, chief counsel for the Progressive Miners of America, announced tonight he will file suit for $570,000 damages in Circuit court tomorrow against John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chairman; Ray Edmundson, Illinois head of the United Mine Workers of America; their subordinate officers and agents, and the Peabody Coal company.

Dowell said the $570,000 represents $3,000 for each of 190 plaintifs who will allege they were denied employment at the Majestic mine here, where they formerly worked, because of their affiliation with the PMA.

The attorney said the suit also will demand that Lewis account for $900,000 said to have been diverted from the U. M. W. A. to the C. I. O.

2 DEPUTIES SHOT AS THEY GUARD FORD WORKERS

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Two deputy constables were shot in the legs late today during a fight between five occupants of an automobile and members of a caravan of 300 cars the officials were escorting home from the Fort Motor company plant where a C. I. O. strike has been in progress a week.

The deputies said they were unable to say who fired the shots. The five men in the car said they had stopped beside the deputies to demand that the Ford workers be searched for weapons. Then the fighting started.

A man fired several shots at the employés when the caravan went to work this morning. The man fled as police fired at him. A tear gas barrage police laid down was turned back on them by a strong wind.

OUR NAVAL SITUATION.

The drift of events in the far east does not encourage complacency in the people of the United States with regard to the national defense. The American people have no disposition to engage in war and are determined not to be drawn into any conflict between other peoples. But they are fully aware that the decision may not always remain with us and they will support a policy and program which regard that possibility. Parallel with their determination not to engage in war for inadequate reasons is the determination to establish adequate means to meet attack.

We have to consider these means in the light of recent events in the Pacific. We have given obvious offense to Japan and, whatever we may think of the wisdom and rectitude of our policy or of the spirit and methods of Japan, we have emphatic reasons to regard the future of our relations in a new light. First and foremost we cannot afford to permit Japan to become stronger than we are on the high seas. The navy is our first line of defense. It gives whatever weight we can expect to the diplomatic assertion of our rights in the Pacific and elsewhere. Through nearly two decades its development has been restricted in loyal respect to our policy of peace with all nations and to our experiments in armament reduction.

When this period of experimentation began the United States led off with the most substantial sacrifice made by any of the powers. It not only ceased to build capital ships—it scrapped battleships, nearing completion, which would have given the United States the strongest battle fleet in the world. At that stage the ratio of 5-5-3 for the battleships of Great Britain, the United States, and Japan, respectively, was agreed upon. That in itself was a sacrifice, for there was no doubt of the ability of the United States to outbuild any other power. It was accepted by the American people as an integral factor in an effort to stabilize the Pacific situation and make possible the maintenance of peaceful relations in that great arena of possible conflict.

This experiment has dismally failed, and the United States finds itself confronted by ominous possibilities of affront and attack, and with a naval strength formidable indeed, but below the strength it might and would have developed had its policy regarded the conditions that are now appearing.

Official information as to recent building by Japan seems not available. Japan did not join in an agreement among Great Britain, France, and the United States to exchange information. Our navy department's most recent estimates are of an increase by Great Britain of 26,690 tons up to July 1, bringing its total to 1,216,398 tons, as against a building by us of 5,995 tons in the same period, bringing our total to 1,083,330 tons. In the same period, according to such information as is available, Japan has built 10,922 tons to bring its assumed total to 745,594. It is, however, worth noting that the Giornale d'Italia, leading newspaper of the officialized Italian press, publishes an article reporting that three 46,000 ton battleships armed with 16 inch guns are now under construction in Japan, besides 43 other warships building or projected. The article asserts that by 1941 the Japanese strength will be 1,109,130 tons.

Ratio and limitations on size, character, and armament of ships are in the discard. Reports of Japanese building are not reasons for acute alarm, but they are not negligible and in the situation rapidly evolving in the Pacific should remind us that our relative naval strength is not satisfactory. The other great sea powers are rapidly increasing their naval forces, while the American congress has, in the Vincent-Trammel act of 1934, limited our construction to the limits of the treaties now discarded.

This restriction should be removed at once and our naval situation and program reconsidered in the light of present international conditions and prospects, with vigorous appropriate action to bring our naval strength up to the full responsibilities it is expected to meet. We are now released from any treaty restraints upon our policy or program. We are now free to fortify and increase our naval bases which are essential to the efficiency of operations in the Pacific. We are now free to build ships in quantity and quality to the full extent of our requirements. There should be no more delays.

PROGRESS AT LAST.

While not accompanied by the laying of a corner stone, the placing of any large order for equipment, or the lifting of the first shovelful of dirt, the parties most interested in the solution of our traction tangle made more progress last week than during the previous year. They came to virtual agreement as to the method of procedure.

While the city council, on the one hand, will thresh out the conditions of a franchise, the interested companies, on the other, will gather around a single table to discuss the conditions of a transportation merger. The efforts will be parallel and will be interdependent. The franchise will be prepared for acceptance by a consolidated company. The agreement that was made last week will form the foundation of all future plans.

Now for some good, hard spadework. The city council should discard all thoughts of huge civic traction funds, for these are impossible as the city grows in extent and the hauls become longer. New York, Philadelphia, and Boston have been obliged to subsidize, so that Chicago cannot dream of civic revenues. The companies must largely forget their tangled finances of the past and visualize a strong corporation for the future that will reap its rewards from the increased revenues that are bound to grow as soon as the adequate surface and rapid transit facilities are made available.

THE FUTURE OF OCEAN TRAVEL.

When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's Christmas visit to this country was made public it was not realized that the underlying purpose was a magnificent gift to American aviation. It consists of the fully developed plans for planes that will fly the Atlantic within the next year or two; airships that will have accommodation for a hundred passengers, a total payload of 25,000 pounds, with a flying radius of 5,000 miles, and cruising speeds that will vary from 200 miles at sea levels to 299 miles an hour at altitudes. Apparatus will be installed to maintain sea level pressures at the elevation where the Pan-American's experimental voyages have proved that continuous fair weather prevails.

The announcement is epochal. It spells the end of long distance passenger travel in ships. Only the future holds the secret of relations with foreign countries now separated from us by weary leagues of ocean travel when intercommunication will be possible within fifteen hours—from daylight to dusk. Nine years ago the Pan-American Airways made their initial attempt at over ocean flying with an experimental ninety-one mile hop to Cuba. Next year American flag heavier than air machines will offer services two-thirds around the world—from Southampton, England, via Ireland and the United States, to China and Australia.

AN IDEA IN CRIME PREVENTION.

A Milwaukee jury, uncertain and caring little whose hand fired the shot that killed one of its policemen in an interrupted robbery, solved its problem by convicting of first degree murder all four members of a bandit gang. Two of the quartet were not even at the scene of the slaying but several miles away guarding an employé of the plant they undertook to plunder. He had been threatened with torture to make him reveal the combination of the office safe and two stayed at his home to prevent him from communicating with the police.

All four were sentenced to life imprisonment, and now, a little more than a month after the robbery, are in the Wisconsin state penitentiary. It will be 16 years before any are eligible for parole and then, in the event that a soft hearted or corrupt parole board should undertake to release them, Milwaukee will step in again and try them for the robbery.

The jury accepted the argument of the district attorney that all visited Milwaukee armed and potential murderers. When a man was killed by one of them in pursuit of an activity in which all were engaged all became equally guilty of the murder.

Milwaukee, by reason of the straightforwardness of its courts and the diligence of its police, has earned an enviable record among the cities for freedom from crimes of violence. The recent decision in the case of the four Chicago hoodlums who went there to rob and kill will greatly strengthen that reputation.

RENOUNCING CITIZENSHIP.

The former Barbara Hutton, now Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, appeared in the federal District court on Thursday and renounced her American citizenship. When she married her present husband, a Danish noble, she became under Danish law a Danish subject, but as an American born remained under American law an American citizen. Thus she was subject to taxation both in Denmark and the United States, and taxation is no joke these days, to say nothing of double taxation. The countess' former fellow citizens will therefore understand the weighty financial considerations which moved her to give up a privilege most of them would find painful to lose on any ground. But they will also harbor doubt that the countess found it much of a wrench. The social class of high living, fast marrying New Yorkers, of which she was for a time a much publicized member, is American only by legal fiction. America for them is primarily a source of income.

Editorial of the Day

[Detroit News.]

New hope for the reclamation of the "dust bowl" has arisen from the most unlikely quarter. On the advice of agricultural experts farmers have adopted as an ally their former enemy, the Russian thistle.

The Russian thistle which first infested the plains a few years ago is a globular emerald bunch of scraggy stems and prickly foliage. Withstanding drouth almost as hardily as the cactus, it breaks off when ripe and rolls tumble weed fashion before the wind, scattering its seeds profusely. It mixed with domestic crops, instantly seized all fallow or abandoned land and, springing up luxuriantly on millions of barren acres during the great drouth, was believed to mark the last step in the reduction of the wind-eroded plain to desert.

Then fortune miraculously reversed itself. Hungry cattle, destitute of other forage, began to nibble the supposedly inedible thistles and, although they didn't exactly flourish on them, they managed to live. It was seen that the thistles might be relied on in a pinch as a forage crop. This was something gained, but soon afterward a still more cheering fact came to light. Where the thistles had sown themselves thickly they stopped further wind erosion. Then, under their protection, the valuable native buffalo grass began to take hold. And finally, as soon as the grass had formed a good cover it choked out its protector, taking complete possession, and restoring the land to the happy condition it knew before rash plowing rendered it a prey to drouth and wind.

Now, says a dispatch from the Oklahoma panhandle, experts advise leaving the thistle alone where it exists, and propagating it where it doesn't. For it is emergency food, it is helping regrass the plains, and it will probably disappear when its work is done. By this singular means the problem of the dust bowl may be solved.

No better illustration of nature's recuperative power, or of the agriculturists' quick adaptability in making use of it, has been seen in our times.

MAXWELL STREET'S ad libbing sparkles. You might wonder how to make a customer of a man with a new pair of skiis on his shoulder. The merchant in this great open air market doesn't even change his tempo. "On his way to the north pole," he sings out. "Needs a warm coat and some heavy socks. Listen, mister, here's a bargain." The girl in furs, who must have come to watch, baffles them not. "The little lady's cold. Here's just the thing—nice warm galoshes," chants the first to see her. "Look, skating mittens," invites the next. Every one's a potentional customer. It's nine to one the well tailored man is a sightseer who isn't going to buy anything, but he gets quite as much attention as the shivering laborer who's obviously looking for a sweater or a work jacket. "Nice plaid overcoats," they tell the sightseer, and not until he has passed without turning back is the laborer buttonholed. You haggle on Maxwell street, or you're looked upon with suspicion; any one worth cultivating for a steady customer will walk off at least once before he buys. Canny merchants, these: they know the shoes will sell faster littered upon a push cart than neatly packed in boxes in a stall. The hardware merchant's reserve stock is on his shelves, but the pots and pans he's selling are strewn on the street; if he doesn't look too prosperous, buyers will think he's more anxious to sell and that his prices are better. You can't help wondering as the spectacles vender blows his breath on his lenses to demonstrate that they won't cloud up in the cold.

TWO GOLD PIECES.

"Gold cloth always reminds me," says the white haired little woman who's selling it, "of my first $20 gold piece. It was a present and I kept it for years. Then I found a $2.50 one. I'll have them, I thought, when I need them. Last winter I had no work and not very much to eat. But I was afraid to try spending them, because I hadn't turned them in when the gold was called by the government. One day I got so hungry I didn't care, and took them to the bank. They gave me the money in bills and change—didn't ask me a single question."

Now's he's getting twice what he said he was worth.

A man in the old home town retired early, last week, unaware that his wife had forgotten to shut off the radio. When the station resumed broadcasting next morning a voice suddenly boomed out, "Good morning, folks!" It startled the man so that he jumped out of bed, slipped, and broke his arm. "Is everybody," the radio inquired gayly, "happy?" B. E. M.

Its electric lights never go out, but just in case they should the company has gas lights in its building, too—tests them every day to be sure they're working. But caution just begins there. In the basement of its exchanges it keeps storage batteries. You see? If there were a disaster, and the electricity failed, and the gas, the company'd just send a man down to the basement to kick over a switch and use its own electricity.

HEARTACHE FROM TEA AND COFFEE.

ONE of the wisest of the medical writers of a generation ago was Clifford Allbutt. He was not only a keen observer, but his accuracy of statement was acknowledged. Of particular importance are his papers on heart disease, in one of which he calls attention to the fact that coffee drinkers and certain nervous persons are likely—especially in later life—to present symptoms which simulate the pain of angina. Others are bothered by irregularities of the beat amounting to palpitation.

As most of us know, caffeine is a valuable substance, the use of which has caught the fancy of the civilized world. To a greater or lesser extent most of us are addicts inasmuch as we drink from one to a half dozen cups of tea or coffee daily. We take it for its stimulating, buoying power. If one feels a bit "gone" the "cup that cheers but does not inebriate" is resorted to promptly and the drinker receives the influence of about 1½ grains of the drug.

But are its effects wholly beneficent? Among the millions of habitués there may be some in whom the nervous system will be overirritated. Those who abuse the privilege may find that their overactive nerves will rebel. The result may tell upon the machinery that governs the heart beat or regulates the caliber of the blood vessels. Carefully controled experiments have shown that large doses of caffeine will quicken the circulation, increase the blood pressure, produce disturbances of the rhythm of the pumping organ, and sometimes anginalike attacks.

In a recent article Robert L. Levy reports the case of a physician, aged 38, who complained of pain in the region of the heart which had existed for some months. He used tobacco moderately and, as he assumed, his consumption of tea and coffee was not excessive. The earliest symptoms observed were extra beats—in other words, the organ seemed to be throbbing out of turn. Knowing that tobacco could bring about such a phenomenon, he stopped smoking.

About the time the symptoms developed he noted also that pains in the chest were becoming more frequent, although the "ache" would continue at times for hours, even for several days. Exercise did not influence the distress in the slightest degree. He was advised to stop both tea and coffee and to resume smoking in moderation. A month thereafter the chest signs had vanished, although one cup taken in the morning would bring about their return some time during the day.

Inasmuch as he was skeptical as to his apparent sensitivity to the drug, he carried out an experiment on himself. He took a series of capsules, some of which contained two grains of caffeine while others were filled with sugar of milk, a perfectly innocuous substance. The contents of the capsules were unknown to him. Nevertheless, he could distinguish them unmistakably, because the onset of heart pain followed the ingestion of those which contained caffeine.

Levy points out that the character of the discomfort is different from that of true angina. It is not as severe, but is likely to be of long duration—lasting for hours. Furthermore, it may extend to the shoulders and travel down the arms. There is also obvious, in some instances, a sense of soreness which has no relation to exercise. The usual remedies for angina pectoris [nitroglycerin, amyl nitrite, etc.] had little or no effect.

While we must acknowledge that most of us will not be bothered at all, yet those who are predisposed belong to the high strung, worrying type who are occasionally obliged to face mental or emotional storms. The entire episode cannot be considered a psychic manifestation, because omitting these fluids brings complete relief. Even though drug susceptibility is not evident at the outset, it can be created by excessive indulgence. The answer to these sufferers is discontinuance of these beverages—at least for a time—with gradual resumption as symptoms fail to appear.

REPLY.

BUILDING AND LOAN STOCK.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have an account with a building and loan company of this city which includes paid up stock of $2,000 and an additional $1,100 applied on thirty shares on which I stopped payment in December, 1931. To date I haven't received any interest on my investment, and furthermore, I am unable to draw any money from the organization. Since 1933 the organization has made excuses for refusing to pay me. I would like to know what action I could take in order to get my money from the building and loan company. I would greatly appreciate your assistance if you could give me any suggestions as to a planned course of action. J. J.

Section 13 of the Illinois building and loan association act is in part as follows: "If the by-laws shall so provide, any member desiring to withdraw . . . may be required to make a written application which shall be received and filed in numerical order, and payments upon the same shall be made in the order in which they are filed; provided, however, if at any time, there is not sufficient funds . . . to meet the demands of matured and maturing shareholders and also the demands for voluntary withdrawals, then the board of directors may . . . determine what proportion shall be paid on voluntary withdrawals and what proportion shall be paid on matured or maturing stock."

Your right depend not only upon this and other sections of the act, but also upon the wording of the by-laws of your association.

MORE OF MINNESOTA.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 14.—I have read the editorial "More of Minnesota" in the Dec. 7 issue of your newspaper. The statements made in this editorial are entirely correct. I have shown it to a number of people who agree.

The necessity of your running this type of editorial as a commentary on conditions in the state is unfortunate. Apparently the self-styled great newspapers of Minneapolis are unable to cope with the situation brought to the attention of the country by yourself.

I write this as a commendation and hope it will have a good effect and correct some of the abuses prevalent in the state at the present time. I admire your courage. LAURENCE H. LUCKER.

HOW TO CATCH WORMS.

Fishermen, including small boys, along the Fox river, have been doing this for years to secure bait.

The worms just naturally can't stand the ticklish sensation caused by having live wires placed in the ground. The worms come to the surface to laugh. At this point they become fish bait, as the fisherman is lying in wait for their appearance.

New invention? Bah.

JAMES STEAGALL.

FROM A NORTH SHORE CUSTOMER.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—I took a North Shore electric train out of Lake Bluff today at 8:13 a. m. and sat in the last car of the train. We had no flagman to protect the rear end and the collector that took up our tickets was working three cars. Two passengers stepped off the second car to an icy platform at Chicago avenue while the train was in motion, endangering their lives. This is not a North Shore stop for this train. If the proper man power was on the train this would not happen. The North Shore has an extra list a mile long of trainmen who need work and cannot get enough work to keep them in clean linen or take them out of ragged uniforms. Something should be done about this. RIDER.

THE BELLS.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—We are surrounded by churches of various persuasions and customs. There are two young ladies living here who work very hard every business day. They complain of bells disturbing their morning sleep. Recently they were wakened by long ringing of bells at 5 a. m. and nearly every morning the bells ring long and loud about 6 o'clock. In early times bells were necessary because timepieces were possessed by public officials only. Nobody today has less than one timepiece in their home, and bells are no more needed than a horse drawn street car. P. C. ALLEN.

REFLECTION ON TAXES.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—I paid my gas and electric bills recently and I recalled a decision of the Supreme court [Black concurring] that Illinois was entitled to examine the books of the natural gas company. Our chairman said that it was a great victory, but a 50 per cent reduction will not pay the federal tax on my wife's cigarets. I smoke cigars. Other people should examine their bills and quit applauding the fighters of windmills. Cervantes had a word for it.

The September bulletin of the United States department of labor said that labor's share in national income paid out was higher in 1936 than in any of the preceding years for which the department of commerce has compiled estimates. This sounds good to me.

I think that the rule denying the utilities the right to add the occupational tax is wrong, as it hampers the growth of the companies and prevents normal business expansion. Their bonds are not attractive, which prevents an increase of working capital, and employment by the utilities and the supply companies is adversely affected. OLD TIMER.

THE WATER TOWER.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—I understand that the Chicago Woman's club committee on the preservation of Chicago traditions, with Mayor Kelly cooperating, are planning to make some kind of a pre-fire memorial out of the old water tower on the north side. This seems to be the only public building left which antedates the great fire.

The movement to keep this tower to show what the pre-fire architecture was, and also as a memorial to those who first built Chicago and then rebuilt it after the fire, seems to me a very worthy and timely one. It would, however, provide very little room for a museum for a fire exhibit, which exhibits can now be seen at the Chicago Historical society, but an appropriate bronze tablet is the main thing, it seems to me, to erect.

As my father and I lived for a number of years just north of the tower on Pearson street, I naturally feel a special interest in preserving this old landmark. I hope THE TRIBUNE is in favor of this.

JOHN V. FARWELL.

ROYALISTS.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—The ever peevish Mr. Ickes inveighs against what he calls "a few lords of the press." All the opponents of the New Deal are lords, royalists, etc. But verily it seems that the only royalty we have is in Washington, D. C., whence ukase after ukase has been issued and ratified by an obsequious majority in congress. Even so, the freedom of the press is still ours, in spite of veiled threats and insidious attacks. So long as we have that greatest of all bulwarks of freedom, it is still America and not some collectivist abortion.

Mrs. Shedd 84 Today; Plans to See a Movie

BY JUDITH CASS.

NO ONE of any age or in any walk of life could ask for a birthday celebration that would be easier for those who love her to arrange than today's 84 year old birthday "child," Mrs. John G. Shedd, for she wants to go downtown for luncheon and then to a movie.

Mrs. Shedd's companions on this jaunt will be her daughter, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, and her two granddaughters, Mrs. John P. Bent [Mary Reed] and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III. [Jean Schweppe].

Mrs. Shedd's two grandsons, John Shedd Reed and John Shedd Schweppe, arrive at home from Yale and Harvard respectively tomorrow to spend the first half of their Christmas vacations in Chicago. The last half they will spend with Mrs. Reed at the Seigniory club in Quebec, feeling that a week or ten days of such gayety as falls to the lot of young people in Chicago during the holidays is enough, and that an equal dose of winter sports will be an excellent tonic before returning to college. The family, including Mrs. Armour's and young Mr. Schweppe's father, Charles H. Schweppe, will dine on Christmas at noon with Mr. and Mrs. Bent in their Lake Forest home.

Thirteen month old Johnny Bent will be the center of interest on that day, of course, for he is old enough this year to be dazzled by a Christmas tree and delighted with the toys that his fond relatives will give him.

Miss Adele Hulbert to Be Bride Jan. 8.

Mrs. Milan Hulbert Hulbert has issued invitations to the wedding reception of her daughter, Adele Evertsen, and Sheldon Thomas White, on Saturday, Jan. 8, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at 1400 Lake Shore drive. The invitations were the first formal announcement her friends have had of the engagement of Miss Hulbert to Mr. White, who is a son of Mrs. Robert White of 1566 Dearborn parkway.

Their wedding will be the third one in five months in Mrs. Hulbert's family, for last Aug. 21 Miss Ethel Hulbert was married to Frank Whipple Renwick Jr., and on Oct. 16 Milan Hulbert Jr. took as his bride Miss Elizabeth Bacon of Cleveland. Mrs. Renwick is to be her sister's only attendant at the ceremony, which will take place at 4 o'clock in the chapel of St. James' church, the Rev. Duncan H. Browne officiating. The bride will wear her mother's wedding gown, and young Mr. Hulbert will give her in marriage. Miss Helen Hulbert will come from New York for the occasion.

Mr. White's older brother, Robert White, will be his best man. Only the immediate families will witness the ceremony, and the reception is to be a small one, with just a few close friends of the family present. After a motor trip south Mr. White and his bride will be at home at 25 East Bellevue place.

The bride-to-be, who was introduced to society at a tea in 1934, attended the Girls' Latin school and the Choate School for Girls in Boston. Mr. White, who was educated at the Latin School for Boys and at the Hill school, is engaged in business here.

Beagle Hunters to Form Club.

In response to a popular demand to continue the informal beagle meets, of which several were held in the country west of the north shore suburbs during the last year, invitations to become subscribers to the Des Plaines Valley Beagles have been issued by Frank C. Baker, Cecil I. Crouse, Whipple Jacobs, Donald F. McPherson, and S. Prentice Porter, who form a hunt committee.

The committee has decided to hold a series of about fifteen Sunday afternoon meets during the winter, and arrangements have been made with Glen Thompson of Aurora, owner of the Broadoaks Beagles, to bring his pack for the series of runs.

Through the courtesy of Louis H. G. Bouscaren, permission has been obtained to run over a large tract of land which has excellent cover and is suitable for the purpose. The tract is located just south of Deerfield road, skirting the Des Plaines river.

Each subscription to the hunt carries with it full privileges for all persons in the subscriber's immediate family, and subscribers may bring guests to any hunt at a capping fee of 50 cents per person per hunt.

Inclosed with the invitations to become subscribers, are cards from the committee to a meet at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Deerfield-Des Plaines tract. Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs and Mr. and Mrs. Baker are giving luncheon parties before the run tomorrow.

Cocktail Party Today for Cassinerios.

The Edmund J. Doerings and the R. Martin Stevensons are entertaining at cocktails from 4 until 7 o'clock this afternoon for Capt. and Mrs. Ambrogio Cassinerio, who have come from Italy to spend two months. Mrs. Cassinerio is the former Edna Doering Earling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doering, and a sister of Mrs. Stevenson.

Christmas Play at School

History Society Shows Dolls of Last Century

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

On exhibit at the Chicago Historical society is a group of old toys and dolls that were playthings of children of the last century. The exhibit, which has been arranged especially for the Christmas holidays, should be of interest to all present day children and their parents, so cunningly wrought and so luxurious, for the most part, are these antique toys.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy yesterday put the finishing touches on the show, which they arranged. Mrs. Cudahy sent east for the balsam boughs and ropes that trim Lee stairway and Lee hall, in which the toys are shown, and a huge lighted Christmas tree adds more holiday atmosphere.

One of the most interesting dolls in the exhibit belonged to Mrs. Cudahy's grandmother, a doll that Mrs. Cudahy was allowed to play with as a reward for being good when she was a little girl. This delightful toy, with a trunk full of clothes exquisitely made, is but half the size of another handsome doll whose effects include a complete wardrobe, even to an extra pair of high button shoes.

This second toy was given to the society by Miss Mary B. Dunham. The doll was dressed by the J. H. Dunham family to be sold at a sanitary fair held in 1865 to raise money for bandages for the civil war. The splendors of a doll house built by Leonidas Badger in 1856 in Louisville, Ky., for his children probably will eclipse the solitary dolls in the eyes of most of the exhibit's young visitors. The house was copied from the Badger home in Portsmouth, constructed in 1790, and shows four rooms, with the proper dolls—ladies and gentlemen, butlers, and footmen—to fill it. It is amusing to note the disproportionately large print of the dollhouse's wallpaper and curtains—which is a part of the charm of the house—in contrast with the exquisitely proportioned furnishings of Mrs. Thorne's miniature rooms on view downstairs in the museum.

Mrs. Thorne has given several pieces of furniture, too large by far for her rooms, but tiny just the same, to the toy exhibit, among them two handsome desks and a highboy. Also on view are two miniature fireplaces—one English, the other Dutch. These are from the collections of Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne and Mrs. Ellen LaMotte.

"Lily" is the name Mrs. George R. Nichols gave to the pretty doll, now 80 years old, that was given her when she was 6, and Lily is one of the many dolls in the exhibit. Near her is "Dora," a 1900 doll, in beautiful dressmaker clothes, given to the society by Miss Alice Gerstenberg. Mrs. Frank D. Stout has given several Indian dolls, and there is a cradle with tiny doll given by Mrs. Emma Dupee Coy. The cradle was made in 1760 in Walpole, Mass., and was brought to Chicago in 1854 by Mrs. Charles B. Dupee. It was exhibited at the Northwestern Sanitary fair in 1863.

A doll found in Fort Dearborn, and another made out of a hickory stick, are of interest. Also shown are a set of dishes, hand painted in the Fisher pattern, loaned by Mrs. Thorne, and a set of real sandwich glass, in miniature, which was part of the furnishings of the Badger house. Also on view are some antique children's books from the museum's library.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Do you lie? Or, to put it more politely, are you "gifted with imagination"? If so, watch out! Because that little habit of stretching things—of telling a whopper just because it sounds so intriguing and makes the other fellow's eyes pop so—may lead you into a mess of trouble. Aye, e'en into the shadow of the electric chair!

The screwy but entertaining farce comedy at the Chicago presents Carole Lombard as the fast and false thinking wife of a budding attorney, Mister Kenneth Bartlett. . . . Her love for her husband and her desire to help him up the ladder of fame inspire her to concoct and precipitate upon her immediate world a series of staggering untruths. . . .

Comes a day when young Mrs. Bartlett finds herself defendant in a murder case, represented by none other than her husband, who believes she's guilty—because she's told him she is. . . .

Just when Hubby announces he is forever through with burning his fingers in efforts to save the maddening woman from singeing in self-lit flames, she comes forth with an announcement that brings him loping back to her side—and results in a finale—and bit of dialog . . . that some folks may find jest a lee-tle bit risque.

Miss Lombard gives a nice performance which would have been nicer had she refrained from a tongue in cheek mannerism that becomes, through repetition, downright annoying. But she's a pleasing eyeful and her gamin humor fits the rôle.

Fred MacMurray—he's grown the FUNNIEST mustache! — is amusing as Hubby. Una Merkel as Helen's girl friend and John Barrymore as a strange human yclept by himself "utmost criminologist" keep you smiling and interested. . . .

The film has been intelligently staged and directed and it moves with zip.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Hottest Thing on Ice.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 17.—Between December, 1936, and December, 1937, Sonja Henie made two pictures that will gross approximately $4,500,000. That staggering sum not only makes the Henie lass the hottest thing on ice but practically the hottest thing the movie industry ever has known.

Sonja Henie has touch of gold.

At the moment the nimble and notable Norwegian neophyte of celluloid is about to leave for a six weeks' tour of personal appearances at Chicago, Detroit, Boston, and New York that will gross about $500,000. Everything she tiuches turns to gold.

So far as this former sporting writer can recall, Sonja is the only sporting champion that ever clicked on the stage or in pictures, so the question is: What has she got that Dempsey, Ruth, Carpentier, Tunney, and Max Baer lacked? Why did she click where they flopped, although all of them had far greater publicity?

Well, I have a vague memory of the first and probably the last motion picture Jack Dempsey perpetrated on a stunned public. The first establishing shot of the Dempsey flicker was of the tumbledown shack in Athlone where he lived. The camera, however, revealed something that looked more like a reformatory. Nevertheless, the subtitle attested that this was the home of Jonathan Dempsey, and as the picture opened Dempsey was detected in the act of crossing the threshold. The mere matter of entering a home through the front door never before had presented a problem. You just walked up and entered.

Dempsey, however, ill at ease in front of the camera, had more trouble getting across that doorsill than George Washington had crossing the Delaware. He finally made it, edging across sideways, and as his muscles disappeared from view Dempsey, the director, and theater audience heaved a sigh of relief.

Lithe as a panther in the ring, Dempsey became absolutely muscle-bound when the camera started cranking. But I'll say this for him: He was a good, game guy. He labored resolutely, though abashed, through the eight reels of Corney drama, every now and then punching down the villains who were sprinkled through the script.

The script was not as good as "The Awful Truth." It was a plot fashioned from the pages of a telephone book. Possibly Jack Kearns wrote it, I do not know. The good Doctor Kearns in those bright days gone beyond recall was brash enough to have knocked off a movie scenario as readily as his champion knocked over the lean and cadaverous Fred Fulton. That is a thought—perhaps Fred Fulton wrote it.

With variations to fit individual cases, Dempsey's experience in the movies has been the experience of other sporting champs who achieved enough page one mentions to qualify them as box office draws. All of them suffered from [1] bad stories; [2] bad direction and photography; [3] lack of humor to relieve the stodgy plots; [4] lack of sex appeal.

Max Baer gave the best performance of any sporting celeb in "Prizefighter and the Lady," because he had just enough screwball in his makeup to be blissfully unconscious of camera and director, and he was a born exhibitionist. He revaled himself to be a grand actor, better than quite a few of the young men who are earning fancy dough on the screen today. In addition, critics agreed that he stripped better.

Along came Sonja Henie, champion of the world at the most graceful sport in the world, figure skating. To start off with Sonja had grace and a certain measure of sex appeal. Most important, she had a little guy by the name of Darryl Zanuck.

Zanuck, with rare perception, gave her as vehicle what no other sporting champion ever had—a MUSICAL. Not only a musical but a fine story, fine photography, fine direction and comedy supplied by the Ritz Brothers, Ned Sparks, Adolph Menjou and Borrah Minnevitch. She had, in other words, everything that every other sporting champion had lacked, and to top it off, her sport was photographic.

Bobby Jones, of Georgia, I guess, came closest to Sonja Henie of all sport champs in scoring at the movies. That still left him several good drives and a series of long brassie shots to the rear, because Jones was confined to a series of two-reelers. And golf, because of the distance separating action from result, does not lend itself readily to photography.

The camera, forced to show the impact of club and ball in one medium shot, and then to show the ball landing in another medium shot, divorced from the hitter, suffers from a break in action and an interruption of visual rhythm.

Zanuck can step up and take a bow on Sonja Henie. When Frank Orsatti, after Sonja's exhibition at the Los Angeles Winter Palace, signed her up and then offered her around town, Zanuck was the only one willing to talk business.

It was a $75,000 gamble in judgment, but Darryl always has been a firm believer in the No. 1 man or woman of any sport.

"If they're champs," he explains, "they MUST have something on the ball." So he signed Miss Henie.

I saw the newsreel that was made at the time, and this reporter, always a trifle vain about his eye for talent, would have bet Zanuck any amount of dough that he'd picked a lemon. Miss Henie's face was too round, too bland, and she had no sparkle. That was my belief. Now look at her, a year later!

The movies offer no parallel to this amazing case of the Norwegian naiad of ice. Her first picture was previewed just a year ago. In twelve months she has become a greater box office attraction than Shirley Temple. Now she's contracted for two pictures a year, at $100,000 a picture. It ain't bad work if you can get it. Jeeves, get out my ice skates.

Movie Houses Hold Benefit Show Thursday

Almost every one in Chicago and its suburbs goes to the movies. This entertainment habit next week will contribute to the happiness of the less fortunate.

On Thursday all theaters in Chicago, outside the loop, and in the suburbs will take part in the Third Annual Christmas Basket Party benefit. On that day at 11 o'clock in the morning there will be no established price of admission.

Instead every Christmas spirited customer will be admitted on presentation of some nonperishable foodstuff at the theater entrance, a can of peas, a jar of fruit, or anything of that nature.

These gifts of good fellowship will be arranged in Christmas baskets for distribution among needy neighbors of each theater. The food is to be apportioned under the direction of neighborhood federated women's clubs and school and church authorities, and will be distributed the following day.

Executive representatives of all theater organizations are actively engaged in making arrangements for the benefit. The co-chairmen are Morris G. Leonard, president of the Exhibitors' Association of Chicago, and Aaron A. Saperstein, head of the Allied Theaters' association.

The basket benefit is strictly not for profit. Every department of the motion picture business is coöperating. The programs to be shown at the special benefit morning show will be entirely different than those scheduled as regular attractions for that day.

Women Learn It Gets Cold; Buy Ear Muffs

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Sturdy pioneers probably are tossing in their graves over the antics of their rather sissy descendants who have taken to wearing earmuffs. And such earmuffs. Not the quiet, dark things or the velvets, but fleecy thick things of wool or the decorative affairs of hand knitted wool matched to mittens, the muffs repeating the colorful designs of the mittens.

For around a dollar you can buy the dizziest color combines ever seen—half and half mixtures of gold and blue, yellow and red, and green and white. There are some shaggy looking muffs in such unusual colors as beige, camel's hair, caramel, gray, and purple.

For more money you can have the new ear comforts of fleecy wool fabric fastened to a head band also covered with matching fleece. They're blooming gayly on all the college scenes for they look amazingly like a hat.

Earmuffs are so plentiful one begins to fear a long cold winter. And for another sign of winter just look at the way women are buying angora gloves in white and beige and gun metal gray. These gloves were bought for men but women have taken to them with a vengeance.

Genuine cashmere gloves are another good find from the masculine showings of gloves for cold weather. And so are the thin innerlined knitted gloves that can be worn with kid gloves, mittens, or as is. All are reasonably priced and make splendid gifts.

RUN!

By Patricia Wentworth

[Copyright: 1937: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.]

SYNOPSIS.

Delivering a new car to a customer, James Elliot, lost in the fog, finds himself on some one's estate. Groping his way to the dark house, he finds the front door ajar. Entering, his flashlight reveals a girl, who commands him to run. A shot whistles after them as they flee to hide in the hayloft. The girl tells James she was searching for a necklace her dying Aunt Clementa had told her was hidden in the house. The girl vanishes before James can learn more. At his Cousin Daphne's party James meets the girl. She is Sally West, the sister of his college chum, Jocko West. She hints of danger to him—because of what he saw—her brother, and herself. Jackson, a rival salesman, takes credit for driving the car the night of the fog and is run over on the road and killed. Sally sees James. She is in fear of Ambrose Sylvester, the novelist, who is her guardian and was her aunt's trustee; also his wife, Hildegarde, and the latter's cousin, Henri Niemeyer. Jocko, after receiving a letter from his dying aunt, was pushed off a cliff. After the accident the letter is missing and Jocko cannot remember its contents. Sally and James fall in love, but she tells him it is too dangerous for them to meet.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

WARNING.

James looked at Sally with a good deal of sternness. "You tell me to do this, and that, and the other, and I'm not to do this, and that, and the other, and all the time you're keeping me in the dark, telling me the bits you choose and keeping back the bits you don't choose. And if you ask me, you're making a damned muddle of the whole thing, and if there's any dirty work going on you'll land yourself, and me, and J. J., in some particularly nasty mess!"

"I didn't ask you," said Sally breathlessly. "I don't ask you anything except to leave me alone—and mind your own business—and not write, or telephone, or try to see me."

"And how are we going to get married if I'm not to see you, or write to you, or call you up? I do wish you'd be practical."

A bright, becoming scarlet leapt into Sally's cheeks. She stamped with vigor upon Gertrude Lushington's best Persian carpet.

"We're not going to be married!"

"O, yes, we are."

"Why?" asked James.

"We c-cant," said Sally, and burst into a flood of tears.

James experienced the most conflicting feelings of tenderness and anger. He wanted to shake Sally till her teeth clattered, and he wanted to put his arms around her and kiss away her tears and tell her not to cry any more, because everything was going to be all right. Impossible to do both these things at once, so he did neither. Instead he used an odious hectoring tone and remarked:

"I haven't got the worst of it," said Sally, choking partly with sobs and partly with rage. She found a flimsy scrap of handkerchief and dabbed fiercely at her eyes.

James' mood changed suddenly. This quarrel was taking them nowhere and they hadn't got time for it. All very well to quarrel when you have plenty of time to make it up again, but what time had he and Sally? Just this little space—to talk, to plan, to know each other's mind, to touch hands, to kiss, to say good-by. They could quarrel another time—at leisure.

He came to Sally, pulled her up close, and kissed her.

"That's enough about all that. Done—finished—dead. Come along over here and talk. Gertrude's sofa isn't much to look at, but it's comfortable. Now let's be rational and tell each other things. If you don't tell me things I'm bound to try and find them out myself."

Sally faced him on the sofa, wet-eyed and scarlet-cheeked.

"Even if I ask you not to?" she said.

James nodded.

"It's no good. I'm in it, and I'm staying in it. You'd better start by telling me what happened when I rang up."

"How do you know anything happened?"

"I should have thought it was obvious. What did happen?"

"It was frightful," said Sally. "James, you know I asked you not to ring up or anything—and we were all in the library and I don't know how much every one heard."

"There wasn't anything to hear. I only said——"

Sally beat her hands together.

"I told you not to ring up—and you said your name, and I said it was a wrong number. And Henri said 'He has the name of James, this wrong number of yours. But how intriguing! And he makes an assignation? Fi donc, Sally, it is much too dangerous, this assignation with a wrong number, even if he have the so respectable name of James. I do not advise you to keep it!' And Hildegarde looked at me between her eyelashes and said 'Be wise, Sally, my dear.' And Ambrose——"

"Yes?" said James with interest. "What did Ambrose say?"

"Nothing," said Sally. So she drew in her breath with a sob.

"He just looked at me as if I wasn't there. And then he told Hildegarde that they'd be late if she didn't hurry, and she finished her coffee and they went off. But when we were alone Henri came over and fiddled with the telephone, and presently he said 'The man who invented this, he is dead, n'est ce pas?' And I said 'Of course.' And Henri said 'One can be dead a long time, Sally,' and then he went out of the room. And I'm supposed to be with Daphne's party at the Luxe. She'll cover me all she can, but I mustn't stay, James—I mustn't stay—because I think Henri will try and find out whether I was really at the Luxe all the time."

"And if he finds out you weren't?"

A little shiver went over her.

"I oughtn't to have come? Henri said 'He has the name of James, this wrong number of yours,' but if he heard that he may have heard everything else you said."

James grinned.

Sally caught her breath.

"You said Daphne's name, and why hadn't I answered your letter, and you called me darling. And Jocko is quite liable to say something about you at any moment, and it's no good telling him not to because he always forgets and does it. And if he begins to talk about Daphne's cousin James Elliot and says he was your fag at Wellington, and then it comes out that you're at Atwells and that it was you who drove that car, how long do you think it will be before something happens? Something——"

"What?" said James in a practical, common-sense voice.

The flame of Sally's anger was dead. Her cheeks were pale and cold. She said in a low, frightened voice:

"What happened to Jackson?"

"Sally, you've got to tell me about all this. Some one shot at us at Rere place."

He felt her start.

"Who told you it was Rere place?"

"J. J. did. Sally, do you know who it was who fired at us?"

"No, I don't. I don't know anything, James."

"Sally, you've got to tell me? They were all on the ledge when J. J. fell, you know—Ambrose, and Mrs. Ambrose, and Henry Niemeyer. They were all there when J. J. got your Aunt Clementa's letter at breakfast, and when he fell, and when he was picked up. They were all there, but the letter wasn't."

Sally looked at him, then looked away. She said in a hurrying voice, "Daphne and Bonzo were there, too."

"Darling, don't be absurd! They may have been in the Tyrol, but they couldn't have been at Rere place."

"O, yes they could," said Sally.

"What do you mean?"

"They were staying at Goldacre. It's only about ten miles away. They motored back to town after lunch. They could have gone to Rere place just as easily as any one else."

Student Jilted by Siren Is Down in Dumps

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He's a student at one of the good colleges, preparing himself for a professional career. He was a conscientious student until the black-eyed, black-haired temptress interfered. So he tells it. She apparently is one of those young vixens put upon this earth to tempt man from the path of ambition and responsible citizenship. She takes everything, demands attention beyond the physical and financial scope of a student. Just about the time the man has spent all his money and his evenings on entertaining said vixen, she proceeds to produce a bigger and better spender, bragging about it, too, into the ears of the previous victim. Such is the motif, anyway, of our student's complaint against the girl.

"Now, I find myself in a daze, a fog," he confesses. "It seems all I can think about now is this girl, instead of fastening my mind on my books and studies. It also seems that I've gotten myself into habits I never had before, drinking and loafing, just trying to forget her.

"Can you tell a fellow how to forget a girl like this and get himself back to his old self again as a woman hater? Even today that girl will tell me she loves me, but that she loves her new friend more. What do you make of her?"

We make of her that she is one of those women whom a smarter boy than you would have given the tramp's rush after a first good looking over. But you're not the only student who has been through the experience. It is a question now as to whether you have the stuff in you to go ahead with your work and make up for lost time, as other college boys have recovered their sense and standing in time.

Weak stuff in your makeup, brother! Drinking and loafing to forget the course-wrecker. Any old weak sister could take that way out. But a right boy would tell himself he'd been taken for a ride, but no X would mark the spot where his career died. That's the difference between the boy who makes good and the boy who doesn't.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

If you are hunting for inexpensive but ingenious Christmas gifts for the woman who prides herself on her kitchen and her culinary ability here are some suggestions:

If he is old enough to be a member he will have tea or some punch, but if he is of an age to enjoy riding on a merry-go-round there will be one there in the ballroom for him to climb upon.

There also will be ice cream and cake and lollipops for the young guests. Among those who will be on hand to see that every one has a good time are the president, Mrs. Frank Hibbard; the entertainment committee which includes Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Morris L. Johnston and Barrett Wendell Jr., and Governors Charles S. Dewey, Charles Y. Freeman, Noble B. Judah, Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, Mrs. John L. Cochran, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. C. Morse Ely and Mrs. John C. Murphy.

The Lake Shore Athletic club is having its annual Christmas party for children tomorrow around a 20 foot tree in the lounge. Santa Claus will be on hand to distribute gift stockings.

The president of the Saddle and Cycle club, Robert Stevenson, and Mrs. Stevenson will entertain a group of about twenty at the club tomorrow night for a buffet supper and lecture by Dr. Howard W. Haggard on "The Medical Fads and Superstitions."

Others who will have a dozen or more guests are the Cyrus G. Hills, Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter, and Albert E. Goodrich.

Polish Consul General and Mrs. Gawronski are among the boxholders for a concert the Illinois Symphony orchestra will play tomorrow afternoon at the Great Northern theater. Two of their countrymen, Jerzy Bojanowski as guest-conductor and Felix Labunski as composer, will be represented on the program. Count and Countess Potocki have a box, too.

The 125 young married people, bachelors and spinsters who belong to the North Shore Fortnightly will meet at the Shawnee Country club tonight for the second dance of the season. Alexander R. Carman Jr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Mackenzie are chairman and vice chairman of the party.

A number of dinner parties have been planned for tonight for members of the Evanston Junior league, who will take their guests afterward to the league's dance at the Palmer house.

Guard Child from Holiday Excitement

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

If you have small children in your family you really need to safeguard them somewhat against an excess of pre-holiday excitement and fatigue.

Try particularly hard not to have their Christmas eve hectic and excited. Have time in the late afternoon perhaps for some carol singing or a re-reading of the "Night Before Christmas," or a retelling of the story of the Christ Child.

Plan your own day so that when it's time to hang up stockings it isn't the hurried act of a tired child and a harried mother, but a cozy leisurely proceeding. If you'll keep preparations from piling up on you too much on Christmas eve you'll be able to keep things from being too much for your younger little girls and boys and they'll be more "fit" on Christmas day.

Besides, you'll enjoy your own Christmas eve more and feel fresher yourself the next day if you resolve to be something of an efficiency engineer for a few days before Christmas and then at least partly carry out your resolutions.

And here's a last suggestion. I'm giving you a chance to learn, not by "trial and error," but by my own experience. So here are the last few words of wisdom! Keep tabs on those same young children on Christmas day itself. Watch your food. Don't let them get too excited. See that they have a nap or a couple of quiet rest times away from all the goings-on. And pop them outdoors for a while.

A tense or tired child or one whose stomach is upset doesn't have as good a time himself; he can't be enjoyed by his family, and his being under par certainly takes the edge off a mother's own pleasure in the day and its events.

ENGAGEMENT

At their home in Hazleton, Pa., this afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce M. Hicks are giving a tea to announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Louise, to Irving Randall Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Randall of Highland Park. Neither young Mr. Randall nor his parents have gone east for the party, but Miss Hicks is coming west the day after Christmas to spend a few days with the Randalls and to meet her fiancé's friends.

Miss Hicks is a graduate of the Catharine Gibbs school in New York. Mr. Randall prepared at Woodbury Forest for Yale university, where he was graduated in 1936. He is engaged in business in Chicago.

According to CULBERTSON

THE OSTRICH AT THE BRIDGE TABLE.

[Copyright 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is a remarkable analogy between the behavior of certain bridge players and that of the well known ostrich. Confronted with unmistakable signs of danger they look wildly about and, finding no sand [the average hostess is lamentably remiss in supplying her guests with this vital commodity], bury their heads in their cards and hope for the best. East, in the hand shown below, was an excellent ostrich but a darned poor defender.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the diamond ten, which was taken in dummy. The jack of spades followed and East, perhaps feeling that his ace would be worth several tricks if held indefinitely, ducked. West won and shifted to a club. The ace went up and another spade was led. East came out of the clouds and decided that his ace was as good now as later. He cashed the diamond king and then fingered every card in his hand for a "killing return." He might as well have saved himself the brain work. There was nothing he could do at this point to avert defeat. He finally decided that the only hope was to find his partner [West] with the heart ace, which would lead to a heart ruff. West did not hold that valuable card, however, and declarer could claim the rest of the tricks.

The game had been thrown away at the second trick. When dummy led the jack of spades East should have taken a moment off to figure possibilities. He could see that there were no possible club tricks for his side and only one diamond. It was hardly conceivable on the bidding that West had both the king and queen of spades, that South had bid and rebid a five card suit headed by the nine. East should have put up his spade ace with gusto and dispatch to return his singleton heart. One of two things could happen from this sequence of plays: If West had the heart ace without the spade king the defenders would take at least one heart trick, the spade ace, a heart ruff, and a diamond trick; if West did not have the heart ace but did have the spade king, or possibly even the spade queen, by East's putting up the ace and voiding himself of hearts he would be in a position to ruff a return heart lead from West.

East later explained that he had feared finding his own partner with something like the queen and one spade. To put up the ace, he said, would subject the queen to capture on the next trump lead. The correct answer to this was "What of it?" If West had had the queen and one spade and not the heart ace the contract could not have been defeated, after the opening lead, by any method of play. Thus, under any circumstances, the spade ace was the correct play by East at the second trick.

Mystic Star.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

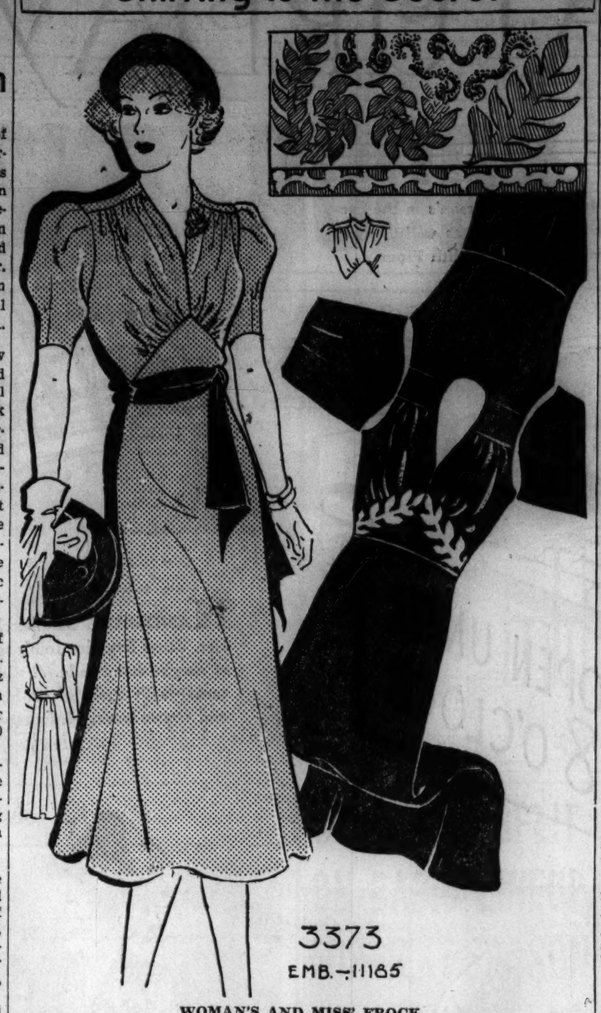
Shirring Is the Secret



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Soft shirring is the secret of this frock's success. It makes it suitable and flattering for all types of figures and for women of any age. The neckline is V and the waistline dips up into the bodice. All the dressiness of the frock is concentrated in the bodice, while the skirt is plain and flared. The sleeves are puffed at the shoulders and may be either long or short. Around the waist there is a draped sash, if you wish one. It allows for color contrast, and a single clip may decorate the neckline. As for the aforementioned color contrast, the original of this frock was made of black crinkle crêpe and the sash of bright orangey-red. Such a touch serves to lend that brightness so badly needed in a winter wardrobe.

If you wish splashes of color all over the bodice, consider the advantages of embroidery. A separate pattern, No. E-11185, serves nobly in this capacity, and costs 10 cents extra.

Style No. 3373 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ inch contrasting for the sash.

The other day I sauntered [as much as Christmas crowds would allow me to saunter] through the household sections of several department stores. And there I saw hundreds and hundreds of potential Christmas presents.

Most of them weren't expensive. There were those beautiful nests of colored pottery mixing bowls which would bring even an undomestic wife to the kitchen in glee. There were lovely coffeemakers, roasters, saucepans, griddles, steamers, cookie presses, thermometers, electric mixers, and scores of other beautiful kitchen aids. Any husband, son or daughter, who hasn't made up his or her mind about what to get mother for Christmas, would do well to look over these equipment layouts.

But this is Saturday and I hadn't meant to neglect the cookery problems this way. "What sort of gadget is used by commercial bakers to shape patty shells, and where can I buy such an article?" asks one reader.

Any good housewares section of a department store carries these "gadgets," which are called timbale irons. They are heavy iron forms on the end of long handles, and come in various sizes and shapes. The timbale iron is heated in hot fat, dipped into batter, and then back into the hot fat for a minute or so, until the coating of batter cooks through. Then the patty or timbale shell is slipped from the iron to drain and the iron is reheated, ready for the next coating of batter.

Another reader inquires about dried black mushrooms.

Any mushroom may be dried, and dried mushroom is dark in color. Dried mushrooms may be powdered and used as flavoring in any dish which would be improved by mushrooms. Or they may be soaked in cold water for several hours until they swell to nearly normal size, then be minced and used as fresh mushrooms.

In most cases mushrooms shouldn't be peeled. Only if there are dark spots to be cut out, or if the skin is tough and brown, should the knife be used upon them. Simply wash the mushrooms quickly, break steam from caps, and saute in butter, broil or prepare in any other desired way. If it is necessary to peel them, use a silver knife to prevent their discoloration.

Miss Austin Will Bow at Tea Tomorrow

The first debut tea of the holidays will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Austin tomorrow afternoon at their Glencoe home to introduce their daughter, Miss Barbara Keith Austin. Miss Austin's roommate at Vassar, Miss Helen Addison of Cambridge, Mass., a Boston debutante, and Miss Mary Morrill of Seattle, Wash., a student at Smith college, are here to assist at the tea.

After the tea the Stanley K. Peirces and the junior Lyman Drakes will entertain at a buffet supper at the Peirces' Glencoe home for the debutante and her assistants and their escorts.

Miss Betty Keith is giving a small dinner-dance at the Racquet club tonight for Miss Mary Gardner and Miss Betty Armour. The hostess has invited a few of her own friends as well as the debutante friends of Miss Armour and Miss Goodman.

The George Voevodskys are entertaining at luncheon tomorrow in their Libertyville home for Miss Laura Moyer and Miss Betty Lord. Another luncheon party tomorrow is one the Arthur Sullivans will give at home in Winnetka for Miss Sally Jane Crowder.

The Madonna Center Settlement house is to be the unusual setting for a debutante party tomorrow night. Miss Marie Plamondon is entertaining there at a spaghetti supper, followed by dancing, for her niece, Miss Dorothy Benedict. Many of the debutante set will join the party after attending the hocky game at the Chicago Stadium, a few blocks north.

Miss Vesta Culbertson and her fiancé, Robert F. Carr Jr., and their group, and the young guests of Miss Bertha Erminger at the hocky party she is giving for Miss Patricia Forsyth Kelly and John L. Irving, will go on to Madonna Center to join Miss Plamondon's 175 guests.

Among other parties to be given for Miss Benedict, daughter of Mrs. James E. Baggot Jr., is a tea dance Mrs. Philip Kreuscher will give for her and for Miss Jane Weary on Dec. 26 at home, 219 Lake Shore drive.

Among other dinner and hocky parties tomorrow night is one Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes and her daughter, Miss Elisabeth Dewes, will give for Debutantes Evelyn Gordon and Kate Barkhausen, who arrived at home from Vassar yesterday. The Dewes dinner will be at the Casino.

The Mellen C. Martins and the Frederick Burnhams have invited 50 of the debutante set to dine at the Racquet club before the hocky game. They are entertaining for Miss Nancy Wolcott, Miss Sally Jane Crowder, Miss Nancy Blaine, and Miss Margot Webbe, four Winnetka debutantes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson will give a supper and hocky party tomorrow for their daughter, Miss Mary Ryerson, who is coming from St. Timothy's with her sister, Miss Anne Ryerson, for the holidays.

Mrs. Charles S. Pearce has taken two boxes for the game so that her son, Charles S. Pearce Jr., who arrives home from Los Alamos in New Mexico tomorrow, may entertain.

Gertrude Lawrence Tells of Early Training in Grooming

There may be better groomed women in existence, but it has not been our good fortune to observe one so consistently entitled to the medal, loving cup, gilt-edged scroll, or whatever you deem a worthy prize, as Gertrude Lawrence, well known star of the stage. Even though what she says on the subject of good grooming may have been said before, it still is worth repeating over and over again. Says the clever Miss Lawrence:

"Good grooming, in my case, has been the result of environment and nothing more or less than a series of maxims learned by my mother at my grandmother's knee and, in turn, delivered to me straight from the shoulder.

"These maxims included 'Soap and water are dirt cheap,' 'A stitch in time saves nine,' and 'If you dress to win, you must dress to keep.' There were many more such as these and, of course, they were a nightmare to me as a child, but we were a family of modest means, we were poor, but proud, and our slogan was 'Tidy as you go.'

"Good grooming started with my school pinafores, a little apron we wore as children to cover our dresses. My clothes were cheap and mostly handmade, hand me downs, but my mother taught me how to take a pride in my appearance, and to look as spick and span as any other child at school, not because I had an unlimited supply of pinafores [the ones I had I made in sewing class] but because I was encouraged to wash and iron them myself. This sewing of these small aprons was no small job, and many was the time I suffered with a bleeding finger, when I should have been doing my school work. But even at this early age I was learning to put to practice all that my mother had so diligently taught me, so that when I went on the stage at the age of 10, these rigid principles of grooming were a godsend.

"But my mother's teachings reached farther than my personal appearance, and have influenced my home life considerably. I also might add that I was taught to scrub the floor, black a grate, clean windows, light fires, sew a fine seam, knit a sock, and I can even cook.

"One doesn't have to be wealthy to be well groomed. A woman can be well tailored in a gingham dress. But consistency does count, something that can't be stressed too much. Take care of your hands, nails, hair, and eyes, as well as your face. Keep your stockings straight. Brush your hair before you dress, not after. Always have a tidy handbag and a clean handkerchief, and never leave your clothes lying about at night before retiring. Fold your undergarments, rinse your stockings, and hang up your dress and coat. Thus you keep your room tidy and your clothes protected from shabbiness.

"I know this must sound exactly like a lecture, but somehow I've gotten started and just don't seem able to stop. Even with my name in lights, I do all these things by instinct."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There are some charming new bath delights out just in time for Christmas. They're inexpensive as can be, but beautifully packaged and, in themselves, of excellent quality. Its possession of lovely things like this that makes life seem ever so much less dreary—which is a hint to you to give them to friends and relations who have none too much of this world's goods.

The new bath trimmings are in two ultra-feminine fragrances. One is very gay, the other has rather rich, warm tones. For $1 you can get an attractive, generous bottle, all dressed up with golden-hued cap and gold crest, of the essence concentree, which is more than a cologne and a bit less than a perfume—a fragrant liquid that has a thousand uses.

After the bath it can be applied as cologne would; because it's strongly and beautifully scented it can be used during the day as a light perfume. To match this, in the scent of your choice, you can obtain bath salts or sachet or a special essence to be used in the bath.

In the shops you'll find one ensemble in these that is a great bargain and a pretty gift. There is a bottle of the essence boxed with a huge round container of dusting powder that is an especially good buy.

The fine powder, in the same scent as the essence, is wonderfully downy, the puff is a big plump one and the box is a beauty—round, of course, in white enamel finish paper, with a gilt crest in the center. There are little gold asterisks encircling the top, and fine gold lines in precise formation along the sides of the box. The price is attractive. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Northwestern Plays at Notre Dame.

Games Tonight

Northwestern at Notre Dame.
Purdue vs. De Paul at 132d armory.
Armour Tech at Chicago.
Wisconsin at Marquette.
Iowa at Butler.

Six Big Ten basketball teams will see action tonight against opponents in widely scattered sections of the country. Although the Christmas vacation for most schools starts today, the basketball teams will not disband for another week.

The Notre Dame - Northwestern clash at South Bend holds the center of interest on tonight's card since it marks the resumption of one of the most heated rivalries in the sport. The Irish will be out to extend their winning streak to 18 straight at the expense of the Wildcats, who have won two out of three games this season.

Purdue will invade Chicago for its annual encounter with DePaul at the 132d Infantry Armory, while Chicago meets Armour Tech on the Midway in the other local engagement. In the other games Iowa will play Butler at Indianapolis, Wisconsin will oppose Marquette at Milwaukee, and Illinois will open an eastern trip by playing St. John's in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Expect Capacity Crowd.

A capacity crowd of 5,500 is expected to witness the Northwestern-Notre Dame engagement which is the last home contest for the Irish until Jan. 15. The Wildcats, who turned the trick a year ago, were the last team to defeat the Irish on their home court.

Notre Dame will start Moir, Sadowski, Nowak, Brown, and Wukovits. Northwestern will depend upon Trenkle, Melchior, Smith, Currie, and Vance at the outset.

Purdue is beginning a holiday tour that will end on the Pacific coast against Southern California and U. C. L. A. After meeting De Paul tonight the Boilermakers will rest in Chicago over Sunday and meet Loyola university Monday evening.

The fast breaking Boilermakers make up in speed and deft passing what they lack in height. Jewell Young and Johnny Sines, seniors, will team at the forwards. Last season Young broke the Big Ten scoring record with 172 points in 12 games. He specializes in left handed flip shots while moving at top speed. Sines also is a distinct scoring threat as was shown in the season's opener against Indiana State when he made 23 points. Lanky Gene Anderson will be at center, with Dan Fisher, a sophomore, as the most likely relief.

Badgers Picked to Win.

De Paul's attack is built around Bob Neu, who has led the Demon scoring in practically every game this year. Supporting him will be Norris, Howlett, Tollstom, and Crowley.

The twenty-third engagement of the Wisconsin-Marquette series will be played before a capacity crowd of 6,300 in the Milwaukee auditorium. Despite their earlier 32 to 21 defeat at the hands of the Hilltoppers, the Badgers are favorites to win. They have shown considerable improvement, beating Pittsburgh and losing to Notre Dame by one point.

Marquette will be without the services of its first string forwards, Glenn Adams and Erwin Graf.

Two Maroon Regulars Out.

Two Maroon regulars will be out of the action. Capt. Kendall Petersen, veteran guard, is on the sidelines with a sprained ankle. Bob Cassels, forward, is in Billings hospital with a kidney bruise sustained in the victory over Marquette.

Coach Neis Norgren might have shifted Johnny Eggemeyer back to forward to replace Cassels, but Eggemeyer did so well at guard last Saturday that he will be kept there. Morris Rossin will start for Petersen, pairing with Eggemeyer in the back court.

BY FRENCH LANE.

THERE is one group of people which will tell you it is a mighty fine thing to have a left-handed jocky to ride your horse. They are the ones who bet on Top Row to win the Santa Anita handicap on that February afternoon out in California in 1936.

Wright was stealing through on an inside path not too close to the fence nor too close to Azucar, which was tightly hugging the rail. Time Supply was to the immediate right of the left handed jocky's mount. To the outside of him was Rosemont.

Those cruel cuts of the lether bat drove Top Row on. They also drove him out. He carried Time Supply over with him and it was Top Row's nose, not Time Supply's, that was out in front when they passed the wire.

A foul was claimed. There was turmoil among the thousands of spectators. There was long wrangling in the judges' stand. Finally the original finish was allowed to stand.

Delegations from Muskegon, Traverse City, Manistee, St. Joseph, Holland, Benton Harbor, Grand Haven, and South Haven were unanimous in declaring that "improvement of harbors was vital to western Michigan's $315,000,000 tourist and resort industry."

No decisions will be reached at the hearing, which is being conducted by Lieut. Col. H. M. Holcombe, district engineer at Milwaukee, and Maj. J. R. Jones of Duluth. They will transmit their findings to the war department to serve as a basis for later recommendations for rivers and harbors improvement projects.

Deepening of channels and establishing refuge harbors for pleasure craft were among the objectives sought.

CUBS, SOX SPLIT ON RADIO LINEUP FOR NEXT SEASON

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

War, a nice friendly war in which nothing worse than kind words are being used as ammunition, is raging between the White Sox and Cubs over the question of baseball broadcasts. Secret conferences have been going on for several days and last night it was reported that the Sox would delay, for 1938 at least, inauguration of the plan to confine ether accounts to two stations instead of five which have been operating.

Although nobody cares to talk about the little unpleasantness, it is said that P. K. Wrigley, president of the Cubs and a champion of baseball broadcasts, stepped into the picture as soon as the American league revealed the curtailing scheme adopted at its annual meeting here Dec. 7. Wrigley advised L. C. McEvoy, American league radio supervisor, that the Cubs had no desire to eliminate any of the five stations functioning at the north side park.

Conflicting Broadcast Threatened.

The several discussions held were in the presence of Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis with the American league represented by President Will Harridge and McEvoy and the Sox by Vice President Harry Grabiner.

It was rumored for several days that Wrigley had intimated that, in the event the Sox stood by their two station plan he would permit broadcasts from local stations of the Cubs' road games, thus bringing them into direct conflict with the Sox home games. There was no mention of this at the meetings held in Landis' office.

There is no baseball rule covering this point but the commissioner, under his blanket powers, could dispose of a difficulty of such nature. Air rights so far as baseball is concerned have to date been observed through a friendly understanding between clubs in one city.

Might Have Sponsor Trouble.

Even if the Sox should cling to the two station arrangement there is no rule to prevent the Cubs from granting microphone space to as many stations as ask for the privilege. However, stations unable to broadcast from Comiskey park might find it difficult to locate a sponsor willing to support a program split between the Cubs' 77 home games and an afternoon program of another nature while they are on the road.

The Sox's present arrangement provides for one sponsor to have exclusive privileges over two stations. If the club, as now seems probable, decides to accept Wrigley's request that the old order be undisturbed, the exclusive feature will have to be eliminated unless the original sponsor elects to take all five stations and dispose of some to co-sponsors.

CLINCHES HELP AGEING JOHNNY LAST 10 ROUNDS

Max's Brother Stops Eddie Hogan.

Lewis, Phoenix, Ariz., Negro, built up a big lead on points in the early rounds and then coasted on to the decision.

The 5,046 spectators marveled that Risko, fighting the second major bout of his comeback campaign, was in there at all at the end. For Risko, who fought most of the worlds best heavyweights in the years between 1927 and 1933, met Lewis on the eve of his 35th birthday.

Leaves Bout Unmarked.

Lewis made lefts and rights count throughout the early rounds while Risko, except for an occasional flurry, was content to hold his own by hanging on where possible.

BUDDY BAER WINS

A crowd of 6,000, which paid gross receipts of $17,370.98, saw Hogan carried to his corner after being knocked down three times by Baer's right hand blows to the jaw.

Twice Hogan stayed down for a count of eight. The third time he went down Referee Jim Crowley didn't even start a count. He signaled an end to the contest, giving Baer a technical knockout. The third round then had gone 2 minutes and 21 seconds.

It's a Battle, All Right.

Two of the biggest men in the ring today—Baer weighed 243 pounds and Hogan 222½ — the heavyweights fought like lightweights. The Connecticut youth swarmed all over Baer in the first round and for most of the second, driving out with rapid left hooks which landed on Baer's jaw or head, or a protecting right-hand glove.

Hogan was carrying a speedy attack in the fatal third when Baer suddenly grazed his jaw with a jarring right and then sent him down with a powerful right to the jaw. Hogan regained his feet at the count of eight, and lurched into a clinch until Baer jolted over a short right which sent Hogan down for another count of eight.

Glen Lee, Edison, Neb., middleweight, celebrated his second local appearance with a ninth round technical knockout over Harry Balsamo. After 2 minutes and 4 seconds of the ninth round Balsamo, blinded by blood from cuts around both eyes, requested the bout be halted. The contest was scheduled for ten rounds.

TRINER CONFERS WITH JACOBS ON TITLE BOUT SITE

Tells Promoter Chicago Is Ideal Location.

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois boxing commission today conferred with Mike Jacobs, head of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, about holding the 15 round heavyweight championship bout between Champion Joe Louis and Max Schmeling in Chicago next June. Jacobs, who has the contracts of both fighters, is considering Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, or New York as the possible site for the match.

This was brought out to convince Jacobs that there will be no recurrence of what happened last summer when the Chicago park board members asked what was termed an excessive rental for the use of the lake front stadium for the fight in which Louis won the championship from James J. Braddock at Comiskey park June 22.

Boycott Worries Jacobs.

The Illinois commissioner also told Jacobs that "there is no political situation in Chicago" and that "my commission does not take cognizance of anti-Nazism."

Jacobs remains disturbed over the boycotting campaign conducted against Schmeling by anti-Nazi societies in advance of the German heavyweight's battle with Harry Thomas.

At the same time, Triner spoke to Jacobs about having Schmeling engage in a fight in Chicago to test the strength of a threatened boycott by the American Jewish congress or any bout in which Schmeling appears.

No Promises.

Jacobs said, however, that he would not make any definite announcement as to Schmeling's next fight in this country until after the German boxes Ben Foord at Hamburg, Jan. 30. Schmeling wants one more fight in the United States before he meets Louis for the second time.

Louis is booked to fight at Madison Square Garden Feb. 23, and his opponent may be Tony Galento, Newark trial horse. Galento is in line for a match with Harry Thomas at the Garden late next month or early in February. A victory would enhance his chances for a bout with Louis.

Louis also is expected to make an appearance at Detroit Olympia with the winner of the bout between Nathan Mann, New Haven, Conn., challenger, and Jimmy Adamick, Midland, Mich., scheduled for January.

Triner to Return Tuesday.

Chairman Triner expects to return to Chicago Tuesday. He then will confer with his co-worker, Commissioner J. R. Fitzpatrick, about arranging a joint meeting with political and business leaders in an endeavor to obtain wholehearted coöperation in efforts to sell the idea that Chicago is the logical place for the Louis-Schmeling rematch.

In that case he may have to guarantee Jacobs and his associates in the Twentieth Century club a million dollar gate.

Amor Brujo Gets Big Test at Tanforan

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Amor Brujo, South American thoroughbred whose racing speed has provoked a controversy through comparison with the best in this country, gets his big test tomorrow in the $10,000 added San Francisco handicap.

The black horse from Uruguay, packing top weight of 125 pounds, will share favoritism with Indian Broom, holder of the world's mile and an eighth record, in the mile and a sixteenth classic which completes the fall racing season at Tanforan track.

Amor Brujo won both his starts here in easy fashion. Some turfmen rate him in a class with Seabiscuit and War Admiral. Others say he has not been sufficiently tested—that the competition was not strong enough. Nevertheless the 5 year old colt whipped King Saxon, king of American milers in 1935, in his last race.

Danny Brammer, Cedar Falls, Ia., will ride Amor Brujo, and Harry Richards of New York will be up on Indian Broom. Indian Broom will run coupled with Whichee as an entry of the A. C. T. Stock farm, owned by Maj. Austin C. Taylor, British Columbia.

LANE TEAMS KEEP TITLES IN PREP SWIMMING MEET

The Lane Tech junior and senior swimming teams successfully defended their titles in the twenty-third annual City High School league swimming meet at the University of Chicago last night.

Four records were made, two in each division. In the junior class Jaretz of Lane cracked his own marks in the 40 and 100 yard free style events. He was timed in the former in :19.1, four-tenths of a second faster than his time last year, and took a full second off the 100 yards, being clocked in :54.4.

The 240 yard relay time was lowered by Lane's seniors. They were caught in 1:59.3 as compared with 1:59.8 made by Schurz in 1929. Fahrbach, another Lane entry swam the 100 yard free style in :53.9 to crack Highland's mark of :55.8.

The Photo Finish Is Introduced to Ice Skating

As a result of disputes arising from close finishes last winter the Illinois Skating association will have a "foto-finish" camera on the ice for the Golden Week of Skating celebration, which begins with the C. Y. O. Derby at Garfield park Sunday, Dec. 26.

The camera to be used for the "foto-finishes" is of the type used by newspaper photographers. It will be placed four feet high on a tripod, even with the finish line. A black stripe will be painted on the ice so that the skater touching the line with his body first will be shown the winner on the developed plate. And, should the race be close for second or third, the cameraman will snap the picture for place and show.

Thus a racer stretching his hands or arms over the line will not be declared winner if another competitor reaches it with some other part of his body first.

Duck Hunters Ponder Protest to Washington

BY BOB BECKER.

Shouldn't the biological survey and other authorities in Washington listen to a sportsmen's advisory council on the duck situation? This question now is being sent to hundreds of thousands of waterfowl hunters in order to get their viewpoint on possible procedure during the coming months.

While duck hunters have been deluging us with their letters about what should be done to improve waterfowl hunting in this country, we understand that More Game Birds in America is seriously considering the idea of asking that the Washington authorities who regulate duck hunting listen to a group of selected, qualified men who know the duck hunters' state of mind.

But whether anything comes of this idea or not it is evident that the hunters who like their sport of duck and goose shooting are going to make themselves heard in Washington before long.

Our mail bringing duck hunters' letters and conversations with sportsmen tell us that the boys are getting ready to stir up a little excitement before many weeks have elapsed. We hear much agitation for the idea of the states having more to say about local duck hunting regulations and the government saying less.

It's a Preview to Arduous Campaign Ahead.

A preview of Chicago's fastest skaters will be held tonight by the Hawthorne club at the Chicago arena. A half dozen races are scheduled for men and women.

The exhibitions will give the competitors a line on each other before the outdoor season opens a week from tomorrow, when the C. Y. O. holds its derby at Garfield park.

Among the skaters who will see action tonight are Eddie Schroeder, Vic Ronchetti, Al Kucera, Bob Hackenback, Bernie Cannata, Bob Sherman, and Al Ratza. The women stars who will compete are Eleanor Theil, Elaine Bogda, Sid Steffens, and a host of others.

Two men stand out as the leading contenders for racing honors this season. They will be watched closely, for throughout the season Eddie Schroeder of the Northwest Skating club and Vic Ronchetti of the C. Y. O. promise to be battling for top recognition in every event.

DR. R. H. JAFFE, PATHOLOGIST, IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Stricken After Studying Baby Epidemic.

Dr. Richard Hermann Jaffe, chief pathologist at the County hospital, died suddenly of a heart attack last night in his home at 2000 Lincoln Park West. He had been ill for several days and on the advice of medical associates was planning to go on a vacation. He was 49 years old and a native of Vienna, Austria.

Dr. R. H. Jaffe.

During the last two weeks Dr. Jaffe had played one of the leading rôles in the investigations into the deaths of thirteen infants stricken with a mysterious diarrhea at St. Elizabeth's hospital. Overexertion in this work may have contributed to his illness.

Wins Fame for Work.

A resident of Chicago since 1922, Dr. Jaffe became nationally famous for his work in pathology and bacteriology. He was one of the few doctors serving as a professorial teacher in both the University of Illinois and University of Chicago medical schools.

He was brought here by Dr. C. S. Bacon, 2333 Cleveland avenue, to develop the laboratories of the Grant hospital. Soon afterwards he was added to the County hospital faculty, and became chief pathologist. He still retained his post at Grant hospital.

Starts Career in Vienna.

Dr. Jaffe began his medical career in Vienna and in 1913 was appointed assistant professor of pathology at the University of Vienna. He left that position to come to Chicago with Dr. Bacon and became a naturalized citizen in 1928. He belonged to the city, state, and national medical associations.

FORREST LAMONT DIES; VETERAN OF OPERA IN CHICAGO

Forrest Lamont, Canadian-American tenor long identified with the Chicago Opera company, died of pneumonia yesterday afternoon in the American hospital here. He had been ill only since Sunday night. Mr. Lamont is survived by his widow, Eunice Steen, concert and opera soprano.

Born in Athleston, Canada, on Jan. 26, 1885, and brought up in the eastern part of the United States, Mr. Lamont as a young man went to Italy for further music study. His foreign debut was made in Rome just before the war, on May 18, 1914.

At the beginning of hostilities he held a contract with the Imperial Opera of Moscow, but his plans were changed by the war. Cleofonte Campanini, director of the Chicago Opera company, brought Mr. Lamont here about 1916. He was active in Chicago musical performances from that time until 1932, when he began to devote his time to teaching. His final class was held last Saturday.

Mr. Lamont was especially successful in German and Italian opera, taking part in such works as "Die Walküre," "Tannhäuser," "Parsifal," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Tosca," "La Bohême," "Madame Butterfly," and "The Jewels of the Madonna."

MAXIMUM TAX SUSTAINED ON CURTIS ESTATE

A state inheritance tax of $306,238 will be paid on the $2,123,344 estate of James C. Curtis, casket manufacturer, who died June 9, 1936, as a result of a ruling yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court. A half brother, John C. Curtis, and a niece, Mrs. Grace Watson, are the beneficiaries.

The First National bank, as executor, objected to $240,215 of the tax and filed an appeal through the Corporate Fiduciaries association. Following a rule laid down a few days ago, the Supreme court held that the attorney general was correct in levying the highest possible tax rate on remainder interests in a trust estate.

News of Radio

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Whatever else may be the consequence of Mae West's intrusion into the American family circle as a salacious Eve last Sunday evening, of this listeners may be sure: The Broadcasters have sharpened their blue pencils and given out instructions that the fellows who push them are to work every day, Sundays included. That was apparent from the letter of apology that Stanley Resor, president of the J. Walter Thompson company, producers of the Charlie McCarthy & Co. program, sent to Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, president of NBC, and from his reply.

The West venture was a mistake, Mr. Resor said, but one that will not happen again. Maj. Lohr, in his reply, admitted the network's joint culpability for the lapse. Such an apology from a major network and agency is unprecedented in radio annals.

It is likely that the next few months will witness a drift away from the Hollywood guest-star-on-every-program trend. There are straws in the wind indicating that the crest of the Hollywood swing has been reached—and passed.

Several programs that have held forth in Hollywood for some time are moving back to New York or elsewhere and almost all the new programs coming up with the new year are more in the radio tradition than the noisome Hollywood ballyhoo programs that have been surfeiting the air lanes.

Rudy Vallee has gone back to New York; Fred Allen, Eddie Cantor, and Phil Baker are soon to follow; Fiber McGee and Molly, who planned to move from Chicago to Hollywood, are staying here and thinking it over. Morton Downey and Lawrence Tibbett, who have been missing from the air lanes, have landed new sponsors to originate in the east; a new coast to coast musical variety hour titled Double Everything is to be launched from local CBS studios day after Christmas; the Toscanini Symphonic concert series gets going Christmas night from New York; the new cigaret show featuring Paul Whiteman will move east after four weeks in Hollywood; Ben Bernie's new show is using standard radio acts and is to start in New York; Grand Hotel is reëstablishing itself here, and there are to be a flock of new daytime offerings from Chicago studios when January comes—several of high promise.

COMFORTING RELIEF FOR YOUR "HEAVY" CHEST COLD

Tonight—rub your chest with Penetro before you go to bed. It will ease tightness and pressure so that your cold will "feel easier," you'll be more comfortable. Penetro combines 113% to 227% more medication than any other nationally sold cold salve together with a base of mutton suet, to create thorough counter-irritant action, thereby increasing blood flow and stimulating greater body heat.

Because mutton suet is an animal fat, it helps to better "hold in" this heat by conserving and concentrating it. That's why Penetro brings you such comforting relief, relieves the congestion and pressure of your "heavy" cold. Its aromatic vapors are inhaled into nasal passages to help open up stuffy noses, make breathing easier. Keep stainless, snow-white Penetro on hand to use generously on both children and adults. 35c a jar. Accept no substitute—be sure to ask for Penetro. Sold by all dealers.

Large Crops Offset Lower Prices.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The United States department of agriculture yesterday estimated that the cash income of American farmers from crops and live stock will be approximately $8,500,000,000 this year, compared with $7,920,000,000 in 1936.

This increase of $580,000,000 will occur, the department said, in spite of the fact that prices of farm products this year have been lower than in 1936. The better yields which farmers had on virtually every major crop, combined with increased income through government soil conservation and benefit payments, were responsible for the increase in total cash payments. Government subsidies totaled $380,000,000, compared with $287,000,000 in 1936.

Farmers' cash income this year will be the largest since the 1929 boom year, when income was $10,479,000,000, and about twice the 1932 income of $4,328,000,000, which was the low since 1924. However, this year's income was about half a billion dollars less than had been predicted by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Change Computing Method.

The figures on income, the department explained, represent only the estimated cash receipts on products actually sold. In previous years the department based its estimate on the gross farm value of the crops, comprising both the cash income received and the value of products consumed on the farm. The new basis has been substituted because it affords a better yardstick of farm buying power, department officials said.

Income from live stock and live stock products increased to $4,280,000,000 from $4,171,000,000 last year despite the smaller number of animals marketed. Crops marketed will bring a cash return of $3,840,000,000, against $3,462,000,000 in 1937, the department said.

Wheat will yield $666,549,000 this year compared with the $408,000,000 realized on last season's short harvest, it was estimated. The comparatively big harvest of wheat this year more than makes up for the fact that wheat is now selling 40 cents a bushel below the price quoted last year.

Corn Income Less Favorable.

Corn producers find themselves in a less favorable position. This year's crop is more than a billion bushels larger than the meager 1936 return, but the estimated cash return on this year's crop will amount to only $234,385,000, compared with $243,665,000 in 1936. This applies to only the comparatively small part of the total crop that is marketed commercially, and does not include corn fed to live stock on the farm. In normal years 90 per cent of the crop "doesn't cross the county line," being consumed on the farm.

The department's report includes the final production estimates on all major crops, the total harvested acreage and the estimated yields per acre. In most instances the estimates are changed only slightly from the earlier figures released.

Midwest Income Estimated.

The cash income of farmers in Illinois and Indiana, and in some other states in the middle western corn belt is smaller than last year, the department reported, due largely to the comparatively low price at which corn is selling. These states account for a large share of the corn that is marketed commercially.

Illinois	488,869,000	522,001,000
Michigan	215,807,000	246,198,000
Wisconsin	310,136,000	332,013,000
Minnesota	360,104,000	358,907,000
Iowa	569,377,000	522,356,000
Missouri	270,564,000	284,601,000
North Dakota	97,079,000	118,296,000
South Dakota	107,736,000	102,908,000
Nebraska	276,694,000	252,800,000
Kansas	306,018,000	343,144,000

The bureau of agricultural economics forecast yesterday that the decline in prices of farm products that began after this year's bumper harvests will not be extended further in the early months of 1938.

The November price level, the bureau said, was the lowest since the summer of 1936 and was about 18 per cent lower than January this year.

KENTUCKY LIFTS SO. PACIFIC'S TAX VALUE $800,000,000

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 17.—(AP)—An increase of over $800,000,000 in the 1937 tax assessment of the Southern Pacific company, which has headquarters in Woodford county, was announced today by the department of revenue. The 1937 assessment, which will not become final for thirty days, is $812,638,750, compared with $11,000,000 last year. The increase was in nonoperating, intangible franchise valuation, which had not previously been listed in the annual valuation.

The final assessment of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company was boosted from $95,100,000 to $111,928,952, and the company, the department announced, has agreed to pay its taxes immediately to local tax authorities, waiving the thirty-day period allowed by law.

Other large assessments announced today, all tentative, included: Ford Motor company, $108,608, an increase of $46,000; North American Car corporation, $129,685; Western Fruit Express, $167,558, a decrease of $13,000; Wisconsin Steel company, $275,717, an increase of $35,000.

Hibbard Pays Extra Dividend of 50 Cents

An extra dividend of 50 cents was declared yesterday by directors of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., hardware company, payable Dec. 28 to stock of record Dec. 18. This is in addition to the regular monthly dividend of 20 cents declared at the September meeting for December, and makes total dividends this year $3.50 a share.

Directors of Abbott Laboratories declared an initial dividend of 46½ cents on the 20,000 shares of issued 4½ per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock. It is a fractional payment for the period Dec. 8 to Jan. 15.

Pays on Arrearages.

Northern Indiana Public Service company announced that dividends equal to one and one-half the regular quarterly rate would be paid Dec. 23 applicable to arrearages on the 7 per cent, 6 per cent, and 5½ per cent preferred issues. The payments are those that would usually be made in January.

An initial dividend of $2 on class B common stock was voted by directors of Waltham Watch company. This is the first disbursement on the shares since the company was reorganized in 1923. The company also declared a dividend of $7 on the prior preferred stock, to be paid quarterly during 1938 out of 1937 earnings.

General Paint and Varnish company declared an extra dividend of $4 in addition to the usual quarterly payment of $2 on the common stock, and ordered the usual quarterly payment on preferred shares.

Directors of Pearson company, Inc., decided not to pay a dividend on the common stock at this time, according to a letter mailed to stockholders yesterday. The company has paid 15 cents this year. John S. Pearson, president, said that the corporation would show a profit for the year.

New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld the national labor relations board's order directing the Consolidated Edison company to reinstate employés allegedly discharged because of union activities. SEC Advises Care in Broker Fee Boost Plan

New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission, in a letter to the New York Stock exchange today, suggested a cautious attitude toward proposed increases in rates charged by exchange members to customers for buying and selling securities, and said public hearings may be advisable.

The commission seemed more favorable to boosts in rates as they might benefit so-called "commission houses"—those dealing directly with the investing public.

Suggests Further Study.

However, the SEC expressed belief the charges of specialists [those "making a market" in a single stock], floor traders [those dealing mainly for their own or another broker's account], and odd-lot dealers [those selling or buying small lots of stock for investors at a slight increase over the 100-share price] might merit further investigation.

Charles R. Gay, president of the exchange, transmitting the commission's letter to exchange members, pointed out that specialists and floor traders received their compensation from other members of the exchange and implied odd-lot dealers received their small premium for their service in dealing in less than normal-sized lots.

See Hint of SEC Action.

No comment was forthcoming from the exchange on the commission's letter other than Gay's letter of transmission; but brokerage quarters believed there was a clear implication the commission may be contemplating a general public study of the whole fee structure of the exchange's business.

The commission's letter was careful to point out it was not prepared at present to express either approval or disapproval of the proposed higher charges, expected to average about 11 per cent to the individual brokerage customer.

The governing body of the exchange this week approved a schedule of higher charges and referred it to the membership.

RFC RAIL LOANS ARE APPROVED BY ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, at a press conference today, approved the revival of government loans to distressed railroads. He said that the stoppage of loans to the railroads in the last few months was only a general rule, and that exceptions were to be expected.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement came after Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation had announced yesterday that limited loans would be made by his organization.

Jones said he believed only a few railroads would need "tiding over" until the interstate commerce commission acted on the carriers' request for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates. He added, in reply to a question, that he believed less than $25,000,000 of RFC funds would be required.

The Erie has asked for slightly more than $6,000,000. The Nashville-Franklin seeks $250,000. The Boston and Maine will ask for $2,000,000.

UTILITY HEAD DENIES PLAN TO SELL PROPERTY

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—J. E. Davidson, president of the Nebraska Power company, said today the company has had no negotiations with public power projects, or any one else, for purchase of its properties, "nor is Nebraska Power interested in disposing of its properties."

[Establishment of a statewide govthree, PWA financed, power and irriquisition of private utilities by the ernment power monopoly through acgation districts, on the Platte river in Nebraska had been proposed. The estimated total cost of the properties is $100,000,000.]

At North Platte, former Gov. Keith Neville, a director of the Platte River Valley Power and Irrigation district, announced he will vote against the purchase of private utilities by the PWA projects. He said he believed low electrical rates "cannot be enjoyed for many years if the utilities are purchased under the proposed plan."

AUTO SALES POLICIES DEFENDED BY HEAD OF PACKARD MOTOR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—A house interstate commerce subcommittee heard a defense today of current distribution and selling policies of automobile manufacturers and dealers.

Alvan Macauley.

Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard Motor company and of the Automobile Manufacturers' association, told the committee the association believed it had organizations of dealers who were "aggressive, prosperous, and capable."

He was testifying on a resolution by Representative Withrow [Prog., Wis.] to order a federal trade commission investigation of policies of both manufacturers and dealers.

Macauley said he would not object to the inquiry if it did not operate to raise consumer costs by price-fixing, or "artificial curb on distribution."

Macauley assailed the belief that the used car is an evil, asserting that there are two used car buyers for every new car sold in this country. "If used cars were an evil and were to be destroyed," he said, "then perhaps not one-third of the present motorists, hardly 10,000,000 persons, could afford to buy and operate their own vehicles."

FREIGHT TRAFIC DECLINES LESS THAN NORMALLY

Railroad freight trafic last week declined less than the usual seasonal amount, due largely to a sharp rise in coal shipments as a result of the nation-wide cold spell. Loadings of revenue freight during the seven day period ended Dec. 11 totaled .622,131 cars, a decrease of 1,206 cars, or less than 1 per cent, from the preceding week, according to the report of the Association of American Railroads.

Loadings during the week were 166,965 cars, or 15.7 per cent, below those of the corresponding week of 1936, but showed an increase of 5,481 cars over the like week of 1935. In the preceding three weeks loadings this year dropped below the same weeks in 1935.

Business Books

"The A B C of Municipal Bonds," by Louis E. Lebenthal. (Harper & Brothers, 49 East 33d street, New York. Price $1.50.)

This book is an explanation of fundamental considerations facing the investor in municipal bonds. It is written in a style that can be understood by a person with a limited knowledge of finance.

"International Short-Term Capital Movements," by Charles Poor Kindleberger. (Columbia University Press, 2960 Broadway, New York. Price $3.)

This book discusses the importance of international short term capital movements both in the balance of payments and in their relations to the national monetary economy.

The author maintains that short-term capital movements are qualifications to gold shipments and should be treated as such. Therefore, gold movements should be offset when they are due solely to movement of short term funds, he contends. He defines equilbrium in the foreign exchange markets and in the balance of payments as that period when, at a given rate of exchange the balance of payments exerts neither inflationary nor deflationary force on the national money income.

Gen. Electric to Pay Million Sharing Profit

The General Electric company announced yesterday that its Schenectady, N. Y., plant will distribute $1,050,000 to 16,072 employés under its profit sharing plan, the largest payment since the plan was put into operation in April, 1934.

The distribution represents the employés' share in the profits earned during the last half of 1937, said the company's announcement. In the first six months of the year the profit sharing arrangement returned $650,000 to 15,300 employés.

General Electric will pay its fourth quarter dividend on Dec. 20 to 199,718 stockholders, the largest number in the history of the company, and an increase of 9,674 over a year ago.

Other Special Payments.

Several other companies announced special payments of various kinds, such as Christmas bonuses, paid vacations or "employé dividends."

The General Finance corporation announced through its Chicago office that a Christmas bonus ranging up to 6 per cent of annual salaries will be paid to employés. The maximum of 6 per cent will be paid to persons who have been with the company three years or more. Those with two to three years' service will receive 5 per cent of yearly earnings and others employed less than two years will receive payments in proportion.

Esquire-Coronet, Inc., Chicago publishing company, announced a bonus of 10 per cent of 1937 earnings will be paid Monday to all employés. The distribution will total $40,000 and will be shared by 258 employés in Chicago and New York offices of the company. There are 177 in the Chicago office.

Birtman Electric Payment.

The Birtman Electric company, Chicago, makers of household electrical goods, ordered payment of a $25 bonus to factory employés who have been with the company one year or more, $15 to those employed six months to a year, and $10 for persons employed less than six months. The company said these bonuses are in addition to $15,000 of profit sharing payments.

A bonus of two weeks' salary to all office, factory and warehouse employés, and vacations with pay for all employés, were voted by the directors of the General Paint and Varnish company, Chicago. The vacations will range from one to two weeks, depending upon length of service.

The Bausch and Lomb Optical company, Rochester, N. Y., made known its plan to distribute more than $100,000 as a "special employés' dividend." The payment will be shared by approximately 4,000 persons, and will be made this week.

Bonus and Pay Increase.

The Railroad Employees' corporation, New York, announced that bonuses varying from $7.50 to three weeks' pay will be paid to all employés, in addition to a 5 per cent wage increase. The pay increase will become effective Jan. 1.

A year-end bonus ranging from one to two weeks' salary, depending on length of service, will be paid by the Trust Company of North America, a New York concern.

Harry F. Chaddick, president of the Standard Freight Lines, Chicago, said bonuses of $25 to $100 will be distributed to employés.

Christmas bonuses of "approximately $75,000" will be paid employés of the Globe Oil and Refining company, F. J. Jehle, vice president and general manager, announced.

HANES, NEW SEC MEMBER, TO SELL EXCHANGE SEAT

New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Moving to cut his Wall street ties, John W. Hanes, recently nominated to a vacancy on the Securities and Exchange commission, has posted his stock exchange seat for transfer and resigned from the board of the Tri-Continental corporation, it was revealed today.

Hanes' exchange membership will be transferred to John B. Moriarty, associated with the firm of Mitchel & Watts, which has its office with Charles D. Barney & Co., of which Hanes is the senior member.

EDISON'S PROFIT FOR NOVEMBER IS BELOW 1936

Earnings for Eleven Months Higher.

The Commonwealth Edison company and its subsidiary, the Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation, yesterday reported a decline in November net income to $1,065,514, or 14 cents a share on 7,733,676 shares, from net income of $1,166,842, or 18 cents a share on 6,450,520 shares, in the corresponding month a year ago.

James Simpson.

November was the first month this year that net income of the company has dipped below the corresponding 1936 month. Net income for eleven months ended Nov. 30, however, totaled $13,346,511, or $2 a share, compared with net income of $9,146,318, or $1.42 a share, in the corresponding 1936 period.

Operating Revenues Increase.

November operating revenues were $7,696,003, a moderate increase over revenues of $7,215,690 in the same month last year. The decline in November net income in the face of larger revenues was attributed in part to higher expenses. In eleven months ended Nov. 30, gross revenues were $79,578,305, against $75,446,371 in the corresponding 1936 period.

In comparing per share earnings with 1936 periods the company computed the equivalent of the present $25 par shares in the old $100 par common stock outstanding a year ago. The old shares have since been split four for one.

James Simpson, chairman of the board of Commonwealth Edison, announced after a directors' meeting yesterday that the company has filed with the New York Stock exchange an application for listing of its stocks and bonds on that exchange.

New Position Created.

The directors created a new position of general counsel and announced Charles Y. Freeman was elected to the office effective Jan. 1. He will act as chief consulting officer of the company in all legal matters, Simpson said. In the absence of the chairman, the powers and duties of the chairman will be performed by the general counsel.

The Outboard Marine and Manufacturing company and subsidiary earned $940,370, or $3.16 a capital share, in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, compared with combined net earnings of $679,853, or $2.29 a share, by predecessor companies in the preceding year, the company reported yesterday.

The B. F. Avery & Son company, manufacturer of farm tools and implements, had profit of $475,876, equal after preferred dividends to $3.43 a share on 134,385 common shares issued and to be issued. No comparative figures were given.

ILLINOIS GRANTS RAIL RATE BOOST, WITH EXCEPTIONS

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday approved, with certain exceptions, the new tarif schedule of the railroads calling for a 10 per cent boost in freight rates on selected commodities. The increase is effective Dec. 20.

The increase applies on shipments which originate and have their distribution within Illinois. A similar increase on interstate business of the railroads was granted by the interstate commerce commission recently.

The Illinois commission allowed exemptions to the new tarif in all cases in which formal objections were filed.

These exemptions apply only on shipments between specified points and not on all intrastate business. They were granted chiefly in cases where special competitive situations exist. The principal exemptions apply to sand, gravel, crushed stone, limestone, fertilizer, brick and clay products, paper board and paper board products, certain cotton seed products, and sulphuric acid in tank cars.

The bonds are redeemable from 1951 to 1956, one-sixth of them annually. Subscriptions already amount to 250,000,000 [$100,750,000] marks. The issue price was 98¾. The last loan was for 700,000,000 marks [$282,225,300], issued Sept. 10, 1937.

MIDWEST ROADS RENEW PLEA TO BUY M.-ST. L. LINE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Associated Railways company, composed of seven railroads operating out of Chicago, renewed today its fight for interstate commerce commission approval of its plan to purchase the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad.

The company filed a brief with the interstate commerce commission, asking that it overrule a formal recommendation against such purchase by C. E. Boles, assistant director of the commission's finance section. The brief contended Boles "erroneously assumes that the Associated Railways plan, if carried out, will be the cause of dismemberment of the M. & St. L." It added that the plan was "not a cause but a result of the prior and independent situation created by the court's decree of foreclosure and order of sale of the M. & St. L. properties."

"What applicants are seeking in this proceeding," the brief continued, "is nothing more than the right to acquire these properties—which are to be offered and sold in separate parcels—in the event Associated Railways company is the successful bidder."

REVEAL TERMS OF U. S.-ITALIAN TRADE TREATY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—The state department announced today the provisions of a temporary commercial arrangement between the United States and Italy. It was signed in Rome and became effective yesterday. The arrangement continues in effect the most-favored-nation treatment provided in the commercial treaty of Feb. 26, 1871, made at Florence. The old treaty expired Dec. 15 and a new one is being negotiated.

The United States agrees to accord to Italy the benefits of the minium tariff under the trade agreements. Italy agrees to grant the United States most-favored-nation treatment with the exception of preferential tarifs which Italy now accords Albania, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria, and Jugo-Slavia, which expire Dec. 31, and the preferential tarifs which Italy will accord Austria after Dec. 31.

REVEAL PENNSY ASSETS AMOUNT TO 3⅓ BILLIONS

Surplus Largest of Any Corporation.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—A consolidated balance sheet for the Pennsylvania railroad system—something hitherto unpublished—was disclosed by the senate's railroad finance committee today. It showed gross assets of $3,304,128,547 at the end of 1936, more than a billion dollars higher than the $2,282,453,010 shown in the published consolidated balance sheet of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, the top holding company of the system.

The system balance sheet, however, was described as "merely a statistical statement" by Francis J. Fell Jr., controler of the company. Though never made public before, the system sheet has been prepared annually since 1934 for the information of Pennsylvania directors, Fell said.

System Has Largest Surplus.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], chairman of the committee, said the surplus of $906,228,106 shown for the system is the largest surplus of any corporation in the United States.

Records of the committee show that the road reported surplus of $485,533,087 to its stockholders in the consolidated company statement for 1936. Wheeler contended, however, that Pennsylvania stockholders actually have an interest of $871,097,496 in the system surplus. He said that there was no way stockholders could calculate this surplus.

"After we calculated it and handed it to them what would it mean?" replied Martin W. Clement, president of the road. "It might be more misleading than otherwise."

Clement explained that the surplus represented securities, equipment, and roads and not what some might at first hand consider "distributable cash."

Differ on Stock Value.

A statement showing the book value of one share of Pennsylvania Railroad company stock as $87.64 on Dec. 31, 1936, on the basis of the company balance sheet, was placed in the record. Committee investigators then said the book value was $116.93 on the basis of the system balance sheet. Clement said these figures were misleading.

"If the interstate commerce commission would come out with a statement that our stock was worth $116 a share it would be a happy day for me," he said.

"The gross assets of the Pennsylvania system exceed any previously published figures by an amount nearly as large as the gross assets of the Nickel Plate railroad," said Wheeler. "The system's assets are larger actually than those of any United States corporation except the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the two largest insurance companies."

Income Much Larger.

Committee records showed the system balance sheet included only companies in which the Pennsylvania Railroad company had a 50 per cent or larger stock ownership or those held under long term lease.

Including 111 companies in their calculations, the investigators figured net income of the system at $47,803,612 last year, compared with $38,742,092 as reported by the company. Consolidated net profit was $16,318,873 more than in 1935.

AUTO OUTPUT SINKS; FURTHER LOSS FORECAST

Output of automobiles by American and Canadian factories this week was estimated yesterday at 82,025 units by Ward's automotive reports. This compared with 85,763 cars and trucks last week and 122,960 in the corresponding week last year.

Ford Motor company's output this week rose to 25,115 units, the agency said, from 22,615 last week. General Motors production fell to 30,825 from 31,620. Chrysler production was placed at 15,850 against 19,600.

"Believe it or not, we're in the money! Now you can have the things you want for the house, and we're looking for a new car at once! You certainly had the right idea when you said the way to get a better job was to study and train for it!"

Business is always willing to pay more for men who know their jobs. It's hard to find experts. That's why the demand is great and the rewards high. If you train for a specialized work, you can almost always command a good salary.

Stocks, Bonds

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Dec. 17.—The stock market reversed its recent trend today and in one of the slowest sessions in two weeks closed fractions to around 1⅛ points lower. Sales totaled 792,760 shares, compared with 1,030,000 on Thursday.

Early dealings today promised better results. Prices of leading stocks were firm to higher, but the list soon turned dull. Steel and motor stocks, leaders in recent advances, dipped fractions to a point or more and than held within narrow limits.

The reversal was attributed partly to the fact some traders took profits accruing in the last two days. Further year-end tax selling dribbled into the list.

Anaconda, American Smelting, and International Nickel were the heaviest losers in the copper group. Electric power and light issues were neglected and showed only small fractional changes at the close. An exception was United corporation which was the second most active issue.

Carrier shares were active for a time, but they joined the decline. Atchison, Chesapeake and Ohio, and New York Central were leaders. Motors continued heavy, with General Motors, Chrysler, and Packard in relatively large supply. Chrysler fell 1¼ points.

American Telephone rose a fraction, but Western Union and International Telephone eased.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—United States government obligations were prominent in today's bond market, closing at gains ranging up to 6-32s of a point. They were buoyant throughout the session, some issues showing advances as large as 8-32s at one time.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks closed lower again in quiet trading yesterday. Of the 93 issues traded 44 declined, 20 advanced, and 29 finished unchanged. Sales totaled 34,000 shares, against 33,000 shares in the preceding session.

Chicago corporation common, the most active issue, moved up ¼ point to 2⅛, and Wisconsin Bankshares, second most active issue, advanced ¾ to 4¾.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were irregular yesterday. American National was quoted unchanged to as much as $10 lower by various dealers. First National was unchanged to $1 higher, and Lake Shore Trust and Savings unchanged to $2 higher. Others were steady.

COURT UPHOLDS FIRM'S RIGHT IN LOCATING OFFICE

Rules in Appeal Over Tax Assessment Decision.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Illinois Supreme court upheld today the right of corporations to locate their main offices in counties with tax rates, even though their principal business is not transacted there.

The opinion gave the Illinois Water Service company the privilege of having its capital stock assessed at Reading, in Livingston county, asserting "business prudence prompted it."

Champaign county and the state tax commission appealed the case from the Livingston county Circuit court, contending the company should be assessed at Champaign, where its principal business is transacted.

Opinion of Court.

"A corporation doing business in a number of places is under no duty to the state, or to any municipality, to locate its principal place of business where taxes are the highest," the opinion stated. "The facts in this case do not disclose any effort to evade taxes. The most that can be said is that the company, in selecting its principal place of business, located where it had large holdings and a lower tax rate than prevailed in other localities where its business was carried on.

"There is no vice in doing so. Business prudence would prompt it."

Rules on Preservative.

In another decision upholding the constitutionality of part of the state pure food act, the court ruled that the use of sodium sulphite as a preservative in the manufacture of pork sausage was illegal.

"It is immaterial that the appellant used sodium sulphite only on fresh meats," the court ruled in upholding a $15 fine against the Quality Provision Company, Inc., imposed by the Chicago Municipal court.

IGOE GETS BACK FROM PARLEY ON UTILITIES POWER

United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe yesterday returned from Washington, where he conferred with officials of the department of justice, the Securities and Exchange commission, and the postoffice department on the affiairs of the Utilities Power and Light corporation and the Cord corporation.

The Utilities Power and Light corporation, undergoing reorganization under the bankruptcy act, was placed in charge of a trustee several months ago at the request of the SEC. E. L. Cord, former chairman of Cord corporation, severed his connection with the latter company last August after an SEC investigation of alleged stock manipulation.

Igoe said that he obtained the evidence gathered by the government agencies in their investigation of the two concerns but had made no decision what action his office may take. Warren Canaday, first assistant district attorney, remained in Washington with Postoffice Inspector Robert E. Lewis to gather more material.

Engagement of another $5,800,000 of gold in Japan for shipment to the United States was reported by the New York federal reserve bank yesterday. A similar amount was engaged in Japan on Thursday for shipment to this country. This latest shipment will bring to $245,300,000 the total of gold sent to the United States by Japan since March 8.

Gold exports in the week ended Dec. 10 totaled $10,040,132, compared with imports of $1,982,520, the department of commerce reported. Of the total exports during the period, $10,000,320 went to France. The only other week in which gold exports have exceeded imports during the last two years was in the week ended Nov. 26.

More About Price Control.

The National Industrial Conference board, a privately financed research organization, recently completed a study of the results of commodity price control by 9 countries, including the experiments of the United States in wheat and cotton.

In seven of the nine cases studied, the board found, the country fixing prices was producing or exporting a smaller portion of the world total after the price pegging became effective than before the experiments were begun. Surplus supplies accumulated rapidly in every instance because the high prices brought about in the early stages encouraged increases in production. To prevent the surplus from breaking the price it was necessary in several cases for the government to take large supplies out of the market.

The pattern followed by the price control operations in various countries was strikingly similar. They usually began with a voluntary production restriction program and price pegging by a government agency. Later compulsory curtailment of production was found necessary.

Tomorrow: Price Control Concluded.

Investors' Guide

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

Midwest Life Insurance company.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on the status of Midwest Life Insurance Company of Lincoln, Neb.—F. A. S.

Answer: Formed in 1906 this company is licensed to do business in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, and Oklahoma. It is a stock company, and writes both participating and nonparticipating policies.

The company wrote $3,020,000 of insurance in 1936, compared with $3,633,000 and $2,946,000 in the two preceding years. The amount in force was $20,417,000 at the end of 1936, compared with $20,655,000 and $20,-176,000 a year and two years earlier.

The proportions of assets in various types of investments is somewhat unorthodox. Excluding $915,000 of policy loans, only 12 per cent of $4,813,000 admitted assets was in bonds. Mortgage loans, which seem of good quality and yield a good return, amounted to 48 per cent, and real estate to 24 per cent of assets. The ratios for the life insurance business as a whole are 57, 23, and 11 per cent, respectively.

Income was $765,000 and total disbursements were $621,000 during 1936. Cash yield on assets as a whole was 3.7 per cent, a fair rate of return.

Expenses and lapses are moderate. Mortality is favorable. Net cost to policyholders has been low. Reserves are set up mainly on the minimum basis in general use.

A leading insurance analytical agency recommends this company, subject to improvements in the real estate portfolio. It comments that margins for contingencies appear to be small.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. R. Bonds.

Investors' Guide: I would like to know which class of Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad company bonds comes under the heading of first claim. What issues are paying interest? What are ratings?—W. J.

Answer: Bonds of the "Katy" may be placed in three classes. The first 4s of 1990 rank at the top. They are secured by a first lien on 1,376 miles of track and are considered reasonably sound. Next come the prior lien 4s and 5s of 1962 and the prior lien 4½s of 1978. Although interest is being paid on these issues, they are junior to the 4s of 1990 and are somewhat speculative. At the bottom are the $13,600,000 of adjustment 5s of 1967. They are subject to more than $90,000,000 of other bonds, and unpaid interest amounts to 10 per cent. They are definitly a speculation.
